MAYOR STARTS WAR ON INSULL 'L' ROAD OFFER

Calls It a Thrust at City Ownership.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Mayor Dever sailed out last night against Samuel Insull's offer to build new rapid transit "L" lines at a cost of $23,000,000, financing the improvements by issuing preferred stock to "customer owners" and dividing the profits. He holds that the Insull plan would knock municipal ownership and operation into a cocked hat. He announced he is "unalterably opposed" to the granting of any further franchises to private transportation companies, such as would be needed for the proposed "L" extensions.

Haunted by Suspicion.

The mayor's statement was issued as the result of a twelve hour conference, of rather anguished tone, with Corporation Counsel Busch and other advisers. The participants seemed haunted by a suspicion that all was not well with M. O. and that their hands had been called for a showdown twice, once on subways by the aldermen and once on "L" transit by Mr. Insull. The day was quite reminiscent of the old days of [illegible], eighteen years or so ago.

Confer for Twelve Hours.

Originally, it appears, the conference was called to devise ways of appeasing the city council committee on transportation, which on Thursday afternoon demanded a quick start on a downtown subway. Meanwhile Mr. Insull on Thursday night outlined his proposition before the bankers at the Union league, and early yesterday morning Mr. Busch galloped into the mayor's office and, in horrified tones, said it was a wallop at M. O.

From then until late in the evening, twelve hours in all, seven men wrinkled the old brow and worked the old needle in preparing a 1,200 word statement on the situation. Through its warp and woof ran the idea that somebody is trying to make M. O. bite the dust after months of delightful conversation in which everything was apparently settled except the items of construction, operation, and purchase price, the merest bagatelles, of course.

"M. O. or City Built Lines."

The mayor's utterance said the time has arrived to call upon the surface and elevated lines for a declaration as to whether they would proceed toward a settlement upon the principle of M. O. If they turn a glassy eye upon M. O., then the administration will present an alternative traction program.

The line this program would take, it is indicated, is this: The building, through Schwartz certificates and the traction fund, of elevated lines and subways by the city to compete with the present "L" system with a view of squeezing it into M. O.

Something like the process Detroit employed against the traction lines.

To meet the demand of the council transportation committee for snappy action on a downtown subway plan the mayor proposes to submit a plan to join in a search for a feasible plan and to submit it to the voters at an early moment.

Mayor Surprised at Offer.

The administration frankly admitted it was worried over the proposition of the "L" system to double its carrying capacity through the use of private capital and the building of a midcity downtown route that would carry through passengers a short way to their destination without coming through the downtown loop. Likewise the "let's go" action of the city council committee on transportation in demanding a quick start on a downtown subway added to the excitement.

"Municipal ownership and operation is the only way to a settlement," one portion of the mayor's statement says. "I am surprised at this juncture that Mr. Insull should submit a plan so directly opposed to the fundamental principles of traction settlement as set forth in my traction message and which have been accepted as the basis of negotiations for the last few months."

Insull Gets Into Action.

Meanwhile Mr. Insull conferred with [illegible] I. Budd, president of the "L" lines, and lawyers were instructed to prepare necessary ordinances covering the rapid transit elevated extensions outlined in the Insull plan. The engineering phases have been worked out in detail during the last few months. It is expected that ordinances or a

RICH DESIGNER KILLED BY I. C. SUBURBAN TRAIN

Jay Bassett Beel, 46 years old, wealthy designer of art light fixtures, was killed late yesterday by an Illinois Central suburban train at the 47th street station. Beel lived at 4761 Dorchester avenue.

Mystery surrounds the death. The police are attempting to discover whether it was accidental or a suicide.

Passengers on the rear platform of the train saw Beel killed and pulled the signal cord, bringing the train to a stop. Trainmen ran back, but Beel was dead.

Mrs. Beel said her husband was in perfect health and had no reason that she knew for committing suicide. She demanded that the police investigate.

Beel is survived by the widow and two sons, Burton, 18 years old, and Charles, 19.

WOMAN TALKED TOO MUCH, NEW TRIAL IS ASKED

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 22.—That a woman defendant talked so much the jury hearing the case was unable to think, is the allegation upon which counsel for the plaintiff in a recent case here today were seeking a new trial.

Mrs. Josephine Woeltz Wurth was defendant in a suit brought by a bank for collection of a note for $150 which she was alleged to have signed as surety. Mrs. Wurth won a jury verdict.

In filing a motion for a new trial, plaintiff's counsel set forth that the defendant "talked to the jury to such an extent that an intelligent consideration of the case could not be had."

He was then taken to his home at 5634 South Ada street. Moran said he thought his assailants mistook him for some one else.

Gotham's Population Put at 6,015,496, by Gotham

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The population of New York City is 6,015,496, according to the "Little Green Book," the city's official directory, which is being distributed today. Its area is 316 square miles.

Ask Women's Clubs to Help "Lost Legion"

A great mass meeting to demand the official rescue of America's "lost battalion"—soldiers who fought for their country, but who still are behind prison bars, while the slackers, objectors, and spies who fought against it are free—will be held Sunday, March 2, at 2:30 p. m., in the Medinah temple, Cass and Ohio streets.

Speakers of national reputation, perhaps a senator or two and some congressmen will be there. Every patriotic citizen who is interested in the fate of the unfortunate soldiers is invited to attend.

Hopes for 5,000 Persons.

"Medinah temple," says Claude Fobare, chairman of the committee to rescue the "lost battalion," "seats 4,500 to 5,000 persons. It is to be hoped that there will not be a vacant seat.

"We want this meeting to be such as to leave no mistaken impression in the mind of any one who has the power to help, including President Coolidge."

The committee's headquarters is in room 203 Hotel Sherman. It will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. It may be reached by telephone by calling Franklin 2120 and asking for the committee to rescue the "lost battalion"—room 203.

Frank W. Bering, vice president and manager of the Hotel Sherman, presented the room for the headquarters to the veterans, realizing that they must have a central office.

With the headquarters taken care of, it is expected that practically nothing in money will be needed to carry on the work until action is taken in Washington.

The veteran and patriotic organizations now behind the movement say they wish to assure any organization which may from now on get behind them that no financial support will be needed from such organizations.

Want Help from Women.

"We are particularly anxious to get expressions from all the women's clubs and their moral support if they will give it to us," Claude Foubare, chairman of the committee, said. "We realize what a powerful influence the women's clubs have in matters of this sort."

While the work here went on, Joseph Norville, attorney of Memphis, Tenn., who was judge advocate in France, did what he could toward assisting in rescuing the "lost legion."

Traitors Got Their Reward.

Attorney Norville replied to a query from Congressman Allen F. Moore of Illinois:

"I have made no investigation relating to severity of sentences, justice or injustice of convictions, as those matters are now immaterial. Conceding every sentence properly awarded, all these men should now be released for the basic reason that it would establish a precedent whereby the coward and traitor and those willing to abandon and wreck their country receive better treatment and greater consideration than that shown loyal citizens willing to defend it."

G. O. P. SPLIT BY FOES, FRIENDS OF DAUGHERTY

Bankers Face Query About McLean.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The Republican party is split wide open on the question of what to do about Daugherty.

On the one side are the senate fathers, headed by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, majority leader, who are shivering at visions of party disaster in the presidential election if the attorney general remains on the administration ship and are imploring Coolidge to throw the Jonah overboard.

On the other side are those Republicans, following the lead of John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, who indignantly denounce the charges against Mr. Daugherty as a tissue of falsehood and innuendo.

Demand a Square Deal.

They invoke the American spirit of fair play against the mob movement to "lynch" the attorney general without a trial. Mr. Adams uttered the sentiments of this faction in a vigorous formal statement defending Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Denby, and the Republican party, denouncing official venality, and taking a shot at the retention by oil interests of former Wilson cabinet members to influence the Wilson administration.

And the Democrats are crowded on the side lines laughing their heads off over the row in the Republican camp and hoping Daugherty will stick in office till election day.

CALL C. BASCOM SLEMP

Among the other outstanding developments of the day were the following:

1. Announcement was made that C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the President, would be called as a witness Monday to testify concerning conferences he is said to have held at Palm Beach with Albert B. Fall and Edward B. McLean during the holidays.

2. Officials of the Federal-American National bank and the Commercial National bank of Washington have been notified to be ready to take the witness stand Monday to give testimony which may throw light on the $100,000 checks which McLean said he gave Fall.

Link Doheny to Big Deposit.

3. Milton E. Ailes, president of the Riggs National bank of Washington, will be called next week to testify, it is understood, concerning the deposit of a large sum of money in his bank by the Pan-American Oil company, of which Edward L. Doheny is the head.

4. Action on the Wheeler resolution for an investigation of Attorney General Daugherty and the department of justice was again deferred by agreement until Monday because of inability to settle the dispute over the method to be followed in selecting the committee to conduct the inquiry.

5. Daugherty, expecting to be the target of another bitter attack, went in person to the senate and took a seat on the floor, but his critics remained silent.

Suggests Wheeler Be Called.

6. E. L. Doheny, lessee of the California navy oil reserves, wrote Chairman Lenroot suggesting that Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] be summoned and asked to support his statement that the attorney general is a friend of Doheny and that Doheny, Sinclair and McLean frequently met in the Daugherty apartment.

7. Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.] returned to Washington after a brief rest at Pinehurst, N. C., and held a number of conferences preparatory to the resumption of hearings on Monday.

8. Harry F. Sinclair, Senator Walsh said, in all probability would be recalled to the witness stand for cross examination concerning the payments he made to Frederick G. Bonfils and his obligations to John C. Shaffer, newspaper publishers.

Walsh Criticises Bureaus.

9. Senator Walsh, in a statement, sharply criticised the failure of the various bureaus of investigation in the governmental departments to give him any aid in the inquiry.

That Mr. Slemp would be called has been rumored for some time, but the announcement that he would be asked to take the witness stand Monday nevertheless created something of a stir.

It was recalled that just before

House Votes Part Publicity for Incomes

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Partial publicity of tax returns is provided in an amendment to the tax bill adopted by the house in committee of the whole late today.

The amendment, which was supported by the Democrats and by insurgent Republicans and opposed by most of the regular Republicans, directs the secretary of the treasury to furnish information contained in income tax returns at the request of the finance committee of the senate, the ways and means committee of the house, or a special committee of either house. Any such information may be submitted by one of these committees to the full senate or house in the discretion of the committee. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 158 to 100.

Frear for Pitiless Publicity.

The house first rejected a much broader amendment for full publicity of tax returns offered by Representative Frear [Rep., Wis.], insurgent. Under the Frear amendment, which was defeated by a vote of 80 to 158, all tax returns of individuals would be public records and subject to inspection by any one.

Leading Democrats as well as Republicans objected to the Frear amendment on the ground that it would constitute an improper invasion of the rights of an individual to keep his private business affairs secret from his competitors or from his neighbors.

Danger of Plan Shown.

Rep. Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] spoke against the Frear resolution.

"This amendment proposes that in order to secure punishment of 100 or 500 crooks making dishonest tax returns, the private affairs of 6,000,000 people shall be published to the world," he said. "It violates every angle of Anglo Saxon fair play.

"What is to prevent a lawyer, in the practice of his business, from being attacked by a man who never made an honest dollar in his life?

"The proposal means that we are having a new government in America. It seems that Wisconsin rules the house and Wisconsin rules the senate. Mighty Wisconsin! Well, I will not follow the lead of Wisconsin when it goes into the privacy of the home."

State Officials Can Pry.

The house on the motion of Representative Barkley [Dem., Ky.] also broadened the powers of the present law, which authorizes certain state officials to obtain access to tax returns of corporations. Now it is provided that "the proper officers of any state imposing an income tax may, on the request of the governor thereof, have access to the returns of any corporation, etc."

The Barkley amendment, which was adopted by a vote of 120 to 119, struck out the words "imposing an income tax," the effect being to permit any state official designated by the governor in states not having income tax laws to obtain access to corporation returns.

As a result of the adoption of the amendments relative to access to income tax returns, Representative Mills [Rep., N. Y.], a member of the ways and means committee, declared that the house is destroying the income tax law and making it a political vehicle. He asserted that if passed in this form it will serve to harass persons and corporations with money and that it will become an object of hatred.

He said that any one with a political grudge and with sufficient influence with a governor of a state will be able to obtain access to corporation tax returns.

LAY KILLINGS TO BOOTLEGGING OR JEALOUSY

Seen These Two?

The following descriptions of Mr. and Mrs. "Jack" Horton, 1216 Carmen avenue, sought for information on the murders of John Duffy and his wife, were sent to all stations last night by Capt. Martin O'Malley of the Summerdale station:

A sensational double murder mystery, involving the theories of bootleg murder, revenge, or domestic trouble, centered the activities of most Chicago detectives last night.

Early yesterday morning the body of a man identified as John Duffy was found in a snowbank on a prairie on the southwestern edge of town. At 7 o'clock last night the body of a woman, believed to be "Mrs. John Duffy," was found in an apartment at 1216 Carmen avenue.

Both had been shot to death.

Woman Slain in Sleep.

Duffy, also known as "Edward Curtis," had, it is supposed, been slain and then carried in an automobile to the far southwest prairie. The woman who formerly resided at 447 South Third street, Louisville, Ky., and who has been variously identified as "Miss Mabel Exley," and as "Miss Virginia James," was shot as she lay asleep in the Carmen avenue apartment.

In the effects of the Duffys were found addresses and telephone numbers connected with the names of men well known to the police in the bootlegging traffic. Among these names was that of "Yankee" Schwartz, an associate of Dean O'Banion and present when O'Banion shot "Davy" Miller in front of the La Salle theater several weeks ago. On the theory that bootlegging may have incited the murders the police at an early hour this morning were scouring the city for all known bootleggers.

Begin Search for Couple.

Immediately a search was started to find Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. "Jack" Horton, a young couple who shared the apartment with Duffy and his wife. Learning that they had driven to Detroit ten days ago, Capt. John O'Malley of the Summerdale station sent telegrams to the Detroit and Indianapolis police to arrest the Hortons.

Letters found in the Carmen avenue apartment showed that Horton's mother lives in the latter city. There was an order to a florist for flowers to be sent her on Valentine's day, and a letter of thanks from the mother.

Works on Jealousy Theory.

Detective Edward Baynes, who was one of the first to begin the task of unravelling the mystery of the double murder, evolved the theory, based on a framework of fact, that both Duffy and the woman were slain by a jealous suitor of the woman.

It is known that "Mrs. Duffy" came from Louisville. The detective bureau learned last night that "Mrs. Duffy" was a person of means. Scattered about the Carmen avenue apartment were dozens of costly dresses and ornaments. There were a number of bank books showing accounts in the various names attributed to "Mrs. Duffy."

Detective Baynes declared it his belief that Duffy met the woman in Louisville and brought her to Chicago with him. They were followed, the detectives believe, by a rejected suitor or by a discarded "husband." Both were slain at a moment opportune to the persons who followed.

Traced to Carmen Avenue Flat.

Detectives were directed to the Carmen avenue address by the discovery of the body of Duffy, at a point opposite No. 7100 West 63d street. A tailor's mark carried the address 1216. Detectives went to the apartment, but could not gain admittance. A watch was placed at the front and rear doors. None returned to enter there, although a light was seen burning over a telephone table in the hall.

Last evening, shortly after 7 o'clock, the detectives decided to enter. They then found the second murder mystery.

Believes Horton a Bootlegger.

After examining the lists of telephone numbers found in the apartment, Acting Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker declared there is little doubt that Horton was a bootlegger. Dr. D. H. Levinthal of 3159 Roosevelt road, who admitted treating Duffy a few days ago for a fractured finger, was summoned for questioning. Shoemaker said that the physician had been called upon on several occasions to give medical aid to beer runners who had been shot.

Among the telephone numbers was that of Julian Kaufmann, 5120 Ingleside avenue, a friend of "Yankee" Schwartz. Kaufmann denied knowing any one by the name of Horton or Duffy, and he could not explain how the number came into their possession.

The following telegram, thought to be couched in a bootlegger's code, was received by Duffy on Feb. 19 from Ashland, Ky.:

"Call Main 1444 tonight or wire me. No love to all.—Ruby."

Letter from Kentucky Woman.

A special delivery letter bearing the postmark of this same Kentucky town was from a woman who had just been released from jail. She mentioned "Jack," whom she characterized as a double crosser.

More than a dozen Chicagoans whose names were discovered among the mass of letters and cards and memoranda will be called in by the police for questioning today. Among them are W. J. Richardson, who lives at Hotel Morrison and conducts a poolroom at 19 South Clark street. His name was given as a reference when Horton applied for the flat in Carmen avenue.

"He used to come in here quite often," admitted Richardson last night. "The last time was just before Christmas. Horton was a railroad man."

To several other persons, it was learned, Horton had given the same occupation. He said he was an investigator for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, but Frank Wenter and B. A. Little, heads of the personal inquiry and freight claims departments of this road, declared they had never heard of him.

DUFFY'S BODY ON PRAIRIE

The body of the man known as Duffy, partly covered with snow, was discovered shortly before daybreak yesterday by a motorist driving in to Chicago from Argo. There were three bullet wounds in his head. Evidently he had been thrown beside the road from an automobile after being murdered.

Detectives are working on the theory that Duffy was killed at about the same time that the woman was slain, and then was carried in a machine to the spot—fifteen miles air line from the murder scene—where he was found. Whatever domestic quarrel or other argument led to the double killing still is only a matter of conjecture.

Her Body Is Identified.

The body of the woman was discovered early last evening. Throughout the day detectives had lingered about the building waiting to arrest whoever might return to the apartment. No one was home.

An order of groceries left there the day before rested on the back porch. From the street the police could see that a light was burning inside.

About 7 o'clock Sergts. Edward Baynes and John Euson, growing tired of their vigil, decided to force an entrance. With a knife they jimmied the lock. But the door would not budge.

Crashing it open with their shoulders, the sergeants found that it had been nailed from the inside. The air was stale with the smell of whisky and cigaret smoke. An electric lamp burned on a small table in the hallway.

"Hello, you folks!" called Euson.

There was no answer, and the detectives stepped into the front room.

Empty Bottles; Dead Woman.

Standing on the carpet in the middle of the chamber was an empty liquor bottle. A blood stained bed sheet covered the davenport.

"See what is under it," said Euson.

Baynes lifted the sheet and uncovered the dead woman. She was about 25 years old, slight, short, clad in silk underwear and a pink and black shawl. Her brown hair was bobbed. Her face was pretty, as the detectives discovered when they wiped away the blood.

It was evident that the woman had been shot while sleeping. The bullet entered through her chin, passed out at the base of her head, and bored its way through the davenport and the wall.

"The murderer fired from a distance of about five feet," declared Dr. Joseph Springer, the coroner's physician, after making a hasty examination.

Murder Finale of Party.

The murder, apparently, came as a tragic finale of a gay party. Trays piled with the stubs of half smoked cigarets littered the place. On the dining room table stood a bottle containing only a few fingers of Scotch whisky. Beside it was a nearly empty wine bottle. Three glasses, stained with the liquor that had been quaffed earlier in the evening, stood close by.

On the kitchen table were the remains of a midnight meal. Three chairs were drawn up and two of the plates were empty. A third plate held an untouched sandwich and there was a cup of coffee beside it.

The bedroom which the Hortons occupied was in order, the sheets neatly spread. In contrast the Duffy couple's bed chamber was in disarray. In one of the dresser drawers detectives found fifty .38 caliber cartridges.

Maybe They Were Shots.

Mrs. Anna Ryerson, who occupies the apartment across the hall, said that she heard sounds of laughter coming from the Horton place before she retired. Several hours later she was awakened by a noise.

"No, I don't know what it was—maybe a revolver shot, maybe not," she said. "I remember looking at my watch. It was 3 o'clock in the morning.

"Immediately after waking, I heard sounds as if some one was working on the lock of the Norton's apartment. I thought burglars must be trying to break in, and so I aroused my husband. We didn't do anything about it, however."

Mrs. Ryerson said she remained awake the rest of the night, but there were no further sounds from across the hall. She did not hear the back door close as the murderer or murderers made a getaway.

Horton rented the third floor apart-

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—An executive order was issued last night through the secretary of the interior for my deportation from Mexico under article 33 of the Mexican constitution.

The charge made is "persistent misinterpretation of political news."

I understand that the secretary issued the order after some weeks of investigation of an article in THE TRIBUNE on Jan. 9 last regarding the destruction of the hacienda of Mrs. Rosalie Evans in the state of Puebla.

The above mentioned article was written under date of Monterey, Mexico, by Ralph Cameron, who now is in the United States. Mr. Wright knew nothing about it. The article, which has been confirmed by The Tribune in all respects, exclusively disclosed the operations of Obregon troops under command of Gen. Almazan on the hacienda Don Pedro Coatocamy Anexos, property of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a native of Brownsville, Tex.

This woman is a widow who for several years has blocked, often with arms, the efforts of bolshevik politicians of Puebla to seize a fine estate jointly developed by herself and her late husband. The buildings on the estate were burned by the Obregon soldiers, and the lone woman defender escaped only because of the fidelity of her servants. Her present whereabouts are unknown, and grave fears are entertained in the United States that she is not alive. Mrs. Evans' case was the subject of a special warning to Mexico from Charles Beecher Warren, just appointed United States ambassador to Mexico, while he was in Mexico City last summer on the claims convention mission. The Tribune story has been copied widely in Europe and South America.

FLAG IS RAISED, THEN LOWERED, RULE YESTERDAY

In answer to numerous queries received at THE TRIBUNE office yesterday asking the correct way to fly the United States flag to commemorate the memory of George Washington, Mr. Nadl, custodian of the federal building, said:

"Ex-President Woodrow Wilson died Feb. 4. President Coolidge immediately wired that all public buildings and public places where flags are flown should fly them at half staff for one month. Yesterday, Washington's birthday, and within the thirty day limit set by the President, the flag should be raised to the top of the staff momentarily and then lowered to the half way point again."

Nebraska Editors Elect Woman as Their Leader

Grand Island, Neb., Feb. 22.—Woman's rights to leadership in the newspaper profession was accorded recognition today when the Nebraska Press association elected Mrs. Marie Weeks, editor of the Norfolk Press, president of the organization, and Miss Naomi Buck, editor of the Harvard Courier, secretary. Miss Buck succeeds her father, Ote Buck.

OBREGON CHASES REMNANTS OF REBELS IN WEST

Cuts Off the Retreat of Estrada.

BULLETIN.

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—The department of foreign relations has notified Washington that Charles B. Warren of Detroit is acceptable as United States ambassador to Mexico.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—The Mexican embassy in a statement tonight said:

"Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, who joined forces of Gen. Amaro at Santa Ana, Jalisco, after escaping from rebel captivity, brought the news that the rebel general, Anzaldo, who commanded the rebel forces that evacuated Guadalajara, together with those garrisoning the state of Colima, arrested the rebel generals Alvarado, Garrido and Nunes, who later were able to effect their escape and board a vessel at Manzanillo for an unknown destination.

Cuts Off Retreat.

"President Obregon has appointed Gen. Cardenas commander of the surrendered rebel forces, thus exercising full control over all the railroad line from Guadalajara to Manzanillo, and cutting off all possible retreat to the rebel generals, Estrada and Diéguez, who were fleeing by forced marches on Ciudad Guzman and Colima with the object of securing a refuge in the port of Manzanillo." Railroad communication between Guadalajara and Manzanillo will be restored within a few days.

"The gunboats Progreso and Coahuila have also surrendered to the federal government and are now engaged in patrol duty along the Pacific coast.

"It can now be said that the campaign against the rebels in the states of Jalisco, Colima and Michoacan has practically come to an end, as the only scattered group of rebels fleeing with Gen. Dieguez and Gen. Estrada is being hotly pursued and its complete annihilation is expected at any time."

Battle Near in Oaxaca.

The rebel leader, Guadalupe Sanchez, has arrived at Merida from Frontera, accompanied by Froylan Manjarrez, former governor of Puebla, in obedience to instructions from De la Huerta.

The rebel Gens. Maycotte, Castro, and Aguilar have arrived in the Oaxaca neighborhood with about 600 men, reinforcing the rebel governor, Manuel Garcia Vigil, for his defense against an impending attack by the government forces under Gen. Almazan. The rebels have been actively destroying the railway in order to hinder Almazan's advance.

Report by Rebels.

Frontera, Tabasco, Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—Further victories for the revolutionary forces in brushes with the federals were claimed in the official statement of activities of the De la Huerta forces issued last night by Otilio Gonzales, chief of the publicity department.

Panuco, Vera Cruz, on the Panuco river, ten leagues from Tampico, also was taken by revolutionary forces under Gens. Martinez and Dias de Leon.

Federal troops were defeated with heavy casualties at Las Sedas, north of Oaxaca. Gen. Romero was reported to have advanced from Ignacio Mejia, Oaxaca, and to have entered Tehuacan, Puebla, after annihilating the small federal garrison there.

PLAN FOR BUYING G. WASHINGTON PORTRAIT GROWS

Birthday Speakers Urge Benefits to City.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Men and women of means are asked here and now to contribute towards the fund to purchase the portrait of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart for the Chicago Art institute. Those who cannot afford more than from $1 to $25 are sure to follow, as well as the school children with their copper or silver.

ROBERT B. HARSHE.

THE TRIBUNE has agreed to stand as a medium between the people who can see the benefits to Chicago in having this priceless oil painting of our first president, George Washington, and the Art institute, which, through its director and board of trustees, has appealed to the citizens to claim this picture for our own. Money or checks sent to THE TRIBUNE will be acknowledged and sent to the Art institute.

To Show Daily Progress.

The public will be informed daily through these columns of the progress of the money raising. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, who requested the aid of THE TRIBUNE in this cause, has said he had no doubt the boys and girls, the men and women, the rich and poor, would provide the necessary sum. The Herald-Examiner has also taken a hand in the movement and announced a liberal subscription.

The fact that the portrait was painted while Washington was president of the United States led the Union League club to ask the Art institute authorities that it be sent to the meeting at the Auditorium, where the club presented a program for school children.

That request was granted and the picture sent through the streets under guard of a squad of police. Later the picture, also under guard, was taken to the Union League club. It was viewed there during an evening celebration.

Reflects Washington's Strength.

"This countenance indicates the firmness that could, and did defy a great empire."

"Those features add to the dignity of this country."

The one big thought and word of all was that this opportunity of obtaining this work must not be lost.

"If necessary, it was said, the city would be zoned and quotas assigned to the different business, professional, and geographic divisions of the city to acquire the money necessary to make the Art institute of Chicago the future home of this "Washington by Stuart."

Show Value to Chicago.

What it will mean to this mid-western metropolis twenty, fifty, a hundred years hence, to have this portrait was stressed by all speakers yesterday.

Mayor William E. Dever, one of the first to approve, is planning a school-children's contribution day. He tentatively has set Feb. 27 as that day.

The last word of the Art institute committee is this:

WILLING TO SELL

"We have been holding it at $150,000," Mr. Ehrich said, "but have agreed to let Director Harshe have it at a special price. Our relations with the Chicago Art institute always have been pleasant."

Discussing the picture, he said:

"It is one of seven full lengths of Washington done by Gilbert Stuart and is the only one available for purchase. At the present none of these seven full length portraits is located west of Philadelphia.

Where the Others Are.

"The first of these seven full lengths was painted by Mr. Stuart in 1795 on the order of Lord Lansdowne. This is now in England. A second is in the Independence hall collection in Philadelphia. A third is in the New York public library.

"The fourth is in the state house at Providence, R. I.; fifth, in the old state house at Newport; sixth, in the possession of the Pierpont family of Brooklyn, and the seventh is the property of our firm and is now offered to Chicago."

"Washington sat for the full length only for the first of the seven—the one now in England," the dealer said. "He sat for the heads of the others, but the records show different individuals posed for the entire figure. There are slight variations in the figures of all the seven; some being stouter than others, while the background also is different. Some of the lot have been generously copied, but the only originals are the seven which I have discussed."

DESPONDENT GIRL DIES OF GAS.

Agnes Zajac, 24 years old, found dead in a gas filled room at 741 North La Salle street early yesterday, committed suicide while despondent over ill health, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury.

SESSIONS SECRET AS 'LOST LEGION' SEEKS FREEDOM

2 Officers Hear Pleas of Imprisoned Soldiers.

BY DONALD EWING.

Leavenworth, Kas., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—When dusk today settled over the stone walls and iron bars of Leavenworth's citadel of lost identities where an army reviewing board secretly is interviewing soldiers who fought in the war and have since been forgot ten a slim little prisoner walked out to the flagstaff. Carefully he lowered the Stars and Stripes, showing the same concern to prevent soiling that he has shown since he first was given that task in 1919.

His care of the flag is noticeable to every one. It was noticeable to the I. W. W. prisoners a few years ago, for every night when guards were not looking they would gather to jeer at the man who handled it.

Scoffed at Flag.

"What the hell is that rag to you?" they sometimes asked. "What did it ever do for you? You went to France and fought under it, didn't you? Well, stick with it, kid—behind the bars here—and you'll stick long after we've left."

They were right. Little Jimmy Skiles of Trenton, Tenn., fought in France, a volunteer, when his country called. The Wobblies fought against their country at home. They scoffed at the flag and are free to scoff again. Jimmy fought under it and he's still under it—but behind Leavenworth's bars.

Skiles' case is one of the saddest of the "lost legion" of soldier prisoners and probably will go before the reviewing board tomorrow. But there is no sign that the board will favor him. Today it maintained its secrecy—the same secrecy that featured some of the courts martial which sent soldiers here. The interviews with prisoners are behind locked doors with two army officers and one prisoner present; not even a record of the proceedings is taken. Maj. James Stansfield and Maj. F. K. Ross are hearing the cases.

Army Secrecy Prevails.

Today a delegation from the Veterans of Foreign Wars tried to have the secrecy abandoned, but failed. As it left its leaders remarked:

"Our work has only begun. That board is just another army smoke screen. The same kind of smoke that put spies and traitors behind the bars and then released them without thought of patriots left in cells."

Skiles is a criminal. He killed his best friend—he admits that. But friends who have tried to help him have furnished THE TRIBUNE with a story of the case already partly verified by official records. That indicated he is not a criminal at heart and would be no menace to society if given the clemency already given traitors.

Won Praise in Battle.

Skiles volunteered in the 321st machine gun company, 83d division, in 1917. He saw active service in France and many praise his conduct in battle.

This is the story his friends have told and they are ready to back it up:

One day he came out of the trenches, tired and worn out, but with the knowledge that he had for days been fighting for his country. The strain—the relaxation—the 3,000 miles between France and the influence of home, all of these sent him the way of many young soldiers then in Tronds, France. He got drunk.

Seeing he was drunk, a lieutenant took Skiles' gun away. The boy got it back later. His pal, George Unken, fearing trouble, tried to take it away again. An explosion, and Unken fell dead. Skiles claims the discharge was accidental.

Given Life Sentence.

He was assigned counsel he had never seen before. The court martial gave him life. Later it was changed to twenty years on the grounds that obviously there was no wrong intent on Skiles' part.

But twenty years of life, its virtually the same, for France took its toll on Skiles' health and few think life will last even twenty years. And while he daily lowers and raises the flag he fought under, the I. W. W.'s outside can still scoff.

Skiles is a trusty and can go in and out of the walls as he pleases. But he has only a few hundred acres of freedom where the Wobblies who jeered at him have forty-eight states.

Twenty-two Houston Rioters.

Twenty-two of the twenty-four men called into the board's star chamber session today were Houston rioters who became involved in a race riot in Camp Logan in 1917, when a white policeman tried to arrest one of their men, a troop sent into the south despite his pleas that the trouble would result.

The other two were white men serving long sentences for robbery.

Standing out among these so-called rioters, many of them claim they didn't riot but got dragged into the shooting through its rapid spread, are Tinnie Deyo and Robert Tillman. Both came in under life sentences. A few years ago a group of I. W. W.'s attacked a guard in the prison. The guard was knocked to the floor and for a moment his death seemed certain as the I. W. W.'s pounced on his form.

Saved Guard's Life.

But, quick as a flash, two Negro prisoners dashed up and overpowered the wobblies, saving the guard's life. The two were Tillman and Deyo, sentenced as murderers who mutinied against authority and discipline. The warden in reporting to Washington stated that this was a typical example of the conduct of the riot prisoners who "are always among the first to back up the authorities here." He got their sentences cut to twenty years but the I. W. W.'s long since have departed through executive clemency.

Fire Hero Injured at $35,000 Blaze in School

James Mullett of engine company 26, who rescued Lieut. Fernshaver at a factory fire on 14th street Wednesday night, was seriously injured last night when he fell from a ladder while fighting flames which destroyed the old section of the Ellen Mitchell school at Ashley boulevard and Ohio street. Another fireman was overcome by smoke, but was revived. The damage was estimated at $35,000. School officials were making plans for housing the 1,600 pupils in the newer section of the school which was unharmed.

REAL PRISONERS OF WAR NUMBER ONLY 9—WEEKS

Alleges Public Misapprehension.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—While sharing to the full the desire of President Coolidge and the friends throughout the country of world war prisoners to do everything for them that is possible, Secretary of War Weeks feels there is misapprehension on the part of the general public as to the causes of imprisonment of the military prisoners in Leavenworth and elsewhere.

The belief that many of these men are serving long sentences for purely military offenses, such as desertion, disobedience of orders, escape from confinement, etc., is especially without foundation in fact, according to the secretary. The fact is that, of the men so convicted, only nine are now in confinement, seven of whom will be released this year on expiration of sentence, one in 1926, and one in 1927.

It has not been charged that all the prisoners, or a majority of them, are there for such causes. But there are nearly 200 United States soldiers incarcerated there, and no move has been made, until THE TRIBUNE called attention to the matter, to shorten their heavy sentences or grant paroles to them.

Lists the Offenses.

Replying to a recent appeal for the release of the men, Secretary Weeks said:

"The ocenses of which these prisoners were convicted, and the number of prisoners convicted of each ocense, are as follows: Murder, 7; manslaughter, 7; assault, 1; assault to rape, 3; robbery, 7; larceny, 4; desertion and robbery, 1; desertion and assault, 1; sodomy, 2. Total, 33.

"Some of the prisoners referred to above were convicted in France and Germany, others were tried elsewhere during the war for similar offenses, and are still in confinement, such as the so-called Houston rioters, but of men convicted of purely military offenses alone there appear to have been only 10 under military control."

Case of Houston Rioters.

The case of the Houston rioters stands out from the others because of the provocation given, though the facts in the case, according to the war department, vary considerably from the account as reported to THE TRIBUNE.

Army officers who handled the case say the trouble began with the arrest by a white civil policeman of a Negro soldier who was accompanied by a colored woman. Following the arrest a Negro military policeman approached the white policeman and asked to be informed of the facts.

"He was perfectly respectful about it," an army officer said today, "but the white policeman knocked him down and clubbed him.

"The Negroes did have provocation. But what they did, if condoned, would make of the army an engine of destruction."

STENOG 'TALKY'? MAYBE CLERKING IS HER REAL JOB

She may be a good speller and know the touch system perfectly, but if your stenographer is talkative she probably would make a greater vocational success as a saleswoman or a manicure, according to Dr. Smiley Blanton of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Blanton, speaking yesterday before the National Vocational Guidance association, in session at the Auditorium hotel, pointed out that "a man may be physically and intellectually fitted for the job he holds and still be in the wrong line."

"If you are emotionally unsuited to your work, it will be unpleasant for you and your neighbors." And he referred to the depressive types often found in ticket offices and information bureaus.

The study of personality, he urged, should be applied to normal as well as abnormal people, and vocational guidance is frequently needed by the man who has been in business for several years.

"BLONDE KITTY" TO AVOID TEARS IN COURTROOM

Because tears never got her very far, Katherine Malm, amused at a stupid public which paints her a feminine Jessie James "just because I wasn't as yellow as some guys," decided yesterday not to cry when she takes the stand in her own defense in Judge Walter P. Steffen's court today.

The 20 year old defendant, charged with the murder Nov. 4 of Edward Lehman, is physically recovered from her collapse as court adjourned Thursday. She told her counsel, Attorney Jay J. McCarthy, yesterday that she'd try to "take it easy, and not speak outtta turn, no matter how many lies they pull."

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Pritzker and Robert McMillan, who hope to rest their case late today, will call at least ten more witnesses. This list includes Policewoman Theresa Johnson, Deputy Sheriff Lewis Flentye, Deputy Superintendent Matthew Zimmer, and Eric Noren, confessed chauffeur for Mr. and Mr. Malm the night of the murder.

LEGION POST PREPARES FOR ANNUAL PLAY

A dress rehearsal of the annual musical production of the American Legion post 36, Des Plaines, Ill., was given yesterday afternoon in Colonial hall. It was a lively rendering of that extremely lively musical comedy "Buds and Buddies." Twenty-six Legion men are in the cast and there are nine girls, who take the part of French peasants.

There will be four performances of the comedy at Des Plaines, and the money will be turned over to the post fund. According to Commander C. Dewey Imig, it is hoped that some of the money can be used in the cause of the "Lost Legion" at Leavenworth.

The first performance will be given next Monday.

3 NEW COUNTY BUILDINGS MAY BE PUT TO VOTE

Plan for Jail Starts Big Construction Move.

That dilapidated, much condemned county jail, may soon be replaced with a magnificent building. And this may also bring about the construction of a great new Criminal courts building.

ANTON J. CERMAK

And since it has been such a bone of contention for those who see it as Cook county's shame, it may cause the voters to open their purse strings also for a new twenty story county building to be located just west of the present courthouse.

But the "buck" will be passed directly to the voters, possibly in the June election. And it will cost, estimates have it, some $63,000,000 for the whole outfit.

Commission to Investigate.

This all comes from recommendations of the Chicago Bar association to the county board. As a result President Anton J. Cermak has tentatively chosen a commission to dig deeply into the plan.

The board, on Monday, will be asked to confirm appointment of the commission, which will immediately begin working on the plan.

Most of the commissioners, who have been subjected to much criticism and even threatened with grand jury proceedings because of the jail's hazardous condition, favor putting a proposition on the ballot providing for a bond issue to carry the entire project.

So enthusiastic were some of the board members that they didn't even want to appropriate funds to repair the old building.

Majority Plays Safe.

But the others, unwilling to put aside reports of jailer, fire experts, and building inspectors, decided it would be best to play safe, so an item of $30,000 was agreed upon for jail repairs in 1924. The discussion occurred at a meeting yesterday of the finance committee, which is trying to get the annual budget in shape for passage.

While the committee was discussing wage increases for Juvenile probation officers Commissioner Emmett Whealan unearthed a novel "propaganda scheme" among the employés to exert pressure on the commissioners.

Learn of Big Fund.

Commissioner Whealan said that for three months each of the 124 probation officers was paying $10 a month into a fund used in spreading literature among civic organizations. These were urged to appear before the board in support of the salary boost.

Some of these organizations carried out this plan by appearing before the finance committee. Mr. Whealan said he understood Miss Harriet E. Vittum, chairman of the Cook county affairs committee of the Woman's City club, was directing the "propaganda."

Since eleven of the employés are under civil service and the law forbids solicitation of any kind from such employés, the civil service commission is expected to conduct an investigation. No action was taken on the salary increase.

JAPAN ALARM

The Japanese press is disturbed over the idea of America building ten gunboats to patrol the Yangtze river in China. It charges that this country intends to use force to back up our trade and so cut Japan out. There is urgent need of protection of trade in this part of China. In most places the authority of Peking has vanished, and civil war, unpaid troops, and plundering bandits are the rule. Arrows on the map point to places where notable outrages have occurred near the river in the last few months.

VETS TRICKED ON BONUS, HEAD OF LEGION DECLARES

Winston Salem, N. C., Feb. 22.—"Mellon juggles figures and big business spends a few of its hoarded war profits to fight against the passage of obligations which are pledged to us by the Republican party," John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, declared here today in an address to American Legion representatives from southern states gathered here for a conference at which it was expected agreement would be reached on measures the southern legionnaires would back.

He quoted figures which he said came from a report by Representative A. Platt Andrew of Massachusetts, showing that the government paid out in the year the bill first passed, $211,000,000 more than the legal requirement on the war debt and ended with a balance of $370,000,000 to its credit.

"This year," he continued, "when the adjusted compensation issue again came to the front, Secretary Mellon could no longer disguise the condition of the treasury so he comes out with a slogan, 'No tax cut, if the bonus passes.' This was the cleverest political trick of the age."

SENATOR GREENE, SHOT IN LIQUOR FIGHT, IMPROVES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Senator Frank L. Greene [Rep., Vt.], shot down a week ago by a stray bullet fired in a battle between prohibition officers and suspected bootleggers, apparently strengthened his grip on life today.

Physicians believed his condition was better today than at any time since he was taken to the hospital, although they said that no definite prognosis could be made at this time. The senator is now taking nourishment.

United States District Attorney Gordon continued today his personal investigation into circumstances surrounding the shooting and expects to complete his inquiry by tomorrow or Monday. Legal action is being withheld, pending the outcome of the senator's fight for life. Three men are out on bail in connection with the shooting.

British Dock Strike Goes on 3 Days More as Men Vote

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—[Tribune Radio.]—A continuation of the dockers' strike for at least three more days became a certainty today when the district delegates of the Transport Workers' union in conference here decided to let the men themselves pass upon the proposals of the employers. This move is caused by reports from a number of important cities that the dockers are insisting on holding out for their demands in full.

But the delegates will recommend acceptance in sectional meetings of the strikers to be held during the week-end, and they will return to London on Monday to discuss results.

Doubt of Settlement.

The prospects of settling Great Britain's dock workers' strike, which is costing the nation £9,000,000 daily, are not so good as the situation indicates on the surface.

Employers of 80 per cent of the dock labor on the island are willing to pay the increase of two shillings (about 40 cents) demanded, and the whole country seems in favor of accepting the demands of the union, except the employers in the London area.

Knowing this, it is doubtful if the district delegates will succeed in convincing the men to accept the terms proposed by the employers' association. The best labor opinion is that the strike will continue for at least another two weeks.

Cotton Mills Reduce.

The depression in the cotton spinning industry has forced the employers' federation to reduce the weekly hours of work from forty-eight to twenty-six. This serious curtailment of production affects particularly what is known as the "American section" trade, which employs 100,000 spinners.

Volunteers last night loaded 5,000 bags of American mail which had been lying all week on tenders at Plymouth. Most of this was distributed in London during the day.

The strikers held up sixteen trucks of mail at Tilbury today. They refused to let the vehicles proceed to the docks, where the liner Kaiser-I-Hind was due to sail in a few hours for India. The mail was returned to the postoffice.

Load American Mail.

Employés of the United States shipping board today loaded 3,000 sacks of mail aboard the liner America, sailing tomorrow from Southampton. Mail which came from America on the America and Nieuw Amsterdam arrived in London today.

Approximately 60 per cent of the normal supplies of meats was received at the principal London markets today. The prices, which fell about 3 cents a pound yesterday on the prospects of an early settlement of the strike, advanced again this morning.

Among the strikers who received their first strike pay today from the union were thousands who had been out of work for a month.

Italy Plans Labor Rise.

ROME, Feb. 22.—The cabinet today approved several labor conventions, dealing principally with child labor and employment of women. It also ratified several large appropriations for public works. These involved 500,000,000 lire for the construction of roads in Calabria and 50,000,000 lire for improvements in the harbor of Venice.

The appropriations are expected to provide work for many unemployed.

Section Hands Want Raise.

Montreal, Feb. 22.—The Railway Association of Canada today received from the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Men a request for a conference on wages and working conditions.

Maintenance of way men in Canada recently voted to strike if denied a 5 cent an hour increase for labor.

Dayton, O., Feb. 22.—Lieut. John A. MacReady today failed in his second attempt in two months to set a new world's airplane altitude record. His Lepere plane reached an actual altitude of 34,983 feet, it was announced several hours after he had descended. It previously had been believed that the record was broken when his instruments showed an indicated altitude of 41,000 feet.

The present record of 36,555 feet is held by the French aviator, Sadi Lecointe. To better that record, MacReady must have reached 37,355 feet, 1,300 feet or 400 metres higher than the French mark. This is a new ruling. It was formerly necessary to exceed a record by only 300 feet.

There were two outstanding failures in today's flight, officials said. The first was the failure of the supercharger, which broke when an indicated altitude of 41,000 feet was reached, and the second was the extraordinarily cold weather encountered at MacReady's ceiling. The thermometer failed to register when 60 degrees below centigrade was reached. This is approximately 70 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 22.—A very strong earthquake shock was felt here tonight. The populace was panic stricken.

Maj. Fo L. Martin, commander of the air squadron which will start on a round the world cruise in four airplanes on March 15, passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Los Angeles, where the flight will start.

"We will start any time the planes are in proper condition, and we expect that to be about March 15," he said. "We are figuring it will take about six months to make the tour. No special precautions have been taken, but we are not looking for accidents."

The planes will fly to Alaska and make the dash across the Pacific to Japan from there.

SEEKS HIS MISSING WIFE.

Joseph A. Bebring, 1534 East 65th street, a clerk for the Wisconsin Steel company in South Chicago, last night asked the police to search for his wife, Emma, who, he said, has been missing since Thursday noon.

TWO HOWLAND DEATHS DUE TO FURNACE GASES

Carbon Monoxide Cause of Evanston Fatalities.

Carbon monoxide, escaping from a defective furnace pipe, and not ptomaine poisoning as at first supposed, was responsible for the deaths Thursday night of William I. Howland, retired Evanston tea merchant, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Herta Orne.

This opinion, expressed by Deputy Coroner Charles F. Kennedy after careful investigation, was substantiated yesterday by a post mortem examination performed by Coroner's Physicians William D. McNally and John N. Goltra. Testimony at the inquest, which was continued until March 7, also bore out the asphyxiation theory.

Found by Son.

The inquest was continued to await the outcome of the illness of Mrs. Howland and her daughter, Virginia, both of whom were unconscious when William I. Howland Jr., a son of the dead man, reached the family residence at 1500 Oak avenue, about 12:15 o'clock yesterday morning. Both were pronounced out of danger at the Evanston hospital and Miss Howland was able to return to her home last night.

The only witnesses heard yesterday were the son and Raymond Thomas, colored chauffeur, who found the bodies.

"I smelled a strong odor of gas and threw a window open as soon as I entered," he said. He declared there had been considerable trouble with gas escaping from the furnace from a defective pipe connecting a gas heater with the flue.

Trouble in Early Evening.

William Roberts, 1115 Chicago avenue, Evanston, a Negro janitor who tends the Howland furnace, said he had banked the fire with coke earlier than usual and that gas became so strong in the basement between 5 and 6 o'clock Thursday evening that both he and the elder Mr. Howland were compelled to leave.

"I went back later, though," said Roberts, "and the gas apparently had all gone."

"Carbon monoxide is odorless, tasteless, and colorless," said Dr. McNally, "and its presence cannot be detected. Yet it is so strong that it requires only two-tenths of 1 per cent to cause death. Ptomaine poisoning acts more slowly."

Mr. Howland, who was 77 years old, was one of the founders of the tea importing firm of Fitch & Howland in 1880. His son is a salesman for the Illinois Steel company.

CALL SLEMP IN OIL QUIZ; G. O. P. SPLIT BY EXPOSE

Christmas Mr. Slemp decided to go south for a vacation. Reports at that time were in circulation that he was going to assist in lining up southern delegates for President Coolidge but later word reached the capital that he was taking a rest at Palm Beach, where Mr. McLean and Mr. Fall were then sojourning. The assertion has been made both by Democratic leaders and by managers of Hiram Johnson's campaign that Slemp, while in Palm Beach, conferred with McLean and Fall.

One of the first to confer with Senator Walsh upon his return today was John Poole, president of the Federal-American bank, one of the concerns at which McLean had a checking account. Officials of this bank as well as of the Commercial National bank will be called as witnesses, Senator Walsh said.

In the testimony which he gave under oath to Senator Walsh at Palm Beach, McLean said that the checks which he gave to Fall, but which were never cashed, were drawn on these two banks.

Considerable surprise was manifested in the senate today when the attorney general walked boldly into the chamber and took a seat in the rear on the Republican side. It had been understood that the Wheeler resolution was to be brought up for debate today and it seemed likely some things would be said that would not be exactly complimentary to the attorney general. He has been a rare visitor at the senate since he came into office. Today he was regarded as an object of much curiosity.

ELKINS SITS BY DAUGHERTY

Senator Elkins [Rep., W. Va.], who issued a statement several days ago admitting he bought and sold Sinclair oil stocks, took a seat beside Mr. Daugherty and remained with him during the session.

Several other senators came up and shook hands with the attorney general, Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], his chief accuser, passed within a foot of him but did not recognize him. He said afterwards he had never before seen Mr. Daugherty.

The session was a tame affair, however, and sensation hunters went away disappointed. Senator Willis [Rep., O.] read Washington's farewell address. Mr. Daugherty listened intently. Senators also listened intently. And then the senate adjourned quietly until tomorrow.

Disagree as to Committee.

The decision to put off action on the Wheeler resolution was due to the inability to reach a settlement of differences over selecting the committee. Mr. Wheeler wants Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] to be chairman, and the regular Republicans want some one more conservative. Indications are that no settlement will be reached and that the personnel of the committee will be decided only after a showdown fight in the senate.

Senator Walsh delivered a sharp criticism of the failure of the bureaus of investigation in the department of justice, the navy department, the war department, the treasury department, and other executive departments to give him any aid during the investigation.

The time has come, Senator Walsh added, when he must have help but his attitude indicated he is not very hopeful of it coming from any of the official agencies of the government.

Compliment to W. J. Burns.

"I have been both detective and prosecutor," he continued, "and up to this moment I have received absolutely no assistance from any investigating arm of the federal government. There is the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, at the head of which is that greatest of detectives—the greatest, they say, since Sherlock Holmes.

"Yet that bureau has not uncovered one particle of evidence. It has not suggested a single witness nor has it in any other way aided the committee in its efforts to get to the bottom of this Teapot Dome affair.

"I am also informed that the navy department has a very efficient investigating organization. However, Mr. Denby is still secretary of the navy and no assistance is, for that reason, to be expected from that source.

Others Also Seem Reluctant.

"The war department has its military intelligence service. The postoffice department also has an efficient investigating arm, while the treasury department has under it the United States secret service.

"From none of these have we received any assistance whatever. I don't like to say these things, but it so happens that it is the exact truth."

The detective—"the greatest since Sherlock Holmes"—referred to by Senator Walsh is William J. Burns, a close friend of Mr. Daugherty, whom he appointed chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

Lewis H. Bond, who has been in charge of the examination of brokers' books subpoenaed by the committee, will be ready to make a partial report to the committee Monday and this may lead to the issuing of additional subpoenas.

Bonfils and Shaffer.

Mr. Sinclair, it was said, undoubtedly would be recalled to the witness stand. So many things have developed since his last appearance that the committee will want to question him at length. Members of the committee are particularly anxious to ask him why he paid $250,000 to Frederick G. Bonfils and his partners and promised to pay them at least $750,000 more; and just why he had a contract to pay the Pioneer Oil company $1,000,000, in which John C. Shaffer received a one-eighth share.

G. D. Wahlberg, former confidential secretary to Sinclair, also may be recalled to the stand. On his previous appearance he told of the loan of some Liberty bonds to a man named "Hayes" which aroused his suspicions. This portion of his testimony escaped attention until it appeared in the printed record and members of the committee now want to know who "Hayes" was.

Daugherty Finds Party Has Friends as Well as Enemies

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee tonight publicly joined the issue with those of his party leaders in the senate who are demanding the immediate resignation of Attorney General Daugherty.

"This is not the time," he said, in a formal statement, "to yield to the threats of those who are conducting this campaign of political terrorism, or to the demands of those who are frightened by such methods."

The Republican party organization, he declared, will insist that no verdict of guilty shall be pronounced until indisputable evidence of guilt has been produced.

"The integrity of a former Republican cabinet official has been called into serious question because he accepted money while in office from certain oil interests," the statement says.

Democrats Are Soiled.

"The reputations of three former Democratic cabinet members, and other Democrats prominent in the Wilson administration, have been affected because they received money from the same oil interests, as hire for their political influence with their own administration.

"So much for the facts regarding the use of money disclosed up to date in the oil investigation.

"Taking advantage of this situation a few political blackguards and scandal mongers have launched a general campaign of slander against members of the cabinet and others high in official life.

"One of the victims of this campaign is Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy. The record shows he did not perform a single act in connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserves that was either illegal or immoral—much less a betrayal of public trust or inimical to public welfare.

"Not one of Secretary Denby's detractors can quote any official record or sworn testimony to the contrary. Not one dare make his accusations outside the halls of congress where he claims protection in the prerogative of uttering slander.

"Now it is being charged that Mr. Daugherty was a party to the transaction. He had nothing whatever to do with the oil leases. He was not even consulted regarding them. Those making these charges claim they want a congressional investigation of Mr. Daugherty in order to bring out the facts. But they are not willing to wait for the investigation.

"What they hope to do is to force Daugherty to retire from the cabinet before such an investigation can take place. They hope he will prefer such retirement to the alternative of remaining in office to be harassed and slandered.

What G. O. P. Stands For.

"The Republican party organization stands unalterably for clean and honest administration of public affairs. It does not condone betrayal of public trust or seek to protect those of its party guilty of such betrayal.

"But it is equally insistent that guilt must be proved or shown by evidence that admits of no doubt. Hysteria is not proof. Libel is not truth. Idle gossip and hearsay scandal are not evidence.

"To punish innocent men on such irresponsible and disreputable grounds often results in letting those who are really guilty escape. It is not without the range of possibilities that those who are making wild charges against public officials seek to sacrifice innocent men in order that guilt which should be ferreted out and properly placed may escape detection.

"Why should Mr. Daugherty resign without a hearing? That is not the American way of doing things. It is time for officials of integrity to face their detractors and place the brand of infamy on those who make their public office the mouthpiece of foul calumny.

America's Real Foes Named.

"America, her institutions and her form of government, are not now and never will be, endangered by enemies from without. Her menace is from those who, for the purpose of elevating themselves into the limelight of questionable notoriety, or of serving the baser purposes of partisanship, seek to destroy the faith of the American people in their public officials and institutions."

HELPFUL HINTS FOR BASHFUL BACHELORS PLANNING THE PLUNGE

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—A course to prepare bachelors for marriage will be given at the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., Carroll M. Gibney, director of educational activities, announced today. The course will last six weeks and aims to fit a bachelor for the job of picking the right kind of a wife. It will give the single man, says Mr. Gibney, a knowledge of the economic, physiological and psychological aspects of marriage, as well as training in the care and education of children.

Among Mr. Gibney's don'ts are these:

"Don't marry for sex attraction alone."

"Don't fail to run your household on a budget system."

"Don't expect your wife to live according to a single standard of morality while you have a double standard."

PROSECUTOR IN WEST IS GIVEN APPEL WRITING

A sample of the handwriting of Charles Appel, former North Side Turner hall proprietor, who has been sought for weeks to answer various charges of confidence game and fraud, was sent yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles by State's Attorney Crowe. The telegram from Mr. Keyes which requested the handwriting did not state why it was wanted.

Mrs. Augusta Appel, wife of Appel, during the day reiterated that "Charlie will give up in a day or two."

Mrs. Appel, who is conducting a restaurant at 755 North Dearborn street, has admitted she hears frequently from her husband. She intimates that inability to meet the required $40,000 bonds is delaying Appel's surrender.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS MANY IN GERMAN FACTORY

KEHL, Germany, Feb. 22.—[United Press.]—Many workmen were reported killed and injured when a terrific explosion shattered a briquet factory here. Bodies of victims were blown through the roof and were scattered about the devastated building.

Windows were shattered more than a mile away. Coal gas, bursting into flame immediately, incinerated helpless victims as they lay pinned amid the ruins.

American Silk Buyer Suicide in Hotel in France

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LYONS, Feb. 22.—William Harold Sharp, 62, an American, ended his life in a hotel here this morning by blowing out his brains with a revolver. The flames from the revolver set the bedding on fire, and servants found the body covered with flaming draperies. An examination of his documents showed that Sharp came to Lyons to buy silks. He probably was depressed by financial troubles, as he had only 1,700 francs (roughly, $85) in his purse.

Earthquake Rocks French Towns; Buildings Cracked

TARBES, France, Feb. 22.—An earthquake this afternoon at 3:32 o'clock rocked buildings here and at Bagneres, Cauteres, and other places. The walls of some buildings were cracked and furniture was broken. The shock lasted ten seconds.

Villa of Mikado Periled by Fire; Suspect Firebugs

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 22.—The villa at Numazu where the Japanese emperor and empress have been living was seriously threatened at midnight by a fire suspected to be of incendiary origin. The fire destroyed 400 surrounding houses. It had been announced that Prince Regent Hirohito and his bride were to visit the emperor and empress today.

VANDERLIP FOR A MORAL CRUSADE ON CORRUPTION

Says Papers Print Less News than of Yore.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Frank A. Vanderlip in a speech at a dinner of the Masonic club of Ossining tonight called upon the public to "enlist in a moral war against corruption," which he declared existed in the government.

"Shall we become the victims of our abominable lust for peif?" Mr. Vanderlip said, quoting from a letter of George Washington.

"This is the question George Washington asked 135 years ago," he added. "I repeat it tonight."

Wants All News Printed.

"Two things are needed today," Mr. Vanderlip said. "The first is an understanding of the facts. We want to know what the facts are at Washington; wen want to know the truth. It is very important that we should have a clear and unimpeded stream of information.

"There has been an extraordinary development in the newspaper field since the days when I was a newspaper man. There are better and larger papers now. The large newspaper has become a great business enterprise run by its proprietor, a man of great business ability, and is run with the shadow of the business office of the news. That is so of necessity. So, while the newspaper have become better and more comprehensive, there is a certain standardization about them. Each prints about the same news that the others do, and none prints all the news from Washington.

Recalls His Journalism.

"Formerly, when I had a knowledge of newspaper work in Washington, the correspondents sat at the table. They didn't take 'handouts' in the way of 'flimsies.' This began in the Roosevelt administration, when newspaper men were disciplined when they printed matter which was not satisfactory.

"Today no newspaper man feels the freedom to print the news as he did in my day in Washington. He is circumscribed by the attitude of the heads of the departments.

Flays Delay in Oil Quiz.

"Why are we not getting action? Something has gone wrong with the machinery of justice. It has been twenty-two months since the red flag of suspicion has been hoisted on the Teapot Dome. The senate passed a resolution of investigation, information was called for, and nothing was furnished for weeks. When it was furnished, nothing happened."

Mr. Vanderlip said the government was getting at the job of uncovering and punishing corruption in the wrong way.

"Two lawyers have been appointed," he continued, "to make oil prosecutions necessary. Are we to put on the President the duty of detecting and punishing misdemeanors? That is not the way the machinery of our government was organized."

La Follette and Brookhart Meeting Here Is Projected

Chicago may entertain Senators La Follette and Brookhart at a big meeting in the Coliseum some time in March. At a meeting yesterday of the organization known as the "Illinois Conference for Progressive Political Action" at the Great Northern, plans for such a meeting were left contingent upon the consent of the two radical leaders of the senate. A committee, including Irving D. Strain and H. P. Daugherty, labor leaders, was appointed to go to Washington and take the subject up with them.

Auto Could Be Built from Mail Gone Astray

Any make of automobile, as far as the lighter parts are concerned, can be made up from wrongly addressed mail held at the Chicago postoffice, William Canavan, assistant superintendent of mails, told the National Fraternal congress at Hotel Sherman yesterday.

"Ten per cent of the employis at the postoffice are engaged in trying to find out where misaddressed mail ought to go," he added. The convention adopted a resolution to urge more care in mailing.

CLEVELAND GETS EXCITED, BUT IT'S NOTHING AT ALL

Reports from Cleveland yesterday indicated some one became excited there when it was discovered that Senator Medill McCormick had reserved seventy hotel rooms for the period of the Republican convention.

He concluded that this was confirmation of reports that McCormick is a candidate for the presidential nomination and is preparing for a big convention battle.

In the absence of Lawrence Y. Sherman, national committeeman, Senator McCormick said, he made the reservations for the entire Illinois delegation.

CHICAGO TO WAIT FOR POSTOFFICE BUILDING, PLAN

Congress for Remodeling and Use of Tubes.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—Present indications are that the omnibus bill soon to be reported to the house will authorize an expenditure of $800,000 to improve, remodel, and enlarge the main postoffice building in Chicago. There is also a strong probability that another appropriation will be allowed by congress permitting the use of the pneumatic tube service in Chicago for the transportation of mail to Englewood and other outlying sections.

These two appropriations are intended to relieve congested mail conditions at the main postoffice in Chicago until congress sees fit to authorize a new federal building for that city.

New Building Must Wait.

At present there is little or no prospect that Chicago will be favored with a new postoffice building to take the place of the present old structure there.

Senator McKinley [Rep., Ill.] and Representatives Madden [Rep., Ill.] and Doyle [Dem., Ill.] are supporting the plan for the use by the federal government of the pneumatic tubes controlled by the city to dispatch mail to the stockyards district, to Englewood, and to stations on the west side of Chicago. It is also proposed to transport mail by tube from the Union station to the main office on South Dearborn street, and to the various branch offices in the city.

To Lease Pneumatic Tubes.

At a meeting of the senate committee on postoffices to be held tomorrow Senator McKinley will offer an amendment authorizing the federal government to lease the pneumatic tubes in Chicago from the city for the purpose of transporting mail.

This plan, supplemented by remodeling of the main postoffice, would in the opinion of Chicago members fairly take care of the mail situation in Chicago for the next few years. By that time, it is hoped, congress can be persuaded to make the large appropriation, running away up into the millions, that would be necessary to give Chicago a main postoffice buildling up to date in every particular.

Early in December Representative Doyle of the Fourth district introduced a bill in the house authorizing the secretary of the treasury to enlarge, extend, and remodel the present postoffice at a cost not to exceed $30,000,000.

MACDONALD SUITS ALL SIDES IN FIRST TIFF IN COMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—With the exception of the pacifists, all England seems pleased with the Socialist government's plans to start the construction of five new cruisers and two destroyers to replace obsolete ships in the king's navy.

The Liberals had the smug satisfaction of watching the Conservatives cast their votes to uphold the government for which the Conservatives had been heaping abuse upon the Liberals.

The Labor newspaper, the Daily Herald, exults that the prime minister was given the opportunity last night "to bring into play his exceptional genius for parliamentary leadership."

R. J. Wilson today said that the Labor government hoped to remain in office long enough to pass certain measures based on the king's speech, "so that when the time arrives when an election should take place they could throw a bombshell into the house and be defeated upon some great measure upon which they could appeal to the electors."

A bill the government shortly will present will legalize the forty-eight hour week. The reduction of working hours from sixty will be accompanied by a declaration of employers for a corresponding reduction in pay. And with the cost of living back where it was in 1922 labor is not in a mood to accept smaller wages, even for less work.

CHINA DESTROYS KIDNAPERS' FORT AMONG CLOUDS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22.—The bandit stronghold at Paotzuku, made internationally known last summer through the wrecking of China's Blue Express and the kidnaping of a number of foreign passengers, including John Powell, THE TRIBUNE correspondent, is no more, according to information received here today from a German missionary in southern Shantung province, who recently made a trip to the mountain.

The famous temple among the clouds in which foreign prisoners, including a number of Americans, were held for thirty-eight days under the most trying circumstances has been leveled to the ground. The stone stairway chiseled in the face of the granite side of Mount Paotzuku has been destroyed so that it is now impossible, according to the report, for bandits or any one else to scale the heights.

The report states that the former bandit gang, which was taken into the Chinese army, has now been disbanded, their arms taken away from them and their chief leaders executed.

The entire stock nearly disposed of

IN accordance with our purpose outlined four weeks ago in our announcement headed, "The Impetus of an Idea," we are rapidly clearing our entire stock of headwear. Though for years we have been the unchallenged arbiters of style in men's hats, yet we are disposing of every hat in our stores, in order to establish a higher standard of exc llence. This is part of the development of our "New Order of Things" in hats, of which full details will be given to you in a few days.

Every hat offered is of the supreme quality for which the house of Capper & Capper has been famous for over a quarter-century. Each of them is suitable for spring wear, and all are offered at remarkable price reductions, as follows:

All $5 hats now	$3.50
All $7 to $8 hats now	$5.50
All $10 to $12 hats now	$7.50
All $15 to $18 hats now	$10.50
All $20 to $25 hats now	$15.50

All remaining broken lines of caps are offered at $1.50; values up to $4.00.

You are strongly urged to avail yourself of this rare opportunity, the like of which will probably not be seen again.

WASHINGTON IS STILL OUR GUIDE, COOLIDGE AVERS

Holiday Speech Goes Out on Radio Waves.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—President Coolidge, in a radio address delivered tonight from the White House, combined with a tribute to George Washington an appeal to the American people to accept the responsibilities and continue the sacrifices necessary to make enduring the institutions which Washington founded.

"If we are to maintain the institutions which he founded, if we are to improve what he created, we must be like-minded with him, we must continue to accept responsibilities, we must continue to make sacrifices," the President said. "Under all the laws of God and man there is no other way."

The address was delivered by the President in his study in the White House and was made by invitation of the International Rotary clubs, members of which recently asked that the President deliver an address today in anniversary of the founding of Rotarianism. Millions of radio enthusiasts throughout North America are believed to have "tuned in" on the President's speech.

A World-Wide Figure.

"Each year the birthday of George Washington gains wider acceptance as being of more than national significance," Mr. Coolidge said. "In far off lands people are observing this day by taking thought of the qualities that gave Washington this foremost place among the truly great.

"They are drawn to this man by his calm and clear judgment, by his abounding courage, and by his unselfish devotion. Beyond that which was ever accorded to any other mortal, he holds rank as a soldier, a statesman, and a patriot. Others may have excelled him in some of these qualities, but no one ever excelled him in this three-fold greatness.

"Yet Washington, the man, seems to stand above them all. We can best estimate him by not identifying him with some high place but by thinking of him as one of ourselves. When all detailed descriptions fail it is enough to say he was a great man. He had a supreme endowment of character.

Washington Is America.

"No one can think of America without thinking of Washington. When we look back over the course of history before his day it seems as though it had all been a preparation for him and his time. When we consider events since then we can see a steady growth and development of the ideals which he represented and the institutions which he founded, world-wide in extent. The principles which he fought to establish have become axioms of civilization.

"It might almost be said that the progress which peoples have made is measured by the degree with which they have accepted the great policies which he represented.

"It is not possible to compress a great life into a single sentence. We look on Washington as the exponent of the rights of man. We think of him as having established the independence of America. We associate his name with liberty and freedom. We say that he was a great influence in the adoption of the constitution of the United States. All these are centered around the principle of self-government.

Must Earn Our Rights.

"But when we examine the meaning of independence, of constitutional liberty, and of self-government, we do not find that they are simple rights which society can bestow on us. They are very complex. They have to be earned. They have to be paid for. They arise only from the discharge of our obligations one to another.

"Washington did not, could not, give anything to his countrymen. His greatness lies in the fact that he was successful in calling them to the performance of a higher duty. He showed them how to have a greater liberty by earning it. All that any society can do, all that any government can do, is to attempt to guarantee to the individual the social, economic, and political rewards of his own effort and industry.

"The America which Washington founded does not mean we shall have everything done for us, but that we shall have every opportunity to do everything for ourselves. This is liberty, but it is liberty only through the acceptance of responsibility.

Old Days Not So Easy.

"It cannot fail to be worth while to recall some of the activities of Washington and the men of his day. Before we complain too much about our hardships in these luxurious days, before we lose faith in the power of the people by relying on themselves best to serve themselves, it is well to consider the early beginnings of this republic.

"Self-government does not purge us of all our faults, but there are very few students of the affairs of mankind who would deny that the theory on which our institutions proceed gives the best results that have ever been given to any people. When there is a failure, it is not because the system has failed, but because we have failed.

"For the purpose of insuring liberty, for enactment of sound legislation, for the administration of even handed justice, for the faultful execution of the laws, no institutions have ever given greater promise or more worthy performance than those which are represented by the name of Washington.

Constitution Is Changing.

"We have changed our constitution and laws to meet changing conditions and a better appreciation of the broad requirements of humanity. We have extended and increased the direct power of the voter. But the central idea of self-government remains unchanged.

"While we realize that freedom and independence of the individual mean increased responsibility for the individual, while we know that the people do and must support the government, and that the government does not and cannot support the people, yet the protection of the individual from the power now represented by organized numbers and consolidated wealth requires many activities on the part of the government which were not needed in the days of Washington.

"Many laws are necessary for this purpose, both in the name of justice and of humanity. Efforts in this direction are not for the purpose of undermining the independence of the individual, but for the purpose of maintaining for him an equal opportunity.

Says We Are All Free.

"They are made on the theory that each individual is entitled to live his own life in his own way, free from every kind of tyranny and oppression.

"We have not yet reached the goal of Washington's ideals. They are not yet fully understood. He was a practical man. He suffered from no delusions. He knew that there was no power to establish a system under which existence could be supported without effort. Those who now expect anything in that direction are certain to be disappointed. He held out no promise of unearned rewards, either in small or large amounts.

"On the other hand, if no one ought to receive gain except for service rendered, no one ought to be required to render service except for reasonable compensation. Equality and justice both require that there should be no profiteering and no exploitation.

"Under the constitution of the United States there is neither any pleasantry nor any order of nobility. Politically, economically, and socially service and character are to reign, and service and character alone.

"Such is the meaning of the life of George Washington, who came into being nearly 200 years ago. He left the world stronger and better. He made life broader and sweeter."

Celebrate Washington's Birthday

NATION'S FATHER SET ITS STEPS ON HONOR PATH

Scorned All Forms of Graft, Speaker Says.

George Washington's scrupulous honesty in handling public money was stressed as a lesson for today in an address at the Auditorium celebration yesterday by John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times.

Washington, the speaker recalled, promoted a land sale in Maryland after he had retired to private life. He was offered 150 shares of stock, equivalent to $100,000.

In a letter refusing this gift he asked what would be the view of the world in the years to come if it should be related that George Washington took money for using his influence in such a way. His only motive in promoting the sale, he said, was to lead the way to the western prairies, where his prophetic vision saw the building of a great empire. The money was given to charities.

"Like Grover Cleveland, who coined the phrase 'public office is a public trust,' Washington carried this purity of purpose into all his affairs," said Mr. Finley. He spoke of the recent revelations of official and private dishonesty in Washington.

"When private enterprise is avaricious," he warned, "it endangers our freedom and brings on us a cloud such as Russia.

Lauds Coolidge Courage.

"We should be thankful that we have another President of aggressive honesty and courage today and that he has come with a scourge to cleanse the temple of our fathers and keep the trust."

Washington, he said, would have been found faultless of personal gain at public expense, and resentless in driving out graft.

On lines of public policy, Mr. Finley said that Washington would have been called today one of our "world entangling economic expansionists, whatever his view of the league of nations might have been. He was in favor of cementing interests into solidarities."

"While he did not want entanglement with individual nations," he said, "I doubt not that he would have been foremost in making an alliance with all for the peace of the world."

Mr. Finley spoke of Washington as the empire builder who looked beyond the mountains of the east into this "valley of democracy," and bent all his energies toward finding a way of uniting east and west.

The Auditorium celebration, promoted by the Union League club, was the chief event of the day.

There were morning and afternoon meetings, attended by thousands of school children and their parents. High school orators, high school bands, drills and music, were given first place on the programs.

Against Entangling Alliances.

"If George Washington were to return to this earth today he would be more insistent than ever that we mind our own business and keep from meddling in foreign affairs," said former Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the New York Supreme court last night when he addressed the annual Washington's birthday banquet of the Friends of Irish Freedom, which was held in the Hotel Morrison. "Washington would see now, as he saw when America was struggling for life, that our job is to pay attention to our own affairs and let no foreign entanglements complicate us with world affairs."

Judge Cohalan was introduced by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, toastmaster.

"It is extremely fitting that this society should have a banquet on the anniversary of the birth of the man who was the father of this nation," Mr. Crowe said. "I recall Judge Cohalan has said that half of Washington's army was made up of Irishmen—what could be more fitting that we of that race celebrate this day in this manner?"

LEAGUE WORLD COURT AND "LEGAL ETHICS" DISCUSSED BY REED

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22.—Opposition to the league of nations, the world court, and all other instruments for American coöperation in world affairs was the keynote of a Washington day address here tonight by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, before the Creve Cœur club.

He urged the policy of uncompromising political isolation enunciated by Washington in his farewell address, and characterized as "ridiculous" the recent suggestion of William G. McAdoo, another Democratic presidential candidate, that the question of American participation in world affairs be submitted to a national referendum.

Senator Reed said he was unwilling to see his party "enter a race on an issue which lost, on an issue which defeated it in every northern state and broke it in the solid south."

"It is high time to return to the doctrines of Washington," he declared. "I cannot be justly accused of thrashing old straw; the international court scheme is now pending before a committee of the senate, and the international league advocates are active with their propaganda and their prizes."

The Missouri senator dwelt also upon Teapot Dome and the presidential traditions concerning the relationships between lawyers and clients.

"Doheny was not the only man who bought influence," he said. "But on this theme I shall elaborate elsewhere."

He paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson for his refusal to practice law "before officers whom he had appointed."

"The high duty of every man in public life," he continued, "is to restore the old code of official and ex-official ethics."

"I would like to see a large number of oppressive laws modified or repealed," he said.

MAN KILLED AS TRAIN CARRIES TRUCK 2 BLOCKS

Experts Urge Jail as Speed Deterrent.

Joseph B. De Normandie, 61 years old, owner of the De Normandie Towel and Linen Supply company, was killed yesterday when the motor truck he was driving was struck and carried two blocks on the pilot of a Pere Marquette passenger train.

JOSEPH B. DE NORMANDIE.

The truck had almost cleared the grade crossing at Leavitt and 87th streets, when the speeding train caught it squarely. The train, brakes grinding, hurtled on, strewing wreckage and linen from the car, until it came to a stop at 89th street.

The crossing, obscured from a clear view by the timber of the forest preserve, has been the scene of other fatalities in recent months, and is considered by the police to be dangerous.

An inquest will be held today.

Dr. Nelson P. Oliver of Thornton was struck by a taxicab early this morning as he was crossing Michigan avenue at Randolph street. Both of his legs were broken. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital by the taxicab driver.

Call Fines Inadequate.

That fines are wholly inadequate as deterrents to reckless automobile drivers, and that jail sentences should be freely imposed, is the sense of the safety committee of the American Society of Engineers in recommendations tendered yesterday.

The committee urged adoption of three rules, to be rigidly enforced throughout the nation. They are:

1. Jail and fines forfeiture for drunken drivers.
2. Trial on charges of murder for all drivers responsible for fatal accidents.
3. Careful physical and mental examination of all applicants for driver's licenses.

Urge National Drive.

The society was urged to sponsor a national movement in the accomplishment of whatever legislation is necessary to gain enforcement of the rules outlined.

MAID IN NIGHTIE FOUND IN STREET; TAKEN TO HAVEN

Miss Mary Sanderson, a maid employed in the home of Herman Michael at 5423 Ingleside avenue, was taken to the Psychopathic hospital yesterday morning when found clad in a nightgown and screaming, at 57th street and Kimbark avenue.

Previously, late Thursday night, she had been found sobbing at Clark and Division streets. She could not explain her sorrow, and when the police learned she was employed in the Michael home she was taken there.

Later the police learned that she believed some one was following her.

State Owned Flour Mill Closed in North Dakota

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 22.—The state owned flour mill at Drake, N. D., will remain temporarily closed until market conditions warrant its reopening, according to the committee of the board of managers of the State Mill and Elevator association, who returned today from a two day inspection of the Drake plant.

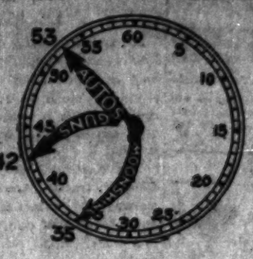

Coast Guards Release Fishing Tug in Ice Jam

The fishing boat Mary C., caught in the ice six miles off the Chicago harbor last night, was released by Capt. John Anderson and his coast guard crew, who, with a tug, cut a path through the floes and towed the craft to port. Capt. Fritz Miller and his crew of three were on the Mary C.

DIES OF ANODYNE OVERDOSE.

Miss Mary Tripp, 25 years old, 2255 South Park avenue, died at the county hospital yesterday from the effects of veronal which she is said to have taken to induce sleep.

VANDAL BLURS BOSTON PAINTING, 'THE SYNAGOGUE'

Boston, Mass., Feb. 22.—Chemical analysis of a black, inklike material spattered on John Singer Sargent's famous painting, "The Synagogue," on the walls of the Boston public library has been ordered by the librarian. The police are trying to trace the vandal.

The painting had been a storm center for more than two years. Jews maintained that in its symbolic presentation of religion of old it was an insult to the Jewish race.

The legislature two years ago passed an act directing the department of education to take the painting by right of eminent domain for use in the teaching of art for university extension work, but the department says it is impossible to do so.

Hearings are again in progress on the question of removing "The Synagogue" from the library.

ONE HURT WHEN BOILER BURSTS.

One man was injured and considerable damage was inflicted when a boiler exploded yesterday in the plant of Nathaniel Baldwin, Inc., manufacturers of radio equipment, at 1337 South Michigan avenue.

$40,000,000 OR DIVORCE, SALM'S EDICT TO ROGERS

Count Worried by Millicent's Hard Papa.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—[Tribune Radio.]—"Six months more of this, and, if Mr. Rogers does not come through, I'm going to get a divorce," Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten said to an old friend in the Ritz hotel in Paris last week while discussing the possibilities of cornering a portion of the Rogers fortune.

Ludy is disgusted with his lack of funds, which hamper his movements. It has become known here that Millicent Rogers sold one of her strings of pearls to pay the passage of herself and Ludy to France. Their hotel bill is being met out of the proceeds of the sale.

Ludy says the Rogers fortune is slipping from his grasp. He knows that he will get nothing as long as Mr. Rogers lives, so he is already laying plans for going through the divorce mill and hunting another fortune. It is tough luck to land a $40,000,000 bride and find that she did not bring the $40,000,000 with her.

WERE MARRIED ON JAN. 9.

Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, direct descendant through a collateral and, according to Gotha, an illegitimate branch of a once royal family, married Miss Millicent Rogers in the office of the city clerk of New York City on Jan. 9.

William V. Kelley Jr. Hurt in Coast Auto Crash

William V. Kelley Jr. of 222 East Delaware place, son of the president of the Mishle Printing Press and Manufacturing company, was injured near Los Angeles yesterday when his automobile skidded through a plate glass window, according to dispatches received last night. He is expected to live. Kelley's parents, whose home is at 1550 North State parkway, are in California with him.

THE WASHINGTON INSPIRATION.

With the memory of the greatness of George Washington refreshed and stimulated in the minds of Chicagoans through incidents of the celebration of his birthday, it is fitting to call public attention to the campaign which is being undertaken to buy and preserve as a sacred possession of the city the famous Gilbert Stuart portrait of the first President, now borrowed and hanging in the Art Institute.

The two morning newspapers have each subscribed $1,000 toward the purchase of this historic painting. The columns of THE TRIBUNE are open to the acknowledgment of all personal contributions to be applied to the same fund. There is nothing partisan about the movement. We would like to see the evening newspapers take up the project unanimously. It is an entirely disinterested movement for the material and practical stimulation of the best type of patriotism.

The best conception of patriotism is rounded out in the minds of true Americans in contemplation and appreciation of the thought, character and action of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. The one founded the Union; the other preserved it. Each is entitled to the undiluted admiration of Americans. The memory of each must be kept bright, personal, and inspiring. We have in the St. Gaudens statute in Lincoln park a masterpiece of art to conserve and vitalize the memory of Lincoln. There is available in the Stuart portrait a magnificent painting to serve as great a purpose for Washington.

It has not only the merit of art but the merit of personality and of historic association. It was painted from life by the hand of a master. It depicts the Father of His Country as he was at the climax of his great career of service for America, just before his retirement from public life. It shows a man grown old in great deeds and wisdom, deeply marked by a lifetime of service and construction, with the silk stockings and buckled shoes of the society of his day, and at the same time with the sword, which he used as effectively as he did the arts of diplomacy.

It is a picture before which the children of Chicago and of all America can be led for countless generations to come, to learn at first hand, in effect, of what constitutes the highest of personal character and the acme of patriotism. The opportunity to retain it here cannot be refused. Persons who contribute willingly to such funds as those for starving German children, for civic opera, and for the various unselfish and progressive activities which tend to raise the level of mankind cannot hesitate to dig into their pockets for this great patriotic work.

MR. MAC DONALD BUILDS SHIPS.

Ramsay MacDonald told the house of commons that the Socialist-Labor government proposed to build five cruisers and two destroyers as replacements authorized under the Washington treaty. He said he wanted to start them at once because he wanted to make employment in the shipyards. He almost said and indeed left it to be assumed that he did not want the ships at all, but he wanted to make work.

Some liberals and some laborites did not like it, but the conservatives joined him and he had a vote of 372 to 73. His reason for building is amusing. Mr. MacDonald knows that Great Britain will live by the sea or die at sea, and that if it trusts to peace on earth and not to warships the day will come when there will be another conquest. As a man committed to a doctrine he gives a bad reason for doing a wise thing, probably did it to give labor an out for being intelligent in act, if unwise in word.

The shipyard workers probably could build houses or make roads or do any of a half dozen things for the state that a government which stuck to pacifist theories could put them at, but the average Britisher who may have an attic full of vain ideas will be found sound in his national instinct, and that tells him that England and Scotland had better keep many ships in the water and their powder dry.

The army may go to pot, but MacDonald will build his ships even as Mr. Pitt. The British have allowed the French to take the mastery of the air away from them, which may be very foolish. If control of the air should mean control of the sea, there might be a day of heavy payment.

Nations are out of luck when the willful ideas of men contradict all that men know of human motives and action. Here in the United States we may blunder and blunder through. The bill is stiff, but it can be paid. There are some blunders Great Britain cannot make and survive. A dockers' strike can make it hungry. A superior fleet could starve it into subjection even if there were not an army behind the better navy.

Even Mr. MacDonald, a disarmament man before he headed the government, will not take that responsibility, and it is good for England that he will not and that, even if he would, he cannot control a majority to put such a program over.

GIVE THE MOLE A CHANCE.

Mr. Insull proposes to build more elevated roads. The council proposes to build subways. Mr. Insull may encounter a lot of trouble before he can do anything, much as it may be needed, but the council, which is talking traction sense and much of it, can be stopped only by the foolishness of the citizens.

The Western Society of Engineers, reporting on Chicago traction, recommends for a downtown subway and against an extensive system. Preference, because of cost, is given elevated and open cut work, where possible, for the outlying districts. The society is for a unified system of subways, elevated, surface lines and busses, accepts public ownership, and recommends private operation supervised by a board of commissioners. There are other suggestions which are good, but what we are interested in here and now is the subway.

What the engineers are against in subway construction does not matter. That is in the future. If they are right it will be proved. If they are wrong it will be only an expression of this day. Future Chicago may agree or may be amused. We do not know which and it is now unimportant.

A mole cannot build all his tunnels and traverses at once. He starts and he digs as he finds it important to dig. Chicago, which has some attributes of a mole, should make the resemblance complete.

The engineers recommend subways where surface conditions make it inadvisable or impossible to provide proper transportation otherwise. That is, of course, downtown. Some politics will be against it, but where in reason would you start? In Cicero? So far as THE TRIBUNE is concerned, it would be glad to see any part of a real system started anywhere, knowing that if the mole gets underground it will do what is needed for it to do.

It is a mistaken idea that because the majority of Chicago people do not enter the loop every day their interests are not there. In varying degrees everybody's interest is in the heart of any city, town or village. A downtown subway would be more in the life of a stenographer, clerk or professional man who daily enters the loop than it would in the life of a man or woman who works at Deering or in the stockyards, but Deering and the yards are not apart from the loop.

Every sensible person knows that whatever comes of the other questions in Chicago traction nothing will be right until ways are chopped through Chicago congestion. Some of these ways must be underground. It does not matter what agreements are reached on other things or how they are settled, subways must be started or nothing real is gained.

Then why wait more years and years and years? Make a start. Attend to the present. Be assured the future will then take care of itself. If a comprehensive system is wrong it will be found so. If it is right it will be found so.

It is important, in our opinion, that whatever be started be broad in conception. It must not be dinky, in the sense that it can have no place in a larger scheme. Initially it may be limited in area but not in possibility.

We couldn't have a comprehensive system all at once if it were plainly indicated as not only advisable but almost mandatory. We can have a beginning which would remodel the city. Then the mole could do what was best. Why not now?

WHY A BOARD OF EDUCATION?

Ever since the present voters of Chicago were old enough to read the board of education has been a brawl. This repeated year after year without regard to the types of men and women on the board seems to us to reveal an inherent fault in the system of administration. Various mayors have taken all manner of citizens, appointed them and found them in each other's hair in a short time. Men accustomed to the autocracy of their own business management and untrained in compromise and conciliation, which is the rule of politics, have fizzled.

If all signs are not wrong there is about to be another blowout which may not be the fault of the trustees, but they'll be drawn in. The city council has apparent designs against the back hair of William McAndrew, the new superintendent of schools. Mr. McAndrew must have forgotten all he ever knew of Chicago school politics. Very likely an excellent school administrator, but he could be perfection itself and yet ride for a fall.

He is not head master of a private school which selects its pupils from ten times more applications than can be admitted. He is at the top of a never quiet situation which is as full of politics as a happy crow is full of corn. In this situation he has become an inapproachable grand lama. The council is about to ride him and the schools will be in confusion again.

We are convinced that the management is all wrong. The schools ought to be administered as a department of city government, just as the department of public works is administered, with the school board abolished and the council doing the necessary legislative work. The aldermen are close to their constituents. They can sift out complaints and satisfy parents. A school trustee belongs to no one. He has no specific constituents. Parents mainly interested in their children, are virtually without representatives in the matter of education.

The board of education never has worked. We do not believe it ever will.

The Other Side

[Illinois State Register.]

It is a real affront to the irreconcilables that the league of nations continues to function as efficiently as possible without regard to America and it must be a galling thought to them that in spite of the refusal of this government to recognize the league in any way it is compelled to take an active part in many of the activities carried on under the auspices of the league.

But their "sorrow's crown of sorrow" must be the utter indifference of the American people to their cup of agony as evidenced in the ever increasing percentage of votes in favor of the Bok peace plan which has now reached 87 for as compared with a measly 13 against, a percentage that exists even in the Massachusetts of Henry Cabot Lodge and the California of Hiram Johnson. Gall and wormwood must taste like sugar in the mouths of these statesmen.

And yet the people who are voting for the Bok plan are not voting for a document, but a principle. They are willing to make concessions and compromises with anything but principle.

"Yes, and what do you think? He not only requested her to return his presents, but sent her a bill for forty-seven visits."—Pearson's Weekly.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

HOLDING DOWN TYPHOID.

THE American Medical association recently reported on typhoid conditions in American cities of 100,000 and over in 1923. This annual custom of theirs dates back more than ten years, and they yearly supply information running back to 1906.

The five cities which in 1923 headed the honor roll were: Norfolk, Va.; Des Moines, Hartford, Providence, and New Bedford. The honor roll includes all cities with typhoid rates of two or less. Norfolk had not a single death from typhoid, and New Bedford and Yonkers had only one each.

In the list of cities of the third rank there were rates of more than ten. The cities in this list, with their rates, were: Dallas, 11.6; Trenton, 11.8; Nashville, 12.3; Memphis, 13.6; Atlanta, 17.1.

The Journal does not think we made much headway in reducing typhoid in cities in 1923. This they attribute, in part, to the fact that vaccination against typhoid has almost stopped and large crops of young people who are not immune to typhoid have grown up since 1918. Possibly, also, many of the millions who were made immune in 1917 and 1918 have lost immunity. However, in the Chicago flareup in the autumn, the age distribution of the cases indicated some immunity in the men who were of army age in 1917 and 1918. It is a striking fact that as late as 1910 the average typhoid rate of fifty-seven American cities was materially higher than was that of Atlanta in 1923.

As late as 1915 the average of the fifty-seven cities would have put them in the third rank. The Chicago rate of a little over one, about which they were so proud about five years ago, was bettered in 1923 by ten cities, among which were such large cities as Boston, Minneapolis, and Milwaukee.

The total number of deaths from typhoid fever in these fifty-seven cities fell from 4,114 in 1910, at which date they had 21,000,000 inhabitants, to 946 in 1923, when they had over 27,000,000 inhabitants.

In the years to come the large cities will have occasional typhoid outbreaks, but they will never go back to conditions as they were in 1910, and certainly they will never get in hailing distance of conditions as they were thirty years ago. The right of holding some one sharply to account whenever typhoid increases materially in a large city is well established.

The American Medical association could render a great service by enlarging the scope of its report in 1925. That report should certainly include facts as to cities of 25,000 to 100,000, and it would be more valuable still if it went as low as cities of 10,000, or even villages of 2,500.

Our large cities are now down to the lowest level, reached by the best of European cities before the world war. As sources of typhoid fever for the country, they are pretty much eliminated. We must next focus the spotlight on the places ranging in population from 10,000 to 100,000. These can clean up, and they will when the spotlight is turned on them.

TREATING AN ECZEMA CASE.

E. M. C. writes: My 13 months old boy has had eczema since he was 3 months old. His face used to clear up at times, but during the last two or three months he has had it constantly. The doctor said it came from food, but when I told him what I fed him, he could not tell how his food had anything to do with it. His meals are as follows:

7:30 a. m.—Cereal, orange juice.

10:30, nap to 12:30—Potato with carrot, spinach, beans, celery, soup or boiled onion. Every day I give him a different meal.

6 p. m.—Cereal and tapioca, rice pudding or junket.

For lunch he gets a piece of bread and butter and about 4 p. m. he gets one-half glass of milk. Also milk with each meal.

He sleeps from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m.

Has one bowel movement a day, about 8 a. m.

Has had no bottle since 12 months. No cream in his milk. He did not scratch his face until lately.

REPLY.

The best single remedy is the following: A mixture of two parts each crude coal tar and zinc ointment and 16 parts each cornstarch and petrolatum. The crude coal tar and the zinc ointment are rubbed together thoroughly and then put through a sieve. Next, the starch is rubbed in and, finally, the petrolatum. The mixture should be black. If it is olive green it must not be used. The batch must be thrown away and new ingredients used in making a new lot. The ointment is buttered in the tettered area, but the spot is not covered with a bandage. The next day use olive oil on soft, sterile gauze to remove the old ointment, after which new ointment is applied. This cures some cases without changing the diet.

In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, tetter is caused by the diet. The particular food causing it in a given case may be some food that is wholesome for most children. The diet you are using seems all right, but it is probably wrong somewhere. If the salve does not cure, begin experimenting with the diet.

For one week, leave out all cereals. If this proves to be the wrong track, try leaving out all milk for one week. And so on until you find the cause.

PLAYING BOTH SIDES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—In a case where a firm of attorneys are representing the administratrix of an estate and one of the firm takes a claim against said estate, representing the claimant, I understand that it is a violation of the rules of the State Bar association, and leaves the said firm liable to disbarment. In the case referred to, the junior member of the firm obtained the O. K. of the administratrix, an illiterate person, to the claim, but without the knowledge or consent of the residuary legatee.
W. J. P.

It is considered unethical for an attorney to represent both sides in a contested matter, but the bare facts that you state would not be ground for disbarment. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the merits of the claim.

FOREIGN INHERITANCE.

Walworth, Wis., Feb. 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a person inherits some money from a European country, does he have to pay an inheritance tax to the United States on such money?

P. W.

1. In general, no, assuming that the money was not situated in the United States.
2. Yes, if it is otherwise subject to duty.

LOOK BEFORE YOU SPEND YOUR $72.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Last evening I was the lucky person to win a quarter acre lot in Glen Ellyn. The agent says that the lot is worth $300 and it will be given to me if I pay $74 for the expenses of recording the deed, surveying the lot, and a few other details. I paid a $2 deposit and am to pay the $72 as soon as I decide to take the lot. What would you advise? Should I take it or leave it?
J. P.

It has been a very common form of fraud to give as a prize real estate which is worthless because it is waste land or because of defects in the title. The donors make their profit out of making a substantial charge for an abstract which costs them very little. We advise you not to pay the $72 without satisfying yourself as to the value of the land and the title. You might get information by taking the matter up with the state's attorney's office.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 23, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Baltimore was selected as the place and June 7 as the time for holding the national Republican Union convention. The only slave states represented at the meeting of the national committee were Delaware and Maryland.

DES MOINES.—The Republican state convention adopted resolutions declaring Abraham Lincoln the first choice of Iowa for President. The war policy was approved, including that looking to the total extinction of slavery.

WASHINGTON. — The conference committee on the whisky bill agreed on a tax of 60 cents on liquor made up to July 1 next; 85 cents from July 1 to Jan. 1 next, and 70 cents thereafter. All members signed the report except Washburne, who contended for a sliding rate of 80 cents and $1, with a 20 cent tax for stock on hand.

FORTRESS MONROE.—The Richmond Examiner says: "Spencer Dayton has been arrested, tried, condemned and hanged as a Yankee spy at Castle Thunder. Three deserters who took up arms against the Confederacy were hanged on the twelfth. Fifty-eight escaped Yankee officers have been returned to Libby prison."

QUINCY, Ill.—Gov. "Dick" Yates spoke for two and one-half hours on war questions to a crowd of 10,000 at the Washington birthday celebration here.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 23, 1899.

MANILA—Rebel Filipinos fired Manila, applying the torch in many sections. Between 600 and 700 residences and business houses were burned.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of War Alger probably will be out of the cabinet within two weeks. It is reported his resignation will be forced if he does not quit voluntarily.

PARIS—It is estimated that 100,000 soldiers are in Paris to preserve order at the funeral of President Faure.

AUGUSTA, Me.—Gov. Powers will call an election for June 19 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Nelson Dingley.

DETROIT—Frank O. Lowden of Chicago, speaking at the Michigan club banquet, praised President McKinley's conduct of the war and the Republican party.

WASHINGTON—Senator and Mrs. Mark Hanna gave a large dinner at the Arlington, at which the principal guests were Vice President and Mrs. Hobart.

CHICAGO—The nominating committee of the Chicago Woman's club submitted the name of Mrs. Penoyer L. Sherman for president.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 23, 1914.

LONDON.—H. W. Marsh of Chicago and New York has leased historic Warwick castle from the earl of Warwick.

ST. LOUIS.—Mrs. Selwyn C. Edgar, third wife of the president of the Edgar Zinc company, has fled her home. She went to visit her brother, Alfred H. Shotwell, 207 East Chestnut street, Chicago, on Feb. 6 and has refused to return, Mr. Edgar said.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson will have to change his policy of "watchful waiting" on Mexico as a result of the killing of W. S. Benton, a British subject, by Villa rebels, his friends assert.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. W. A. Tilden, wife of the president of the Fort Dearborn National bank, was placed under $100 bonds to appear in court as the result of a family clash over her 82 year old mother, Mrs. Margaret Merrill.

CHICAGO.—Samuel W. Allerton, pioneer packer and leader in Chicago industrial life for half a century, died at his winter home in Pasadena, Cal. It was through him and John B. Sherman that the Union stock yards became a reality.

CHICAGO.—Blizzards raged in the southwest and the northwest with trains stalled and wire service crippled. They are expected to hit Chicago tomorrow.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WHERE ARE WE! What was it—an earthquake or an explosion? How long ago did it happen? Three days! Well, well. How far were we blown? What! So we're right over here next to Gaar Williams and Vox Pop. Well, that's fine! Hello, Spin Williams, hope we didn't hurt you any when we bumped into you. How are you and how's everybody down in Indianer? Well, sir, we couldn't ask any greater blessing than to be right next to you, Spin. And Vox Pop! Well, well, well! Good old Vox! Go after 'em, Vox. More power to you! (But don't you bite our nice contribs.)

HELLO, that you, Docevans? You here, too! Why, we thought we had been blown clear away from you. Oh, that's it—we're just on the other side of you now. We must have been blown right through you, Doc. Did it hurt? So we're still with you, but on the other side. That's great! And here you are sitting right by the bed and taking care of us. Thanks, Doc, that mutton broth is fine! And the toast! Oh, immense! No, thank you, Doc, no, no, thanks just the same, but no rawsberry jam. Well, well, think of the old Line o' Type waking up and finding itself in this nice place. Here's our hand, Doc and Spin and Vox. Boys, this is certainly great!

HE'LL FALL FOR IT.

R. H. L.: Chicago is to have the largest riding hall in the world. Can't you induce the Prince of Wales to appear there opening night? It is the only place that he has not fallen from his horse. Why not let him keep his record clean? Anyhow, we'll send him an invitation.

AMBULANCE! ROBIN OF SHERWOOD FOREST IS GOING TO THE HOSPITAL.

R. H. L.: Marian's boasting of following the "tracks of tiny woods animals" is only an excuse to show herself off in her knickers and lumberjack's shirt. They are so-o-o chic. Women certainly do love to copy the dress habits, vices, and mannerisms of the sex which has no outdoor representatives in Chicago except those on the posters on Sheridan road! Probably the place where Marian goes to look for the "tracks of tiny woods animals" is Lincoln park, and the tracks are the tracks of squirrels who were looking for nuts!

BUT YOUR ROSIE, SHE IS RIGHT REB HIRSCH.

Mister: Sunday to breakfast, my Rosie pours me in the second cup coffee and I am just taking the third, or it should be the fourth piece from gugelhopf, when she asks:

Chyam, are you writing again something in the newspaper?

Writing, I write; I say. But if it comes in the newspaper, from that I aint a prophet. Why do you make the question?

Because I want you should write in the paper some poetry.

Almost the gugelhopf falls me from the hand. I? Poetry? Pharaoh should live so. Why poetry?

Because then you can make maybe for yourself a big name like that King of those Black Islands.

I should know to say from the King from the Black Islands, I answer. Since the war, it gives already so many new kings and dictators and one thing with another you can make from them a whole directory.

Let the dumbness be: my Rosie says. This aint in The Line but in the life. And don't change me the subject. When I say, Write poetry, it aint from a hollow barrel out. Already you got such things in the paper what gives me before the world only a black eye. Someone should read it he would think I henpeck you. Aber the world should see how it goes to by us in the house, soon it would know by you is nothing to kick from. By me is different. I got a right to complain myself. I got a right I should say: I am the henpecked wife.

With respect.

Or pitch a tent in the tangled jungle at Lake Golden, with the loon's devilish cackle and the noise of giant pines rubbing noses! Heartsease has vanished,
Naught left but rue,
Some one is lonesome,
Dearest, for you.

ASKING JUSTICE FOR FORMER SOLDIERS IN FEDERAL PRISON.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—As a former service man whose lot happened not to have been with army officialdom but in the ranks, may I express to your newspaper my personal appreciation of the effort your staff is making toward getting at facts in connection with the 176 soldier convicts at Leavenworth?

All through the recent wave of sympathy for slackers, draft evaders, I. W. W.'s and traitors generally I have held my nose. In my opinion, the exercise of clemency at Washington has been gone at hind end to. It should have started with just those cases that your special writer now is revealing to the public. I personally saw something of the meting out of so-called "justice" to enlisted men by courts martial, and if there ever was a more tragic farce I have never heard of it.

Apparently all one has to do to incite immeasurable sympathy and response is to declare that either some foreign nation or some one here at home who has lent aid to some section of Europe when help was more needed at home is in trouble and maudlin sentiment goes wild. All the while our own American children continue to starve in many sections of cities, and our own service men who did fight, yet who got in a jam of some kind after it was over, merit naught but neglect.

SUBSTITUTING "THANK YOU" FOR TIPS.

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 16.—Apropos of H. H. P.'s article in your paper of the 16th headed "Let Tipping Spread," evidently H. H. P. has never been a salesman on the road or he would not advocate such a thing. The writer has for over four years been on the road meeting all kinds of people, some in public service work, some not, and is in a position to know that there is one thing which gets results quicker and oftener than anything, and that is recognizing anything done for him with a hearty "thank you."

Very often in railroad cars—which are usually too hot both for comfort and health—when the brakeman would turn off the heat of his own accord, a hearty "That's the stuff, Cap," will sure make a smile appear on his face.

H. H. P. might go farther in his assertion. Why not tip your grocer? It may mean more in the end than tipping a street car conductor. I could tell several experiences of a personal nature where the smile and pleasant greeting accomplished what a "frozen face" never did.

THE IMPORTANCE OF IMMIGRATION.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Immigration in general must be restricted if our institutions are to remain American.

The continuous influx of foreigners to our shores, making the United States the dumping ground of foreign countries, must be stopped.

Unless we Americans arouse ourselves from the state of inaction and indifference the immortal words of Stephen Decatur will become naught, for it will no longer be our country, but rather the country of the alien. A question of such magnitude as this internal and domestic problem should be of the most vital importance.
SUBSCRIBER.

WE'LL LET IT GO AT THAT.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—In reply to my C. P. A. self-styled critic I wish to say: "Non compos mentis." He is absolutely wrong in every count.

First—My article of Jan. 30 referred to THE TRIBUNE'S issue of Jan. 25, not Feb. 2, and it is an absolute fact that taxes "in some sections of the city" of Chicago, as stated in my previous article, will be increased "fully 25 per cent" over 1922. My critic is barking up the wrong tree.

Second—In my article of Jan. 30 nothing was said about yearly property valuations. What I stated was: "A 25 per cent increase in taxes is a big jump for one year. What security have the people that such a procedure will not be duplicated next year?" Undoubtedly my critic is unaware of the fact that it is not necessary to revalue property in order to increase taxes excessively. I hold in my possession two paid tax bills, the one for 1920 was in the amount of $612.01 and the other for 1921 (on the same property valuation) was in the amount of $817.73—an increase of over 30 per cent in taxes.

FRENCH PRECEDENT.

Moline, Ill., Feb. 16.—In scanning a tiny four page weekly newspaper, dated Wednesday, Dec. 3, 1834, and published in Carlskrona, Sweden, under the name of Carlskrona Weckoblad (Weekly Blade), and under the heading of foreign news I found the following, the same being a free translation:

"The recently formed ministry in France has already been dissolved. Several reasons for this have been set forth, among which are the king's uncompromising attitude, the financial difficulties of the Duke (?) of Bassano, and the American Minister Livingston's note, in which his government demands the payment of the $25,000,000 due it on account of France's spoliations upon American commerce after the settlement of 1803, and further stating that unless the debt is recognised and paid be, the minister, will feel compelled to ask for his passports. The king has held out for the payment of this debt, but the majority of the ministry voted against acknowledging the debt to America." The sentiment expressed in the latter part of the foregoing paragraph sound somewhat familiar.
OLD FILES.

DANGER.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—In reference to your "Danger" editorial Feb. 18, 1924, stating there will be trouble if the impression grows that there are sections in Chicago in which it is unsafe for an isolated white to appear, may I say that if the impression grows that there are sections in Chicago in which it is unsafe for a Negro man to escort his light skinned Negro wife, sister, or sweetheart there will also be trouble.

A crowd of white hoodlums attacked a Negro at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue because his Negro wife was so fair that the white ruffian censors mistook her for a white woman. A Negro youth was attacked by a crowd of white hoodlums at 47th street and Langley avenue because his sister, whom he was escorting, happened to be as fair as a white girl.

The whites as well as Negroes have a plentiful supply of the hooligan-hoodlum class, so why not attack all hoodlumism?
GORDON OWEN.

PANNING THE MUSIC CRITIC FOR A CHANGE.

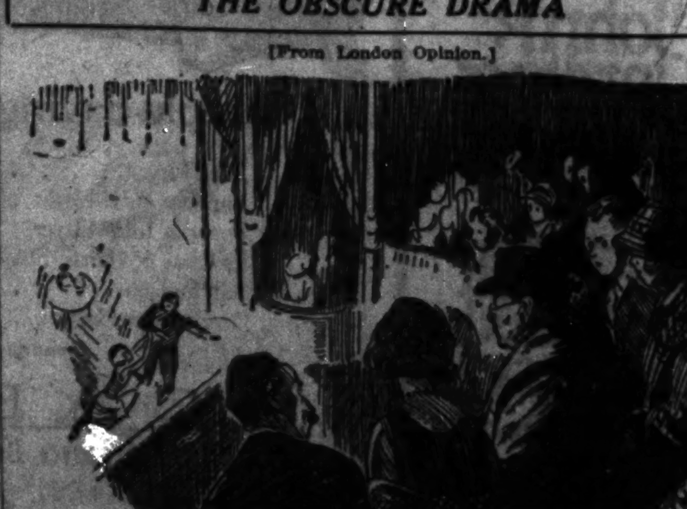

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Last evening I attended a concert given at Orchestra hall by one Meissaye Boguslawski and the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Being a musician who has had quite an intensive training, I witnessed what I thought to be an excellent performance by an excellent performer.

This morning your critic, Mr. Moore, in review of same, seemed to make the main point of issue the fact that Boguslawski's name appeared first, assisted by the orchestra.

I found out later that the orchestra was engaged either by or for Boguslawski for that event, so I cannot see why the critic should base a most mediocre catch as catch can criticism on that score. It seems to me that if a column is worth while it should be given some adequate space by a person who is mentally capable of judging a performance. Why not talk less about printing the world's greatest newspaper and think more about obtaining men on your staff who will really make it so?

HIGH OFFICIALS OF RUSSIA BACK WHITE SLAVERS

Death of Girl Reveals Big Vice Ring.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—A Russian white slave ring with ramifications in Moscow, Petrograd, Nizhni Novgorod, and Odessa, supported by several high officials of the soviet, has been uncovered following the death two months ago of a young girl in a house of vice in Moscow.

An investigation of the girl's death led to the discovery of the ring, which operates dives in various Russian cities. These are frequented by soviet officials, who protect the places presumably for graft.

The ring was organized in 1921. It obtained its first victims through highly placed officials in the department of commerce. Young women and girls in the Volga region were lured in the hands of the ring through officials who promised them positions with soviet institutions in Moscow, or who said they would place them in orphan asylums. Girls as young as 13 years of age were taken into the mills.

Zinovieff's Mistress Involved.

Among the heads of the ring is the former mistress of M. Zinovieff, president of the third internationale, who operated beauty parlors abroad and who today is a member of the communists' of internal affairs.

An attempt was made to bring the matter into the courts, but it was hushed up. All the officials connected with the investigation were sent to the provinces or degraded to positions of minor importance.

The opposition party in the communists' ranks is making every effort to bring the scandal before the courts for the second time, threatening to publish the name of every official involved in the case unless the prosecuting attorney takes immediate action.

Trotzky Demands Friendly Guards.

Leon Trotzky called a halt yesterday in the arrests of inhabitants in south Russia, where he is under open arrest, declaring the guilty persons in the bomb plot against him, which resulted in the death of three men, will not be found there.

M. Trotzky also demanded changes in the personnel of his guards, indicating he believed the plot emanated from them. He asked that Red army men known to him be assigned to police duty over him.

Several highly placed members of the communist party have joined M. Trotzky in demanding that the wholesale arrests in the army cease, as it is likely to bring on an army revolt.

Emma Goldman Scores Bolsheviki.

Emma Goldman, former American anarchist who was deported from the United States, tonight addressed the Lessing seminary of Berlin university on the bolsheviki.

Miss Goldman unmercifully flayed the brutalities, slayings and false economic foundations of the present Russian government. Lenin, she said, will be described in history as the man who killed the Russian revolution. She described Lenin's dictatorship as more definite, rigid and destructive than that of the Romanoffs.

Miss Goldman called attention to the recent massacre in the Solovietsky monastery as an example of the soviet's present methods.

"The masses in Russia are probably more enslaved, are more exploited, and have less to say than in any other country in the world," she asserted.

The top-coats achieve distinction through rich, colorful fabrics

These coats are doubly desirable since they may be worn now as well as during milder weather. The styles are varied, and the colors include springlike shades of artichoke green, oatmeal, tile, macaroon and gypsy.

The other style pictured is of muscova cloth, handsomely braid-trimmed at collar, cuffs and pockets, and is priced at $65.

With such a coat one's daytime wrap difficulty is easily banished.

Handsome new frocks

are of favored satin and alpaca with softening touches of white or ecru, will serve any purpose from sunrise to sunset.

$50 and $55

The sudden and insistent demand for the lustrous fabric of grandmother's time results in winsome frocks of alpaca, while for the maiden who prefers a glossier surface, there are delightful dresses of satin. Ecru lace at collar, cuffs and pocket, gives to the satin frock an appealing daintiness, and the boyish alpaca finds paradoxical femininity in collar, cuffs and jabot of white crepe.

"The Miracle"

An Attempt—and Only an Attempt—to Put on Paper Impressions Conveyed by an Achievement in the Field of Poetic and Dramatic Investiture.

By James O'Donnell Bennett.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—There are moments in the presentation of "The Miracle" at the Century theater when the roof of the audience's—not the actors'—part of the playhouse seems to vanish, and from the stage 1,400 rapturous eyes and 1,400 adoring hands are lifted toward the wintry stars.

That detail is mentioned first because it gives the scale of this mighty achievement in stage investiture; amid a multitude of gigantic effects it remains, nevertheless, a detail.

There are other moments of processional when those stars seem to descend from the austere sky: They seem to be stealing through the auditorium and streaming down upon the stage in cascades of light.

But if "The Miracle" were only a spectacle it would not repay telegraph tolls and print paper. It is gorgeous; it is magnificent; so is the grand entry that opens the performance of a first rate circus; few other spectacles are so valid as that. But in the matter of "The Miracle" the important matter is not its magnificence. Old phrases like "a riot of color" and "unprecedented splendor" will not serve here. What "The Miracle" is is a harmony of color; nay, more, quite literally a hymn of color. What it is is the most spacious and resplendent expression of poetry in song and picture and pantomime in the records of American theatrical production.

There is a good word, little used, the word canorous—"having a singing quality." It defines the supreme quality of "The Miracle."

For here is the poetry not of words but of worship, and that spirit of worship is imparted by means of the pageantry and the exultant countenances of singing worshipers. But of words uttered in a speaking tone there are hardly fifty released in the whole course of the long performance. Those words come in the broken and unfinished repetition of the Lord's Prayer in English. The rest of the spoken text is in Latin; it includes the Laurentanian litany from the ancient Catholic offices, but that excerpt can hardly be said to be spoken. After a few seconds of decorous intoning the delivery of it rises to the frantic fervor of a Methodist revival—naught less.

And yet this fabric, pieced together from mediaeval mystery and morality plays and given voice in a recondite tongue, has captivated a town which likes to think itself—and which is—the most sophisticated of capitals. Nightly the playhouse is crowded. Some say the production will remain on view here for three years, their belief being that, because it is too huge to be profitably taken through the country, the country will come to it.

The essential outlines of the legend from which Karl Vollmoeller and Max Reinhardt developed the pageant-play of "The Miracle" in 1911 are familiar. A young nun is drawn by the love men call earthly from her round of pious offices in an ancient conventual church on the Rhine. She goes forth into the world, into brief joys and long suffering. Infinite pity touches to life the miracle-working image of the Virgin which is the glory of the convent. The divine mother dons the habiliments and takes up the duties of the sister who has fled from duty. Adelaide Proctor cast the theme into a narrative that is one of the treasures of English poetry; so, in our time, did John Davidson; Maurice Maeterlinck gave the same theme expression as poignant as it was lovely in his play "Sister Beatrice."

Now move yourself back into the fourteenth century. The directors of "The Miracle" have not stopped at the proscenium arch. They have given you every aid to readjustment. You are not a spectator in a playhouse; you are a worshiper in a church. Again you believe.

The gilt and silk and plush of a modern theater have vanished.

You have paid your way into a playhouse, but now as you gaze around—now, whithersoever you gaze—a church, frigid, dark, silent, envelops you. In a word, the Century theater has become a structure within a structure.

Twenty gray Gothic pillars spring to a height of nearly 100 feet from the level of the stage; an altar of white marble, illuminated only faintly until after the audience is seated, dominates the stage. Upon this waiting silence and dimness light falls in long shafts through painted glass. The note is carried far beyond the proscenium arch. The seating part of the playhouse is overlooked by stained windows extending from a few feet above the floor to the roof. Where once were flights of steps and corridors leading into foyer and lobby now are cloisters, and screens in the semblance of stone. The lines of the balconies are hidden by scores of the drooping banners of warriors home from the crusades. Where each row of theater chairs meets the aisles pew ends, richly carven, have been placed. The girl ushers wear a modified sort of conventual garb.

All the rest is dimness, almost darkness.

Now the mediaeval city of which we have become a part, yea the diocese, the principality of this Rhineland area, is streaming into the church. They are coming for a high festival in "Mary's month of May."

They come with swaying banners—the rush and swish of banners. The rumble of pipe organs which have been built into this church that was once a playhouse meets their singing voices. They are coming through the aisles on which our pews open and they are massing on the stage, all our townspeople—in the grays and the faded greens of artisans, in the rags of crippled beggars who are stumping on crutches or crawling on hands and knees along the aisles, in the black armor, rusted and war worn, of men-at-arms, in the bright silver armor of knights, in the broad hats and with the staves of pilgrims, in the black and white of nuns, in the blues and the terra cottas of burgher men and women, in the furs of nobles, in the purple and blazing scarlet and gold of prelates and clergy.

Now a cross of hewn timber—four men staggering under the burden of it. Now peasant girls with arms full of flowers—big sheaves of flowers. Now the archbishop advancing beneath a swaying baldachin of crimson and gold. Now humble folk bearing green boughs. Now a litter upon which a waxen faced epileptic is writhing feebly. Now the blind, led by pitying children. Now princes, counts, barons, striding arrogantly, not borne down by these splendors, unperturbed by these excitements.

We in the pews share not their equanimity. This thing is overwhelming! It is a townful emptying into a theater. From what immense reaches of the building can they be coming? You feel that they cannot have been marshaled in a stage greenroom or a theater's foyer. They must be massing in and advancing from yonder park across the way.

And over all, banners tossing—not banners new and bright, but faded, venerable, some of them frayed—and above the banners clouds of incense, and above the clouds of incense the brazen mumbling and roaring of enormous church bells. At midnight, long after the audience had gone home, I saw, together with the 2,000 costumes of this production and its 1,018 properties and the twenty-two and a half miles of electric cables that light it—I saw, amid this staggering array and outlay, the heaviest of those bronze chimes. It weighs more than half a ton.

Once while the church is filling a lantern flashes behind some narrow slits of windows in a belfry turret rising to a height of sixty feet to the left of the proscenium arch as you face it. Without, perhaps, your quite knowing why, that remote flashing is an effect possessing large veracity. Attainment of it required the construction of a flight of sixty steps which are used by but one character for less than five minutes. It is worth while.

The festival service in Mary's honor proceeded. The moment of the elevation of the host, with its warning note of clashing massbells and its fulfillment of appalling silence, was reached and passed.

A priest took up the impassioned Laurentanian litany—his voice calm upon the opening words, "Sancta Maria, sancta Dei genitrix, sancta virgo virginum," and 700 voices answering in deep diapason, "Ora pro nobis!" The voice sank to moaning insistence—"Mater purissima, mater castissima, mater inviolata."

"Ora pro nobis!"

Now the people, too, were shouting, screaming, writhing.

The crippled epileptic on the litter stirred. He rose, struggled toward the miracle-working image of the Virgin, moaning, laughing, praying as he lurched across the stage. The figures surging around him—soldiers, women, children—were mad with wonder and joy and terror before this miraculous healing.

Jubilant nuns rushed to the bell ropes. The brazen roar that made the playhouse tremble drowned the screams of the people. Concealed pipe organs in the body of the theater, an invisible orchestra in the second balcony and a concealed choir behind it, and the throng on the stage answered the exulting bells. Antiphonal, crossing darkness and descending from darkness, met antiphonal and blended with it.

A long time ago I was for two years an employé in the world of the theater. During those years I had opportunity to observe at close range the exactions of theatrical production, though I never saw the attainment of any effect that remotely approached in difficulty and in scale such effects as are attained by Morris Gest and his American and German colleagues in the American production and elaboration of Max Reinhardt's "Miracle." But my remembrance of the difficulties is lively enough to teach me that not weeks but months of rehearsal and re-rehearsal must have been required to effect dramatic and poetic coherence in the dusty rushing to and fro of humble women who were hysterical, wild eyed, unkempt, in the adoring postures of noble dames, in the ranks upon ranks of faces working in agony and in awe, and in the blending of the strident voice of the priest with the imploring tones of the afflicted and the kinsfolk of the afflicted.

The glory of this performance—to call it by so belittling a word, for it is more a service—the glory of it is that nothing is pretended to be done. All is done. That is true of the incessant but harmonized byplay, and an equal note of veracity distinguishes the multitude of faces which look out at you from pillared chancel and from altar steps—inviolate, waxen faces of venerable nuns; honest, comfortable faces of burghers and their wives; trustful, wondering faces of little children; heavy, brutalized faces of men-at-arms; austere faces of prelates; carnal, haughty faces of men who possessed—and exercised—the powers of life and death over that mediaeval Europe. These "makeups"—to use another belittling but convenient word of the theater—lived. The mellowness of good and the shadows of evil desires rested upon them. You felt your kinship, not, after all, so very remote, with those men and women, and the feeling made you ponder, and what you pondered upon was, I suppose, the uninterrupted flow of human life and human passions across the ages—across and down the ages to you.

Amid deep, still poignancy the drama of error and expiation, of life lived and life mislived, shaped itself upon and was propelled by the opening scenes of adoration, of miraculous healing, and of the assumption, by the highest, of the humblest service. Wild revelry, self-seeking pleasure, remorse that is dust and ashes because it does not fructify in penitence, take the stage and crowd and jostle one another, and clamor at one another. But above revelry, faintly sometimes, but ever tenderly and more tenderly, sound the pleading bells of the purer days which their voice will herald again. That is "The Miracle's" climax, and that its message—through the discipline of pain and grief to penitence, and through penitence to joy. Now the bells are singing it triumphantly; slowly the stage grows dark, and silently the people go their ways.

J. BARTON PAYNE WILLING TO RUN FOR PRESIDENCY

Would Accept Democratic Nomination.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—John Barton Payne, director of the American Red Cross and former secretary of the interior, will accept the Democratic nomination for the presidency if it should be tendered him. He is not, however, in any sense a candidate for the nomination.

Upon his return from Chicago today, where he had been attending a meeting of the south park board, of which he is chairman, Mr. Payne was shown THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE announcement this morning that he is willing to be considered by the Democrats of the country for the nomination and that his name, in all probability, will be presented to the New York convention by the Illinois delegation.

Asked to comment upon THE TRIBUNE'S announcement, Mr. Payne, after some reflection, dictated the following statement:

"One is necessarily very much gratified that his own state should present him for the presidency.

His View on Presidency.

"I am certainly not a candidate for the presidency. It is an office which I have always felt that no one should seek and that no one could decline."

Having stated this, Mr. Payne wished to go no further into the matter and would not discuss politics or issues. Asked for his views on issues and political policies, Mr. Payne said:

"I am not in politics. I am not a candidate, and, being the head of the Red Cross, I am not only not disposed to but could not talk politics."

The Payne boom for the Democratic nomination, it was discovered in the wake of THE TRIBUNE'S announcement, has been brewing for several weeks. In fact, it has its real origin in the minds of supporters of William G. McAdoo, some of whom conferred here in Washington following the revelations before the senate investigating committee of Mr. McAdoo's professional relations with Edward L. Doheny.

Would Replace McAdoo.

These were influential Democratic leaders, who had been for McAdoo, but who felt that his candidacy had been arrested by the senate disclosures. That some of them asked Mr. Payne if he would be a candidate is known to be a fact, and Mr. Payne told them just what he said today, that he was not a candidate for the presidency, that he never would seek to have the nomination fall to him, but that he could not decline it if it should come to him.

Friends of Judge Payne, as he has been familiarly called here ever since he came to Washington at the outbreak of the war, hold him to be an ideal candidate for the party in the existing political emergency. As an example of honesty and efficiency in public service demonstrated during the war years and those immediately following, they regard Judge Payne as preëminent.

Should he be nominated they assert that the salient planks in his platform would be honesty in administration and "economy in government operation."

J. G. GOODWILLIE, MANUFACTURER, DIES IN SOUTH

James G. Goodwillie, pioneer box manufacturer, died at his winter home in Tapma, Fla., at the age of 70 years. Mr. Goodwillie had gone to Florida a year ago after suffering a stroke of apoplexy.

JAMES G. GOODWILLIE.

Mr. Goodwillie was born Dec. 26, 1851. In 1847 his father, David Goodwillie, established a branch of his box manufacturing business in Chicago at 35 Ohio street. After his father's death James G. Goodwillie and his two brothers, Robert W. and David L., organized the firm of Goodwillie Brothers, now known as the Goodwillie-Green Lumber company.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Margaret Reed Goodwillie, he is survived by two sons, Arthur Lawson Goodwillie, head of Chicago bond house of Goodwillie & Co., and Clarence Goodwillie. Mr. Goodwillie was a member of the Union League club. For thirty years he was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park, where funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The family residence is at 309 N. Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

SAVE DUNELAND AS STATE PARK, HOOSIERS URGE

Preservation of the picturesque duneland in northern Indiana as a state park was advocated at a meeting of the Indiana society of Chicgo, held Thursday in the Union League club.

The plans at present include a drive for $100,000, to be augumented by a similar amount from the Indiana legislature. When the original amount is collected the money will be used in beautifying the strip of land along the south edge of the lake, as well as in building modern roads and trails through the dunes.

Carroll Shaffer, chairman of the society, said one donation of $250,000 was in sight as soon as the project showed results.

Margaret Wilson Weds Scotchman, Oxford Tutor; Other News of Authors and What They're Doing

A letter from Margaret Wilson, author of the Harper prize novel, "The Able McLaughlins," to her publishers gave them the surprise she meant to give them. It was written from Paris. "I was married," she says, "the day before Christmas to a Scotchman whose ancestors lived next door to the McLaughlins in Ayreshire some generations ago. He is a tutor now in Brasenose college, Oxford, and we are going back there next week to live. There was nothing rash about the marriage, for we have known each other for nineteen years, when we were both young and idiotic in India. . . . The Paris papers have given the book and me a lot of space, but they haven't got this news yet. It was very clever, really, of us to keep it so quiet, for the international complications were melodramatic enough for the wildest romance. I shall still be Margaret Wilson to the public, but my new name is Mrs. G. D. Turner."

A Family Treasure.

Fannie Ferber Fox has compiled, with the help of Alvina Schwartz, a cook book which, just to read, makes one long for a big apron and a kitchen to wear it in. Food, in her book, is something to please more than one of the senses, or even more than two. It is a picture to look upon as well as a delight to the palate, and the nose certainly knows it. It is something more than a cook book, though. It is a first edition of an Edna Ferber item, for it contains a characteristic introduction by her of her sister's first literary venture, though so modest are they both that Edna never says, "Look! My sister Fannie, she made this cook book." She just tells the truth about it, that it is a guide book to that most alluring art, American home cooking.

A Covered Wagon Crusade.

Ohio is deep in a movement sponsored by the Farm Bureau federation and the Ohio State Grange calling for a "return to the ways of our fathers: simplicity, honesty, economy in government." They have taken as their symbol the covered wagon. A fleet of replicas of old covered wagons is rolling over Ohio gathering petitions for lower taxes. When the entire state has been canvassed they will storm Washington. There are rumors that the covered wagon campaign is spreading to other states. It is probably the movie which has given the covered wagon its present day popularity, but "The Covered Wagon" was a novel before it was a picture and, such is the irony of life, that picture brought Emerson Hough the first really big financial success of his life just as he was leaving it. The last book he wrote before his death has just been published in book form, "Mother of Gold." You probably read it when it was running serially in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

A Lusty Lyre.

When some mysterious poet who called himself "King of the Black Isles" first appeared in A Line-o'-Type-or-Two," he took not only Mr. Little himself but the whole colony of columnites by storm. Since then this gentleman of mystery has been writing . . . not only for the Line but for Keith Preston's column in the Daily News and "From Pillar to Post" in the Evening Post, and never has column poet won so passionate and immediate a following. The "King" now steps forth as J. U. Nicholson, creator of a small volume of verse. Unlike most of the best verse that gets sent to columns it is not funny, it does not specialize in the whip-lash method, and it does celebrate the evanescence of life, the imminence of death, the casualness of love, and the race and dash of adventure.

It sounds at times like the Shropshire Lad, at times like Kipling, at times like Sappho, and at times like Ella Wheeler Wilcox in her passionate mood. Sometimes it has great beauty, sometimes intriguing rhyme schemes, many times it celebrates the past of lusty love. Sometimes it is as good as his admirers think, who say that it is as good as any poetry being written, and rarely it is as bad as his detractors think, who say it is warmed up passion. But almost throughout it has a fire and a flashing stride that is undeniable to admirers and detractors alike.

Keith Preston has written a short but characteristically pleasant preface in which he says among other things that "for putting life and lure into the past, he stands among current poets as a Sabatini among novelists."

Romance, Charm of Pacific Isle Are Told in 'Galapagos'

By Fanny Butcher.

William Beebe has written in "Galapagos" another "White Shadows of the South Seas," with this difference. While Mr. O'Brien allowed that the seas and the flora of Tahiti were not to be disregarded, he also allowed that it had other and more potent beauties. Mr. Beebe never once looks into the S. S. V. P. eyes of a gal from Galapagos—because there isn't any such thing. But he finds in the birds and the fish and the reptiles of that unexplored part of the Pacific as much romance and as much charm as Mr. O'Brien ever found in his private Eiysia.

Mr. Beebe writes like a scientist and a mystic, while Mr. O'Brien wrote like an excellent, skilled, and clever newspaper man. There is, however, quite the almost pole-apart difference between the two books, something akin about them. They both bring romance to a city dweller whose finger tips touch far places in his dreams, but never grasp them. And even though Mr. Beebe writes about such distant relatives as lizards and sea lions and finches and mocking birds, he makes them seem as fascinating companions and almost as evocative as Mr. O'Brien's.

Mr. Beebe's large and handsome volume with colored plates of fierce creatures which look as if they had come out of the dinosauric age, with reproductions of rare birds and fish so gayly colored as to seem like the kind of fish a painter might dream of if he had been wiping his brushes on his tongue after the manner of the less hygienic water colorists, his almost pompous looking volume is supposed to be a record of a scientific trip made last year to Galapagos, 500 miles off Ecuador, in the Pacific, a group of volcanic islands only lately approached by scientists.

What it actually is is a journey straight into unreality, or perhaps we might say the greater reality, a trip into the hearts of wild things as well as wild places. It is only incidental that Robinson Crusoe was marooned on one of the islands. Alexander Selkirk, so this book says, was picked up on one of them, was taken to London, and wrote the story of his four years' exile there. He was persuaded to accept the aid of one young Daniel Defoe, who, however, after keeping the manuscript a couple of years told the rescued man that there was nothing of merit in his book, but proceeded to publish in a little while practically the exact story of that exile.

Another shipwreck, one of whose survivors drives a taxicab in New York, makes a thrilling tale. But, believe me or not, as you will, the story of the discoveries of this naturalist on the islands is as thrilling as any tale of shipwreck, or of romantic life at the world end.

Mr. Beebe and his party found the islands in practically their primitive state. They are still in the reptilian stage of development. Animals are unafraid on some of them. Only birds and fish and crawling things are anywhere about. To this almost prehistoric spot there arrived a luxurious ocean yacht inhabited by the only type of human beings who have any real contact with such a period—a group of scientists.

Mr. Beebe has an attitude toward the creatures he writes of which is quite his own—at least so far as I have read among literary naturalists. He takes for granted a certain kinship between all creatures, and therefore he writes of them in terms of humankind. Most scientists who write meticulously keep the lower creatures dissassociated from man. Even such a great lover of birds and all breathing things [except men and other "pets"], as Mr. W. H. Hudson never looks upon them as other than a creation apart from man.

One often is inclined to believe that Mr. Hudson considers them of a finer mold than man and agree with him. Mr. Beebe writes about birds as if they were little feathered voices of man's thoughts. A lazy sea lioness lolling in the sun sounds—though he doesn't actually say that she reminds him of one—like the bulky ladies who rock back and forth on the veranda of a summer hotel. The curious little sea imp with his head nearly wrenched off as he keeps turning it to watch the strange creature who is taking his picture is for all the world like the noisy babies who follow you with their eyes until suddenly their eyes won't go any farther.

Those of you who know his "Jungle Peace" and "The Edge of the Jungle" know the real charm of his style. You will find "Galapagos" no less alluring, no less purely fascinating.

"Galapagos" will not, however, like "White Shadows of the South Seas," make a Coney Island of the spot, for in Mr. Beebe's book there is little lolling about, ripe fruits do not drop into the hands, and lazy lips do not linger at luscious liquids. The ground is covered with sharp, cruel lava, water is treasured from the drops which fall into a canvas from the sky, and one finds a severe beauty in the sudden waterfall or a lovely flower against the bare brown background, or in the brilliance of the plumage of a bird flitting by, or in the gayety of the eager crabs, yellow and red against the sand.

New Novel Praised

EDNA FERBER.

If you remember the first half of Edna Ferber's "Fanny Herself," you remember one of the finest character drawings that has been done in our generation in literature. If you remember "The Girls" you remember a book so much better than most of the reading world thought it that it wasn't in a class with its contemporaries in the novel output of its year.

If you remember them—and of course you do remember them if you read them—there is rooted in your mind the same conviction that there is in mine, that Edna Ferber has a great talent for the novel; that, compared with her expression in the longer form, her short stories are of relatively much less importance, although she is known here and abroad best as a short story writer.

Edna Ferber sees character, not events. The person she is writing about is of so much more interest to her than what that person does that sometimes in a short story you feel the hurry of events, an almost too carefully selected series of them to prove his character, or an almost too incidental record. The writer of short stories who is interested in action only has no trouble with the limitations of a few thousand words. The writer who is interested in character must either speed up his events to show, in the shortest time possible, the growth of that character, or must choose such incidents as, without giving the reasons for that growth, merely reflect the fact that growth has occurred. Miss Ferber usually chooses the latter method and she does her work as successfully as any might.

No one really suspected that interest, I think, until "Fanny Herself" came and there appeared that tremendously moving picture of the Jewish mother which even a badly done picture of a "successful" daughter could not mar nor dim. There is no doubt in any one's mind now that Edna Ferber can write novels and will write them, with increasing power and skill.

It is because her latest novel, "So Big," is a full length picture of character as it was developed by fate that it is important not only as a novel but in the literary development of Miss Ferber.

"So Big," although it is named for her child, is really the story of the life of Selina Peake, and, although the child is a part of the story, although other characters impinge upon Selina, it is Selina who is "so big" and it is her story that Miss Ferber tells. Selina Peake, gay, happy, but self-contained child of a professional gambler, eager for life, destined to be the grubbing wife of a Dutch truck farmer just outside Chicago, just outside the gayeties which she had dreamed of and was not to have. How Selina met her fate is the theme of "So Big."

The strength of Selina's characterization is the weakness of the characterization of the others in the book. They exist only as they touch Selina. Even her son, away from her, ceases to be of interest to the reader. His days at college, his fritterings in society don't mean much except that the further he gets away from Selina the less worth bothering with he is. The tight family of Klaas Pool is very well done, but of itself it is of little interest to the reader. It is only when Selina makes it her own that it lives. I am not sure whether that is a fine thing or a weak one on the part of a writer of novels. I know only that in this case the result justifies the means if it is something not wholly accepted technically. By making everything and every one subservient to Selina Miss Ferber has created a sense of tremendous power, although to the eyes of the world Selina was nothing but a farm drudge, a woman who had dug and sweated and labored her youth and her beauty away for the soil, but whose inherent youth and beauty no drudgery and no misfortune could ever subdue.

There are spots in it which are unforgettable—the first day in the Haymarket, for instance, when Selina and Sobig vainly tried to sell their vegetables.

"So Big" is a story of Chicago—of the Dutch truck farms just outside the city to the southwest in days when farmers drove to the Haymarket and slept on their wagons to save a quarter, a story of a later and more noisome Chicago, and a story of today, for it is the record of Selina's life from the time that she left her fashionable boarding school an orphan to teach in High Prairie until the time when her only child had grown to be so big that he lived what the world would consider a wholly complete life in the social and financial affairs of the city.

Batchelder Gives Vivid Picture of the Early Harvard

By Kellogg Fairbank.

We hope it will not surprise Mr. Batchelder to see his delightful and humorous "Bits of Harvard History" likened, in some respects, to a "seed catalogue." But even as the seedsman with his illustrations of luscious fruits and vegetables stirs the hope and ambitions of the amateur gardeners, so, we feel, will this picture of the "little acorns" planted by the early benefactors of the college, and of the "mighty oaks" into which they grew, encourage the friends of many a small and struggling college and stimulate to action its prospective benefactors.

Surely Isaac Royal, in his red coat, looking down from his frame on the academic walls, has never regretted that gift to the "Colledge" in 1785 of a few unsalable acres of Massachusetts lands, which established a professorship of law and laid the foundation of the Harvard law school—immortality cheap at the price. With what satisfaction he must have regarded the structure reared on his foundation by other hands, by Mr. Justice Story, who sat half his time on the bench of the Supreme court at Washington and half at his professor's desk at the law school, "a low, heavy-set man—very fair skin, blue eyes, with but little hair on his head, being very bald save a little tuft on his forehead, which he often combed during lectures with a fine comb carried in his vest pocket"; and by Christopher Columbus Langdell, a beloved scholar, with the beard and brow of an apostle, who, developing slowly through hardship and privation, revolutionized the teaching of law by the introduction of his "case system" and brought the school to its greatest usefulness and success.

The great "human interest" story of the book is the account of the "Commons," where for 200 years following 1642 the college youth were forced to eat. The appeal of food is universal, and cafeteria frequenters of today will read with blanched cheeks of the gastronomic horrors of the "Commons," and will find their hearts warming towards the gallant youths who led the frequent "rebellions" against the odious institution.

The meagerness of it seems today almost incredible. To a table furnished with "wooden bowls, spoons, trenchers, and piggins," the student carried his own knife and fork, "and when he had dined, wiped them on the tablecloth." For over a century "the standard breakfast consisted of nothing but beer and bread—both frequently sour." Salt beef, of which many barrels were laid in, was a staple, as was "Hasty Pudding," to which the students seem to have had much the same antipathy that the late "B. L. T." had to "B. P."

In the spring the salt beef was followed by a "sending" of lamb. "The more the students ate of this emblem of meekness the more irritable they became," until the "discords of the bleating and baaing" which arose forced a change of bill. It is only fair to add that monotony in the food was in some measure offset by variety in the cooks. One had been a locksmith, another a saddler, and two had been tailors. The cook's assistant was sometimes "an Indian impressed from the surrounding forest—whose interests probably lay more with scalps than with skillets, and whose views might be thought unconventional as to the best use of a slow fire."

With material drawn from letters, diaries, books of account, and records of all kinds, Mr. Batchelder creates a vivid picture not only of the college but of the colonial and revolutionary days through which it moved—the days when the college chapel was the seat of the colonial government and revolutionary troops were quartered in the college halls.

With not less skill does he delineate the "college character," those picturesque bits of flotsam and jetsam to be found in all academic waters. "John the Orangeman," that "prince of all Harvard characters," vender of fruits and official mascot, whose beguiling self-introduction to all freshmen was, "I knew y'r father, fri'nd." "Cap," the genial and considerate conductor of the "owl" car from Boston. "Jones," who for half a century rang the college bell. "A chronometer on two legs, trudging through the cosmos insensible to space, matter, motion, weight, relativity or any of its elements except time."

The memory of all these, and of many others, scholars and scapegraces, undergraduates, scientists, soldiers, and patriots, Mr. Batchelder has fixed in his clear amber.

Outward Bound.

Every one returned from the city and all of the metropolitan magazines are talking about Sutton Vane's great dramatic success, "Outward Bound," a play on Mr. Charon's well known boat; only, Mr. Charon is no longer the oarsman, and it's an ocean liner. The passengers are no less dead, however. Mr. Vane has written a realistic play about a subject which even the most orthodox of the specialists in life after death seem to have overlooked—the actual "passing-over." (This play seems to be an excuse for that time-worn euphemism.)

Anyway, the characters—each one a type—take passage on a perfectly ordinary liner, and the conviction that they are all dead settles slowly into their several consciousnesses (if one may be said to have a consciousness under such circumstances). They all await—some with panic, some with arrogance—the arrival of the examiner, who, instead of St. Peter, proves to be a jolly and kindly clergyman. Their destiny is to do what they should have done in life.

The play is a comedy upon a theme usually considered tragic—which makes it a very modern play, indeed, I suppose. The lines might have been amazingly brilliant—the idea is clever enough. But they are only so-so.

Œdipus Rex.

Those who missed the production of it may still read Sophocles' "Œdipus Rex" and in the beautiful translation made by Gilbert Murray, which Sir Martin-Harvey used.

CONFESSIONS

Katherine Fullerton Gerould has wholly devoted followers who think that her essays are as fine as any being written in America today. She has won, also, with "Conquistador" many more devotees who see in that charming picture of Mexican life a sketch done by the most skilled of pens. When I asked her what book she would rather have written than any other she replied:

Dear Miss Butcher: The lack of a photograph (none exists) may automatically exclude me from your column. But in answer to your question I will say that it has always been hard for me to decide whether I would rather have written "Ivanhoe," or "Jane Eyre," or "Richard Feverel." I think, either "Ivanhoe" or "Jane Eyre"; and, if I had to choose, probably "Ivanhoe." It seems to me that "Ivanhoe" has probably given to more people the peculiar kind of pleasure I'd have liked to give had I been so fortunate as to have genius.

Thank you for liking "Conquistador."

Sincerely yours,

Katherine Fullerton Gerould

Second Volume of Victoria's Letters to Be Published

By Sidney Dark.

[Editor of John o' London's Weekly.]

The second volume of Queen Victoria's Letters will be published by John Murray in the spring. The first volume, edited by Lord Esher and Dr. A. C. Benson, was published in 1907. It contained letters written by the queen up to the time of the death of the prince consort in 1861. The second volume will carry the letters to 1885, covering a period of great political interest. I am told that the queen's references to Palmerston are particularly piquant. As a matter of fact, there is a very large number of Victoria's letters in existence, but King George will only permit the publication of a small proportion of them. The majority are dangerously candid.

Ford Madox Hueffer, like most other English novelists was unable to give us much writing during the war. Since then he has done a great deal of special correspondence and newspaper work generally, and that also has kept him from his natural mission, novels. Now there is one almost ready from him, "Needles & Pins," and it will be found to be bright and psychological. Every novelist has a hobby in a literary way, and Mr. Hueffer's is that of the study of witchcraft, about which he has written several volumes. Nowadays Mr. Hueffer lives in Paris.

I have been reading rather a dull book by M. Klotz, who was finance minister in the Clemenceau cabinet, in which he considers the strained relations between England and France, and proves to his own satisfaction that France is always in the right. M. Klotz is not a man of any great eminence. Clemenceau's policy was to form a cabinet of mediocrities in which he would rule uncriticised and supreme. After the formation of his government he was asked why he had selected M. Klotz as finance minister, and he replied because he was the only Jew in France who knew nothing about finance.

Hilaire Belloc's literary gifts are so wide and varied that one is not surprised to hear he has written a popular book on economics—"Economics for Helen." As one might suppose from that title, it is written in simple language so that Helen, or any one else aged 16 or thereabout, may understand the intricacies of economics. Mr. Belloc examines the economic system prevailing in the world today and compares it with those of the past and the future. He does that in a fashion which will probably bring enlightenment to many besides Helen, who may, one fancies, be a member of his own family.

Gerald Cranston's Lady
By GILBERT FRANKAU
THE powerful, brilliantly written love story of a man who is afraid of love, and of an alluring woman who is not afraid of anything
Gerald Cranston is a young London Napoleon of finance. He needs a wife with social position, and he marries one who has, not money, but youth, beauty, charm, and an ancient title. His wealth for her position; they both understand. And he calls himself blessed, because he fears love would prevent his concentration on his stupendous business affairs.
Well, Gerald Cranston's life does most alarmingly depart from his carefully planned schedule. "Gerald Cranston's Lady" is the best novel Mr. Frankau has written, he believes. He is one of London's better best sellers. (Price $2.00) blanket ordinance empowering the "L" system to build the extensions to accommodate 200,000,000 additional passengers a year will be ready for presentation within two or three weeks.

MAYOR DECLARES WAR ON INSULL "L" ROAD OFFER

Aldermen at the city hall argued that, once the ordinances are under consideration, it would be difficult for aldermen from districts which will be served by the extensions to oppose them on the mere principle of M. O. For years the west side has been clamoring for better transit, and the outlying business centers and neighborhood improvement clubs have been agitating for a crosstown line that would give a short cut for through travelers without bringing them into the loop. This is recognized by the administration.

The hall realizes that popular demand for transportation service may swamp the old M. O. theories. Once the ordinances are up, it is feared that even the moral suasion of Mr. Busch's Sunday black coat would not suffice to keep the boys in line on the council floor.

Point Utilities Contrast.

The position of Mr. Insull and his colleagues is that the proposal for $32,000,000 worth of "L" extensions will not interfere with M. O. either way, that the improvements need to be built no matter whether with private or public funds or who owns the properties. They lay the proposition down on this basis: In the last five years $160,000,000 has been spent on extensions of electric, gas, telephone, and waterworks utilities, and only $9,500,000 on surface and elevated transportation; the time has come to give transportation some of the attention that has been concentrated on telephones, gas stoves, bathtubs, and electric lights.

From Mayor Dever's advisers came the criticism during the day that the Insull proposal is a plan to get a dividend on the common stock of the "L" system and to get the city to build a subway for the use of the elevated trains without saying what he will pay for its use.

Subway Put Within Reach.

Against this some of the aldermen point out that Mr. Insull, in his proposal, actually lays down an idea through which the city might start becoming an owner of part of the property.

Also in his remarks, it was pointed out, Mr. Insull stated that if the city does not wish to build a subway there would be little difficulty in getting it done by private enterprise, if permission could be got.

"I do not believe a subway should be a subject for private enterprise," said Mr. Insull, "although I am free to say that if the city does not want to build it and will obtain the necessary powers from the legislature to enable it to make a fair contract, the money could easily be raised by private subscription for that purpose."

Shows One Route to M. O.

As to profits, Mr. Insull in his address said: "All surplus earnings to be used in extending the systems and, if not needed for this purpose, to be used in the acquisition of the junior securities by trustees acting on behalf of the community." This is construed as one route starting toward M. O.

"I am willing to do the work," said Mr. Insull, "and I am willing that any extra profits made in the operation shall be used for the purpose of buying the existing owners of the property."

"Clever Blow at City Plan."

One of the participants in the mayor's conference, shaking his head in sorrow, said:

"Mr. Insull's plan is a direct blow against municipal ownership. This is a clever way of hurting and perhaps killing the municipal ownership idea, for the small investor who owns 5 or 10 shares of Mr. Insull's proposed customer ownership shares, as long as he gets 8 per cent, will never kick on increased fare rates, because he believes he is participating in the returns, and he will not vote to change to municipal ownership and thus disturb existing conditions."

As a finale to the discussion over the two packages left on the doorstep, "let's go" subway policy and "L" extensions, somebody discovered that Bilar H. Strawn, attorney for the bankers' committee representing the surface line investors, has gone to Florida, while Mr. Insull expects to sail for Europe on Wednesday.

Just as Car Parleys Were Going Nicely, Along Comes Insull, Mayor Dever Declares

Mayor Dever last evening gave out an extended statement in response to the proposals, made public yesterday morning by Samuel Insull, for the expansion of the elevated lines and digging of subways, with or without the city's aid.

The mayor reiterates his ideas on the solution of the transportation problem, hints that recent negotiations with surface lines security holders had ended in treachery, and threatens to force the properties' owners to sell their holdings for fear of ruinous competition with a city built and owned elevated-subway system.

Balks at Insull Proposals.

"I deem it important to restate the administration's attitude on the traction question in view of publication of Mr. Insull's proposal," declared the mayor.

"This proposal is that the city grant to the consolidated elevated lines additional franchises to construct further lines of elevated railroads in the streets and use $16,000,000 of the city's traction fund to construct a subway in State street from 18th street to North avenue for the use of the elevated roads.

"This proposal of Mr. Insull contemplates the perpetuation of private ownership and operation of the elevated lines and would block the unification of the elevated and surface lines under municipal ownership and operation and the creation of a comprehensive transportation system.

How Is Mayor's Position.

"My position was clearly stated in my message to the city council of July 2, 1923. In that message I stated that a proper solution of the traction problem involved the development through municipal ownership and operation of a comprehensive, unified traction system which would afford rapid, convenient, and comfortable transportation from one part of the city to another, including transportation for those outlying districts where service now is poor or nonexistent, the relieving of congestion in the central business district, and the providing of rapid transit routes so car riders might get from one side of the city to another without going through the central business district.

"In that message I also urged the council to resume immediately negotiations with the surface and elevated lines for the purchase by the city of those properties for municipal operation through the use of special bonds or certificates authorized by the public ownership act of 1913.

Cites Progress of City Plan.

"At the direction of the local transportation committee, the chairman and the attorneys for the committee resumed negotiations with representatives of the surface lines, and latterly with representatives of the banks largely interested in the traction securities.

"These negotiations progressed satisfactorily until yesterday a point was reached where only two important questions remained unsettled, namely, a provision for the constitution of a board of control and operation and the price to be paid for the properties. It had been agreed that all other questions either had been or could easily be settled when these two larger questions were disposed of.

"While these negotiations were conduced with the representatives of the surface lines we were given to understand that the officials of the elevated properties were being kept fully advised of the progress of such negotiations.

"We were also advised that as soon as the bankers' committee had approved the form of certificates proposed to be issued for the purchase of the surface lines the elevated lines would sell their properties to the city for similar certificates.

And then Came Insull!

"I am surprised that at this juncture Mr. Insull should submit a plan which is so directly opposed to the fundamental principles of a traction settlement as outlined in my message of July 2 and which have been accepted as the basis of negotiations for the last four months.

"It would be regrettable indeed if an insistence on this plan by the elevated roads should precipitate a long and destructive fight such as other cities have found it necessary to engage in to bring about a fair settlement of their traction difficulties.

"As I have repeatedly stated, I am unalterably opposed to the granting to private transportation companies of any further franchises such as appear to be the foundation of Mr. Insull's whole proposal.

"I am firmly of the opinion that only through municipal ownership and operation can an adequate transportation system be created which will give service to all portions of the city at a reasonable rate of fare.

Seeks to Avert Hostility.

"The city's traction fund, consisting of approximately $37,000,000, was contributed by the surface car riders and was never intended to be used to finance or assist in financing a privately owned and operated public utility.

"I have been, and am, convinced that the better way of dealing with the traction question is by negotiations along the lines I have indicated. Nothing except injury can come to every interest concerned if the traction companies adopt an attitude of hostility toward the city's announced program.

"The present administration is not unfriendly to the owners and security holders of the traction lines. We have no disposition to treat them other than fairly and it would be regrettable in the extreme if by assuming a hostile attitude towards the administration's program the present negotiations were broken off.

Asks Frank Dealing.

"The traction problem is extremely intricate and difficult, requiring under the most favorable circumstances the best skill and good judgment obtainable, and its final solution, in my opinion, can only be arrived at if all of the parties concerned show a willingness to deal frankly and in good faith with each other.

"It does seem to me, therefore, that the time has come when there should be a fair and frank statement by the elevated railroads, as well as by the surface lines, as to whether they intend to continue without delay these negotiations in order to effect a settlement along the lines indicated in the message of July 2, 1923.

"If they are unwilling to proceed promptly along these lines, it will become necessary for the administration to present an alternative traction program."

PEACE NEAR IN M. E. COLLEGE; HEAD GETS CALL

Denver, Colo., Feb. 22.—Settlement of the controversy at the Iliff School of Theology, local Methodist Episcopal church college, loomed today when it developed that the Rev. Edwin W. Dunlavy, president of the institution, had been indosed for the pastorate of the Roberts Park M. E. church in Indianapolis.

Dr. Dunlavy's acceptance of the offer of the Indianapolis pastorate, it was said, is expected to bring about a settlement of the internal differences which have been rife at the school for some weeks past. The controversy is said to have started when members of the faculty attacked Dr. Dunlavy and his policies. This resulted in the filing of charges of insubordination against three professors.

To Wm. Knabe & Co.,
New York.

My experience with the Knabe pianos was a case of love at first hearing.

The popularity your piano enjoys makes it superfluous to dwell on its general merits. But I cannot refrain from pointing out its wonderfully ringing and singing tone in the treble, especially in the section which I call "the dangerous zone," and which asserts itself at the Knabe Piano with astounding power and crystalline purity.

Shall I dwell on its wonderful action, which fulfills the most exacting demands, especially in the quick repetitions on the same key and which, in connection with the marvelous sonority of your instrument, allows the artist to bring out all shades, gradations and tints from the softest whisper to the most thunderous climaxes?

Rather let me thank you for the superb pianos you put at my disposal and allow me to assure you that I treasure them as offsprings of the most elevated American art of piano building.

Yours very sincerely,

Constipation is ruinous to children—keep yours healthy with Kellogg's Bran

Constipation undermines a child's health. It saps his energy and makes him listless. It can lead to more than 40 other serious diseases. Mothers should take immediate steps to remove, safely and surely, the dangerous poisons from his system.

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL bran—brings permanent relief. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is universally recommended by doctors. They know it brings results.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to give permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Kellogg's Bran acts on the intestines exactly as nature acts. It sweeps and cleans and purifies them. It makes them function naturally and regularly. It allows you to discontinue forever the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is a delightful surprise to the taste—particularly if one has tried ordinary unpalatable brans. Kellogg's Bran has a delicious, crisp, nut-like flavor—an exclusive flavor. It is most enjoyable with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals or cooked with hot cereals. Try it in bread, muffins, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Have your children eat it regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Kellogg's Bran is made at Battle Creek and sold at all grocers. It is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant.

HE HAD 4 WIVES, SO SMALL JUST HAD TO FREE HIM

Facing 5 Year Sentence, He Serves 11 Months.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Not all of Gov. Small's pardons and paroles are open to unqualified criticism. Alva Dickson, alias George Miller, a fast traveling railroad man, is, perhaps, an illustration of a parole where the governor had—to himself—a sufficient reason.

GOV. LEN SMALL.

Dickson, who was once a policeman in Cleveland, had a propensity for weddings. He liked them. He had four. He was arrested because of his polygamic tendencies, convicted and placed in the Joliet penitentiary for a term of one to five years. Gov. Small turned him loose after eleven months and seventeen days. The nature of the governor's reason he has not made public, but his excellency may have thought that Dickson could better provide for his wives, if he were outside of the penitentiary.

Might Suit Mohammedans.

Such a reason might rile Blackstone who proclaimed that "polygamy can never be endured under any rational civil establishment." But it would be palatable to millions of Mohammedans, who, the books say, are permitted four wives each. It might be satisfactory to the Hindu and the gay buck of Polynesia who are credited with having as many wives as they desire.

But if Gov. Small turned Dickson loose to support the fruit of his four weddings, the governor's reason was only three-fourths whole.

One of Dickson's wives was dead. Only three were living. No. 2 cast him aside by the divorce route for "neglect and cruelty," according to the testimony at Dickson's trial for bigamy. However, Dickson and his lawyer, after an investigation in Cleveland, filed affidavits in court disputing this. They asserted that Dickson was married to his second wife when he took unto himself No. 3. Beyond all question No. 3 proved in court that she was the deserted wife of Dickson when he married No. 4.

What No. 3 Found.

No. 3, who as Mary Reiss married Dickson in St. Edward's church of Cleveland on Sept. 23, 1919, found him passing in Chicago as "George Miller." She found out that Dickson had married Agnes Dressner in Chicago on Feb. 2, 1921.

Dickson, who was employed by the Erie railroad just before his fourth wedding, told wife No. 3 on Jan. 3, 1921, that he had to go to Meadville, Pa., for a disabled engine. He returned on Feb. 4. In the meantime he had been in Chicago and married wife No. 4. On Feb. 14 he gathered his best clothes together and flew from wife No. 3 to No. 4, explaining that his absence was necessitated by another disabled engine, or maybe it was the same one.

Wife No. 3 started on Dickson's trail. She went to the Erie offices. She was told Dickson had resigned on Feb. 4. She also found out that he had obtained free transportation to make a trip from Cleveland to Chicago on Jan. 31 and return, when he married wife No. 4.

Prosecutes Him for Bigamy.

She investigated further and found that Dickson had bought a diamond engagement ring at the Ray Jewelry store in Cleveland for which he contracted to pay $157. He still owed $105 on it. She also found out that Dickson had taken wife No. 4 to Cleveland in November, 1919, about three weeks after wife No. 3 had married him. That was enough for No. 4. She prosecuted Dickson for bigamy.

He arrived at the Joliet penitentiary on Feb. 23, 1922. He was turned loose on Feb. 4, 1923. Undoubtedly Gov. Small's board of pardons and paroles was convinced themselves that Dickson—despite his bigamous record—would "make good" in providing alimony for wife No. 2, support for No. 3, and a wedding for No. 4.

M'ADOO PREFERS CALIFORNIA HOME TO WHITE HOUSE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 22.—William G. McAdoo, who arrived home late today, in a brief speech from the train platform in Pasadena made this statement:

"I have this to say, and I say it with final meaning, I would rather have my California friends, or live in California, than be President of the United States."

To Los Angeles reporters Mr. McAdoo said:

"The shocking revelations at Washington of betrayal of public interest must give profound concern to every friend of our institutions and to every patriotic American regardless of party. These transactions must be probed to the bottom and the guilty brought to punishment. This is not a question of party politics. It involves the life of the nation. No attempt to divert attention from the guilty should be permitted."

WHITE SHRINERS GET INJUNCTION AGAINST NEGROES

Houston, Tex., Feb. 22.—Arabia Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and the national white shrine body were granted a permanent injunction today against Karkh Temple, Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and the National Negro Shrine organization, preventing the "unlawful imitation" of the costumes and insignia of the plaintiff order.

The defense gave notice of appeal and said the case would be carried to the supreme court of the United States.

The white shriners introduced evidence to show that their shrine was founded in New York City in the early 1870's, and was based in a vague sort of way on the ritual of "Bektash," an Arabic order.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Janes celebrated their golden wedding on Feb. 10 at their home, 444 South Honore street. Among those present were six children and seven grandchildren. The couple have resided in Chicago for thirty-six years. Mr. Janes is 74 years old and his wife is 70.

DEMOCRACY OF KANSAS UNITED BY COMPROMISE

Davis and McAdoo Men Bury Hatchet.

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—Harmony was restored to the Democratic fold in Kansas tonight after the appearance of a breach in the state-wide meeting that presaged an open fight between the forces of Gov. J. M. Davis and Sam Amidon, Democratic national committeeman, leader of McAdoo supporters in Kansas.

Following Gov. Davis' address at tonight's annual dinner of the Kansas Democratic club, a resolution was adopted absolving Mr. McAdoo "from all taint of the recent oil scandal" and giving Gov. Davis the unqualified support of Kansas as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

The resolution was introduced by Fred Robertson, former United States district attorney. It was seconded by Mr. Amidon with an expression of strongest support for Gov. Davis.

The governor, with some reservations, stated that he is not a candidate for President, adding, however, that he would accept the call of the people to whatever office they might summon him.

The section of the resolution referring to Mr. McAdoo read:

"Be it resolved, That we deplore the campaign of abuse and villification that has been launched against Democracy's great leader, William Gibbs McAdoo, and that we hereby express our confidence in his integrity, his practices, and his unwavering honesty, and that whether nominated or not, we assert that he is free from all taint of the recent oil scandal."

LUNDENEEN PLAN PUTS PETERS OUT OF SANITARY RACE

Learns Support Is Going to Frank Link.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Charles J. (Doc Peters), state grain inspector, has announced his withdrawal as a Republican candidate for sanitary trustee.

This leaves only two candidates for this office from the Lundin camp—William H. Wesbey, superintendent of Lincoln park, and William F. Mulvihill, who was known as a law and order reformer until he was given a place on the Thompson pay roll several years ago.

But there are three to be nominated for drainage trustees, and Peters' withdrawal puzzled some of the novices until the politicians told them there was nothing surprising in it.

The third candidate to be supported by the Lundin camp is Ald. Frank J. Link, the one Deneen entry. Two Lundin men plus one Deneen man make a full ticket for the drainage board and complete another section of the "Lundeneen" slate.

Part of Lundin Plan.

That this is an official part of the program of the combined state patronage forces led by Lundin—which are completely disowned, rejected, and, metaphorically, spat upon by ex-Mayor Thompson—and the Deneen group was shown by what occurred behind the scenes.

Peters filed his petition for sanitary trustee confident that he would have the backing of his organization, as he had two years ago, when he ran for the same office. He expected to receive equal backing with Wesbey and Mulvihill. And then some one whispered to him that he really wasn't on the slate.

He investigated, found that the third man was Link, and now has concluded that he will run for bailiff of the Municipal court, for which there has been no "Lundeneen" entry. He thinks he can win their combined support against B. W. Snow, former city council leader, who has been put up by the regular organization.

Gemmill Indorses Crowe.

The regular camp was joyful over an indorsement of State's Attorney Crowe by Judge William N. Gemmill. It was considered significant because, in addition to having been identified for many years with the Deneen camp, which is running Municipal Judge George B. Holmes against Crowe, Judge Gemmill is also a leader of the Better Government association, whose support the Deneen group has been trying to win for Holmes.

The indorsement, a part of a letter Judge Gemmill wrote Crowe, read as follows:

"I received this morning the printed circular sent out by you, and after looking it over I am very agreeably surprised at the extent of your work. I am sure you have accomplished much for the community and it is my earnest belief that the community owes you a renomination and reelection, and you shall have my support to that end."

McKinley May Oppose Sprague.

It was learned yesterday that for the last three weeks petitions have been quietly circulated to put William McKinley, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, into the race for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator against A. A. Sprague II., the regular organization candidate.

"I am not ready to announce my candidacy at this time," said McKinley, "but the petition is being circulated so that it will be ready to file in the event that no other Democrat files."

Small Not Indorsed.

Guy Young of Herrin, Ill., legislative representative of the Illinois Mine Workers, issued a statement yesterday to kill off Gov. Small's repeated assertion of an indorsement by the joint legislative board of Illinois State Federation of Labor.

"At no time," it read, "has the name of Len Small been presented to the board for indorsement and in view of the manner in which the workmen's compensation act has been administered under Gov. Small, I am of the opinion that if his name were presented for indorsement it would be rejected by the board.

SMITH, M'ADOO HELD 1-3 FOR NOMINATION; SMITH 1-12 TO WIN

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Smith is now quoted a 1 to 12 chance as next President of the United States, according to W. L. Darnell & Co., betting commissioners, who report that they have $10,000 to offer against $120,000 that Smith will succeed Coolidge. The firm also has $5,000 to bet at even money that Coolidge will be returned at the November election.

Other wagers offered include $5,000 to $15,000 that Smith is nominated; $5,000 to $15,000 that McAdoo will receive the nomiantion.

S. GLENN YOUNG, BACK IN MARION, HELD FOR THEFTS

Marion, Ill., Feb. 22.—Glenn Young, leader of Ku Klux Klan liquor raids and unofficial dictator of Herrin in the disorders there Feb. 9 and 10, today returned to "bloody Williamson" county and was placed under arrest.

Twenty prominent Marion business men gave bond of $20,000 on ten charges of larceny and assault against him in connection with the activities of the klan liquor raids that brought state troops here.

Young's case was set for the May term of court.

RINAKER, FORMER JUDGE, OUT FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Now a Farmer, but Once on Cook County Bench.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Following a conference with Essington leaders at Springfield yesterday, Lewis Rinaker, former county judge of Cook county, issued the formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

His statement follows:

"The Republican party has a history of magnificent achievements.

"It has been led, and its policies have been determined by men of high ideals.

"During the last few years in the calm and quiet of farm life, separated from the stress and strife of active politics, it has become clearer to me each year that our leaders were drifting away from those ideals.

Office a Public Trust.

"I firmly believe that the great majority of our party does and will insist that public office is a public trust and not a private snap, that our public officials in return for their salaries and for their salaries alone must give to the public a conscientious attention and devotion to the duties of their offices and to the fostering and protection of the public's interests.

"Upon that theory I offer myself as a candidate for the office of lieutenant governor of the state.

"I have served as a member of the legislature in the Forty-fourth general assembly, I was a master in chancery of the Superior court in Cook county and was judge of the county court of Cook county from 1906 to 1910. For eight years last past I have lived upon and operated a farm in Macoupin county."

May Ask Mills to Quit.

With Rinaker in the field the Essington leaders are expected to urge State Senator Epler C. Mills to withdraw his candidacy for this office. Mills was in Chicago yesterday following a campaign tour in central Illinois and said he was still in the race.

Strictly according to schedule Attorney General Brundage was the speaker and guest of honor yesterday at the Washington birthday dinner of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The ballroom of the Hotel La Salle was crowded and his discussion of the life of Washington, a strictly patriotic and nonpolitical address.

The efforts of Mrs. Mabel Small McKinstry, a sister of Gov. Small, to force the Chicago chapter to drop Brundage from its program was not mentioned, but probably will be taken up at the next D. A. R. convention.

PASTOR CASE TO RESUME PULPIT TALKS TOMORROW

While attorneys for Albert R. Leland yesterday were preparing for early presentation in the Appellate court of their appeal in Leland's divorce suit against Mrs. Charlotte Leland the Rev. Carl D. Case, pastor of the First Baptist church of Oak Park, named by Leland as co-respondent, was working on tomorrow's sermon.

Dr. Case made a definite announcement that he will occupy his pulpit, although technically he is on a six months' leave of absence. It will be his first public appearance since Judge Foell's action in throwing the Leland case out of court reacted to clear the minister.

Dr. Case and his family are expected to leave next week on a vacation trip to California.

KORETZ SEEN AT CATALINA, STORY TOLD SLEUTHS

Leo Koretz, who fled Chicago after fleecing friends and relatives of millions, recently visited Catalina island, off the California coast, according to information in the hands of detectives. The identity of their informant, a woman, is being kept secret pending investigation.

Receipt of the information yesterday recalled a recent hurried trip to Los Angeles on the part of Attorney Maurice Berkson, counsel for the Koretz receiver.

Mr. Berkson's office at the time stoutly denied the attorney had gone west in search of Koretz. Koretz is supposed to have been seen upon Catalina island within the last four days.

GALA CEREMONY AS RECORD A. B. C. OPENS TONIGHT

Preceded by the usual ceremonies, the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the American Bowling congress will get under way at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the 123d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, with two squads of five-men teams competing.

Before the tournament has run its gamut, more than 2,100 five-men teams and more than 10,000 individuals will have had their fling at the glistening maples. The tourney extends over a period of five weeks, ending on March 28. During that time, should the bowlers hit true to form, champions will be made and unmade in each of the four events.

Ceremonies at 7:30.

The Rotary club will initiate the twenty-eight shining new alleys which were especially laid for this classic. Sixteen teams representing this organization are scheduled for first squad rolling. Several teams from Henry Kaad's alleys and miscellaneous teams will make up the total of twenty-eight.

The last squad rolling of the night starts at 10:30 p. m. and will draw twenty-eight teams representing various councils of the Knights of Columbus.

Opening ceremonies will get under way at 7:30, at which time Elmer Baumgarten, chairman of the committee of ten in charge of the tourney arrangements, will act as spokesman and introduce Mayor Dever, who will welcome the bowlers of the country.

Judge Howard Makes Speech.

Vesta, Paul's Hats, Ad Novelties, Multigraph, Oil Cans, Hercules, Mineralites, Grinnells, Jacanizes, Washington Shirts, Blue Valleys, Monarchs, White Cross, Osgood Signs, Invincibles, Bromo Seltzers, Imperial Council N. U. No. 2, Harry Kaad Nos. 1, 2, 3, Snite Furniture Nos. 1 and 2, Pines, Crescent Belmont, W. A. Iden Co., Arion Council, Poppers Ace, John the Barber.

Second squad teams are:

Commodore Barry Indians, Commodore Barry Combers, Commodore Barry Donators, Commodore Barry Macks, Hennepin Council Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, De Soto Council Nos. 1 and 2, Mandonna Council Nos. 1, 2, 3, Setters Majors, Setters No. 1, Americus Nos. 1 and 2, Damen No. 650, J. Shields Council, Feehan Council, St. Francis Xavier, Lafayette Council, St. Augustine Council, Newman Council, Carroll Council, Bishop Ketteler Council.

GREENLEAF WINS IN TWO INNINGS TO EQUAL RECORD

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Running 100 points in two innings, Ralph Greenleaf of this city equaled a world's pocket billiard record when he defeated Arthur Woods of Pittsburgh in the first of a four game match today, 100 to 10.

Greenleaf shot 39 in his first inning before he ran out in the second with an unfinished 61. Woods failed to score in his first inning and gathered 10 in his second and last chance. Greenleaf's feat equals that which Andrew St. Jean of Minneapolis achieved several months ago when he beat Walter Franklin at Kansas City.

Greenleaf also won the evening match, 100 to 61, in eight innings.

AUGIE DEFEATS MAUPOME TWICE

Augie Kieckhefer took a brace of games from Pierre Maupome in the National Three Cushion league at the Kieckhefer room yesterday, winning the afternoon session, 50 to 36, in 52 innings and the night contest, 50 to 25, in 45 innings. It was the sixth straight win for Augie over Maupome.

Augie got away to a good start in the afternoon, scoring eleven points in his first seven innings. In the seventeenth inning he turned in a fine run of eight, and led, 22 to 7, while in the twenty-ninth inning he made a seven. Maupome had three runs of four.

Kieckhefer played some brilliant billiards at night, having a high run of six, and five fours. Maupome did not get many breaks, and his high contributions were two runs of three.

OTHER LEAGUE GAMES.

CUEIST APPLEBY BEATS CLINTON

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 22.—Edgar Appleby of New York defeated John A. Clinton Jr. of Pittsburgh in the thirteenth game of the national class A amateur 18.2 balk line tournament tonight, 300 to 279. It was one of the most spectacular matches. The winner's average was 10-20-28, and he had a high run of 100. Clinton averaged 9 27-28; his best run was 51. In his first five innings Appleby rolled up a lead of 162 to 1.

Playing for the most part close balk line billiards at the head of the table, Emil A. Renner of Youngstown this afternoon defeated Jacob Klinger of Baltimore in the twelfth game.

In the final matches tomorrow Percy Collins of Chicago, the present champion, will meet both Clinton and Appleby. Collins has won three and Appleby four, and both are undefeated. Clinton has now won three and lost one.

CITY THREE CUSHION LEAGUE.

AT LOYOLA-SHERIDAN — Walker, 45; high run, 5; innings, 61; Fisher [46], 47; high run, 4.

LAKE VIEW GOLFERS SWEEP PREP TOURNEY

BY JOE DAVIS.

Lake View was as effective as a new broom in the first indoor golf championship of the Chicago high schools at MacDonald's indoor school in the Leiter building yesterday. Capt. Sam Gilbert Jr. and his lads made a clean sweep in both the team and individual events, taking the former with a total of 367, while Francis Clary won the individual title. Paul Engberg took the silver medal and S. Gilbert the bronze.

Hyde Park was the only other school to break into the prize list, Willard Plant winning the award for the greatest number of aces, after playing off a tie with Rich of Englewood. Each scored five aces in the seventy-two holes of play.

Tourney Well Handled.

The tournament, originated by Samuel Gilbert of the Illinois Seniors' association who donated the medals, was a big success. It was well handled by E. C. Delaporte, Patrick McCann, M. J. Mahurin, and George West of the Public Schools Athletic league, assisted by several local professionals.

The Lake View boys, all of whom play at Lincoln park in the summer, showed great ability to play the indoor course, Engberg and A. Weiss each having 91, Sam Gilbert 92, and Clary 93.

Tilden Tech showed that golf is progressing in the stockyards district by winning the silver medals with a total of 421, while Schurz was third with 427. It was first announced that Hyde Park had won third with 428, but a recount of the Schurz total gave that school the honor.

How Others Finished.

The other teams finished as follows: Lane Tech, 448; Senn, 469; Crane, 469; Englewood, 480; Bowen, 482; Parker, 532.

Francis Clary in winning the individual title had rounds of 23—21—44 and 21—20—41 for a total of 85. Paul Engberg and Sam Gilbert tied at 88 and the former won the playoff for the second prize, 40 to 47. Lake View will receive a championship shield to place in its trophy room.

Curing your Golf Troubles by JIM BARNES

DEAR Mr. Barnes: I am told that one may use a putter to good advantage in getting out of a sand trap, but this appears rather bad doctrine to me. Are there ever occasions under which the average player might find it advisable to use a putter from such a position?

H. C.

ANSWER—Yes, there are conditions under which a putter may be used to play from a sand trap with good results, and even an average player may find it well to use it. These are the conditions: the ball lying well upon the sand in a trap quite near the edge of the green, where trouble may result if the ball is lofted too much and so caused to roll across into another trap or other trouble and with the bank of the trap quite low and sloping from the bottom toward the green. By this I mean "absence of a straight wall or any overhanging. Such traps, I may add, are encountered on a good many courses quite near the greens. There is usually a choice between this stroke and an explosion stroke with a highly lofted club, to make the ball stop shortly after striking the green.

CRUISIN' THROUGH LOUISIANA MARSHES.

AFTER seeing thousands of ducks on our first cruise through the Louisiana marshes which the Louisiana Gulf Coast club has acquired as part of its domain we told Launel the guide that it was nothing less than punishment for us to go out again and watch the big flocks of birds swoop out of the marsh without being able to unlimber a shotgun on them.

Launel laughed at our misery but promised to show us flocks of geese instead of ducks if such a stunt would help us any!

Sunrise saw us puttering around the kitchen stove in camp helping with the breakfast as well as eagerly soaking up a little heat, as the morning air was chilly although a southeast wind promised warmer weather. A sunrise on the marsh in the heart of birdland is an event to most any northern hunter. While the coffee was brewing we strolled away from camp for a short distance to see what birds had spent the night near us.

On the pond behind the camp a couple of bunches of coots were beginning to look alive, while here and there a few canvasbacks could be seen. About forty yards from the cabin we saw a pair of jacksnipe near a tuft of grass. They were sunning themselves and through the binoculars we watched them for some time. Right in front of the camp a pair of bluebills were swimming around as if there wasn't a human being within forty miles.

After breakfast we set sail in Launel's boat with Chienierre au Tigre, a little settlement nine miles away on the gulf coast, as our destination. The guide said that Chienierre was the haunt of the geese. Before we began our journey Launel steered us to another part of the marsh where small canals had been cut to a duck blind. It was situated about a quarter of a mile from the big salt water highway and meant an interesting although slow journey through the swamp which was densely populated with ducks, grackles, rails, bitterns, herons and other water loving species.

Mallards jumped up in pairs, quartets and large flocks. Those speed crazy teal zipped across our bow. The coots paid almost no attention to us. When we came to the duck blind a pond covered with water fowl spread out before our eyes. When we exclaimed at the number of birds Launel said:

"Huh! You think this is a lot of ducks? I could pole you through this marsh for miles and miles and show you dozens of ponds covered with birds just like this one. But the hunters shoot very few."

We expressed our surprise at this statement. Launel quickly explained. "They are not so good shots," he said. "Why, those people who talk so much about club members killing thousands of ducks down here would not believe me if I told them that eight men shot only seventy ducks on this marsh one day during the open season.

"Some of the hunters who were good shots did not care to kill a lot of birds. Others could not hit them. All of them were allowed only seventy-five shells and that number had to get their limit of twenty-five if they wanted 'em!"

Three boxes of shells! Looking at the mallards in the air, the teal tearing around, the hundreds of black mallards and bluebills that were near us we thought of the fun that just three boxes of shotgun shells would give us as we listened to Launel's story.

Parker Upsets Englewood; Riverside Blanks Proviso

Parker High school lightweight quintet threw a monkey wrench into the city league semi-finals of the west and central sections last night by defeating Englewood, 18 to 15, at the Parker gymnasium. Lindblom, by downing Morgan Park, 15 to 8, was the other victor of the night, taking a temporary lead in the elimination series.

Lindblom has now won two games. Englewood and Parker each have a victory and a defeat to their credit, and Morgan Park has twice been defeated. Lindblom has yet to meet Englewood and should the Purple win a tie will result. In last night's games the winners led during the entire time of the contests. Lineups:

ELGIN WINS BIG SEVEN TITLE.

Elgin, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Big Seven titular honors went to Elgin High cagers as the result of their victory, 30 to 14, over Joliet at Elgin tonight. Though Joliet headed the victors at the end of the first quarter, 5 to 3, the Elgin quintet took a lead which they maintained through the game. The Elgin lights defeated the Joliet lads, 20 to 8, thereby tying with Freeport for leadership of the conference. Lineups:

MARKS BETTERED AS PURPLE TANKERS WIN

Outspeeding a national intercollegiate record for the 100 yard swim in the process, Northwestern university's swimming team wallowed to a 46 to 22 victory over Iowa last night in the most important conference dual meet of the season in Patten pool.

Dick Howell, Purple superfish, clipped a second from the old century record. Howell and Ralph Breyer of the Purple, doused Klingaman, Iowa sprint star in the two long-awaited races in which the three cracks were entered. Howell and Breyer led the relay team which knocked off a second and a fifth from the western intercollegiate record time for the 160 yard relay.

The Purple took six firsts to Iowa's two, the Hawks showing best in the fancy diving and the back stroke. Howell tied Breyer for first place in the forty yard event, the most exciting race of the evening.

Northwestern's water basketball team was victorious, drowning the Iowans 12 to 2. Summaries:

Relay—Won by Northwestern [Breyer, Howell, Ortlepp, Corbett]. Time, 1:17 1-5. [Beats western intercollegiate record time.]

150 yard back stroke—Won by Ashton [Ia.]; Scott [N. U.], second; Huffman [Ia.], third. Time, 1:58.

220 yard swim—Won by Capt. Dickson [N. U.]; P. Corbett [N. U.], second; Lambert [Ia.], third. Time, 2:32 2-5.

100 yard swim—Won by Howell [N. U.]; Breyer [N. U.], second; Klingman [Ia.], third. Time, :54 3-5. [Betters national intercollegiate record.]

200 yard breast stroke—Won by Eiseles [N. U.]; Griffen [Ia.], second; Deckert [N. U.], third. Time, 2:49 3-5.

Plunge for distance—Won by Capt. J. Dickson [N. U.]; Emerson [Ia.], second; R. Dickson [N. U.], third. Time, 60 feet in :33 1-5.

HOOSIERS ON TOP

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Indiana defeated the Michigan swimming team in the local tank tonight. When the meet was over the scorer added up the totals 34-all, and Referee Manly of Illinois awarded the Hoosier crew the meet by virtue of their victory in the relay.

URBANA, 31; LANE, 17.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Urbana High basketeers decisively defeated Lane Tech of Chicago here tonight, 31 to 17. Lane was unable to hit the basket, most of their shots being from a distance due to the stellar guarding of the locals. Urbana led at half time, 15 to 6, the Lane points all being made by Watson, colored center, who hooped three field baskets. Lineup:

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

Nearly fifty players took part in the tournament of the Garfield Park club at the Leiter building school. V. U. Fischer, an invited guest, won the silver cup with a card of 95; J. Connell took second prize with 97.

Miss Floy Faucett, playing fifty-four holes in the Jackson park recreation room women's golf tournament, yesterday, was low medalist with a score of 136. Mrs. E. C. Brown, 137, and Mrs. Bumpus, 141, were the other prize winners.

PURPLE STARS STUDY TOO MUCH; BANNED FROM VARSITY SPORT

WALTER STEGMAN, captain of the Northwestern university basketball team, and Dave Rest, luminary of the wrestling team, yesterday were declared ineligible for further competition because they are in possession of enough credits to graduate. Both are exceptional students and returned to school this year to enter athletics. They are banned under a conference ruling.

IDAHO DOG DERBY TO 16 YEAR OLD DRIVER

Ashton, Idaho, Feb. 22.—Olcott Zarn, 16 years old, with an exhausted dog huddled in his sledge, swung down the hill and across the line winner of the annual twenty-five mile Ashton Dog derby today. Montreal's leaderless string came in a good fourth, thanks to the driving power of "Shorty" Russick and the willingness of the dogs. "Smoky" Gaston, last year's champion, was forced to third while Warren Cordingly placed next behind "the kid." The winner's time was 2:22:40.

There were two features to the race—the winning of the championship by Zarn and the wonderful race against odds made by "Shorty" Russick, who substituted for Miss Lydia Hutchinson when the lead dog took sick.

Zarn's margin of victory was 1:57. Yesterday's snowfall had slowed up the course, and although experts claim that the dogs this year were the strongest ever entered in the race, the former record of 2:29:00 still stands.

A day of bright sunshine greeted the 8,000 people gathered in this little city. The dogs began their three lap, twenty-five mile jaunt promptly at 1 o'clock. The victory netted young Zarn $600 in money besides other trophies.

American Headed for The Pas.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 22.—Berton T. Baker of St. Paul today was mushing his way to The Pas, Man., to compete in the famous annual dog derby there the second week in March. It is approximately 900 miles from St. Paul to The Pas. Baker said he believed the long trek overland would condition his half dozen huskies for the derby. It will be his first appearance in the dog race.

Baker is employed by the Northern States Power company here as a line patrolman. He has a long stretch of lines to watch and during the winter he makes his rounds with his dog team.

PREPARE ICE FOR DECIDING RACES AT LAKE PLACID

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Final races of the international speed ice skating championship tournament, which has been in progress here for the last two days, will be held tomorrow. The skaters were given a day of rest today while the eastern ski title meet was being held, and the owner of the skating title will be decided tomorrow.

GAMES TONIGHT

Michigan at Purdue.
Wisconsin at Ohio State.
Northwestern at Minnesota.
Chicago at Indiana.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 22.—Illinois defeated the Iowa basketball team, 26 to 14, here tonight in a Western Conference basketball game. The game was marked by the guarding.

Illinois took the lead early in the game and led at the end of the first half, 14 to 7. Both teams demonstrated an impenetrable defense, but the Illini made three spurts in the first half and each time scored two baskets before the Hawkeyes checked them.

Iowa came back strong and held the Illini scoreless during the first half of the second period and brought the count to 14 to 12. The Hawkeyes defense cracked then.

The Iowa rooters booed Referee Schommer during the whole game. Coach Barry and Iowa's cheer leaders continually called on the crowd to quit "crabbing" the officials. Lineup:

ANDERS HAUGEN TAKES EASTERN SKI JUMP TITLE

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Anders Haugen of Minneapolis won the eastern amateur ski jumping championship today. Haugen's jump, 92 feet, was considerably less than others, but his perfect form combined with the distance to give him the championship.

Haugen also won the Robinson trophy, awarded on the basis of form and distance. His victory wrested the cup from Ling Anderson of Berlin, N. H., who needed but one more leg to gain permanent possession.

Karston Moen of Berlin, N. H., with a jump of 128 feet, won the class B competition for men who never have won a national event.

Chris Berger of Norge Ski club, Chicago, won the longest standing jump contest, with a leap of 118 feet. Anderson made 139 feet, but fell. Summaries:

Class A—Won by Anders Haugen, Minneapolis, 92 feet; Rolf Monsen, Brattleboro, Vt., second, 103 feet; Karl Nilsen, Norge Ski club, Chicago, 105 feet, third.

Class B—Won by Karston Moen, Berlin, N. H.; Olaf Skogen, Norge Ski club, Chicago, second; Chris Berger, Norge Ski club, Chicago, third. Winner's distance, 128 feet.

ICE BOAT RACES FOR KIDS TODAY

Ice boat racing, ski races, dog derby and other ice sports foreign to the city bred boy will be among the features of the first annual west park ice carnival at Garfield park this afternoon starting at 1 o'clock. This sort of competition is open to boys and girls under 16 years of age.

In addition there will be a 440 yard race for boys, and another of the same distance for girls. The ski race for boys will be 220 yards. There will also be a 220 yard sled race, girls to be passengers and boys furnishing motive power. The ice boat races will bring together craft from all the west side parks.

Suitable prizes will be given the contestants who win places in the various events. The program has been arranged by E. A. Dygert, who has charge of athletics in the west park system.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WALT PUTS TWO AND TWO TOGETHER

CHANCE ABLE IN MONTH TO TAKE COMMAND OF SOX

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Frank Chance, the old Peerless Leader, will assume command of the White Sox long before they have left their training camp at Winter Haven, Fla.

Despite his recent offer to resign and despite the fact that the after effects of flu still have him in their grasp, the Cub hero of other days is determined to answer the call of the big league, and he said tonight that by the middle of next month he will be able to start for the land where the pale hose will condition themselves for better or worse.

Chance has been a sick man and still is, as a matter of fact, but one wouldn't think so to look at him. Apparently he is as sound as a dollar, but the flu attack that had its inception with a cold contracted at Chicago in December has affected his breathing and he is unable to indulge in any form of activity.

Trouble Centered in Throat.

His condition has been diagnosed as asthmatic, but he might have been a well man by now if the real trouble had been located at the start. When he showed no signs of improvement under various treatments, Chance himself suggested that the trouble might be centered in his throat. He based this belief on the fact that a previous illness has left the throat in a weakened condition. The attending physician promptly went to work on the suggestion and immediate improvement was noted.

It was because of the discouraging attitude of his doctor that Chance less than a week ago wired his resignation as Sox manager to Owner Charles Comiskey. He was worried about his prospects for getting to the training camp, and when he asked the doctor about it, the latter replied that at best it might be three weeks and possibly three months. Not willing to upset the Sox organization, he proffered his resignation, not because he wanted to, but because he felt it a duty.

Commy Cheers Him Up.

Had Comiskey been incensed to accept Chance's resignation there would be another at the Sox helm today. Instead of letting go of one of Chicago's most popular ball men of all times, the Sox owner wired back that Chance needn't worry; that the job was his whenever he felt able to fill it. Comiskey followed his telegram with a long distance telephone call, in which he advised Mrs. Chance to tell the "P. L." not to worry and not to start east until he felt strong enough to assume the managerial burden.

To get the absolute rest he needs, Chance is going to leave his home here tomorrow for Palm Springs, Cal. He plans to lead the simple life there for about ten days or two weeks, after which he will return to prepare for the long journey over the continent.

When asked what all the shooting was about in the case of Eddie Collins, the P. L. merely smiled and gave one of his customary grunts.

Friendly with Collins.

He has heard nothing of the much discussed swap that would make Collins a member of the Yankees.

Chance also had a smile and a grunt for the various intimations that bitterness exists between himself and Collins. They always have been friendly, and Collins himself is the only one that can tell the ex-Cub leader that he (Collins) would prefer to play ball elsewhere.

In connection with his new job, Chance is something like a kid with a new toy. He thinks he has the makings of a far better ball club than the American league standings of 1923 indicate. He is fairly well satisfied with everything, but the pitching staff, and the latter department isn't worrying him much.

He believes the pitchers are there, and it is just a question of getting them to work. And if any show inclinations not to work there may be trouble.

Turner Barber Sold to Little Rock by Robins

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 22.—The purchase of Outfielder Turner Barber from the Brooklyn Nationals was announced today by R. G. Allen, president of the Little Rock club of the Southern association. Barber, formerly with Chicago Cubs, last season was with the Atlanta club, and was one of the leading batters of the league. His purchase price was reported to be one of the highest ever paid by a minor league club.

Young Stribling Arrives in Buffalo for Battle

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 22.—W. L. [Young] Stribling and the Stribling family arrived in Buffalo from New York today for the southern school boy fighter's six round bout with Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo Monday night.

"CANNONBALL" BAKER has broken out again. This time he is doing an Excelsior 'mid snow and ice to test the endurance of a Gardner sedan. His transcontinental run—the first of its kind attempted in a closed car—leads from the blizzard ridden east via the national old trails road to California. The checkers have reported him through the eastern mountains. His first pull was from New York to Zanesville in seventeen hours and twenty-seven minutes. It was made Tuesday through the worst storm of the season and on roads coated with glare ice and banked in many places with three and four feet of snow.

Automobile statisticians have always been noted for their facile comptometers, but it has been years since they have exhibited such glee in their computations as that which marks the present exploitation of the "automobile dollar." Early in the year motor manufacturers showed that the dollar today buys more than a dollar's worth of automobile if figured on the 1914 cost basis. Yesterday Chevrolet experts announced that the famous iron man is worth exactly $2.09 if lifted from his 1914 purchasing pitch and tossed on today's motor values. One wit on the Row yesterday remarked that it's almost getting to a point where a service man will accept a dollar tip.

The Chicago Automobile Trade association issued a bulletin yesterday warning parents against allowing their children to use their coasters in the streets and boulevards. Scores of fatalities, the bulletin says, have resulted in past years from hitching sleds to the rear of cars.

WHEN WAS FIRPO BOUT? COOLIDGE ASKS CHAMP ON WHITE HOUSE CALL

The world's heavyweight champion, accompanied by Manager Jack Kearns, called at the White House and was introduced to the President by Secretary C. Bascom Slemp, with the explanation that the boxer could knock out a man with a two inch punch.

"Well, that is two inches more of a punch than I would like to get from you," the President replied.

Dempsey showed the President how Firpo knocked him through the ropes.

"When did that happen?" the President asked.

President and Mrs. Coolidge also reviewed the runners who finished in a ten mile race staged by the Washington Post. The race was won by J. Movis of the Nativity Catholic club of Philadelphia. Movis finished the run, which started at the capitol and ended south of the White House, in a fraction over 0:55.

CUB ROOKIES TO OPEN INFIELD DRILL TODAY

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Bill Killefer's kid infielders are about to get their first dose of hard work. The various training stunts has put them in fairly good trim and tomorrow the boy pilot of the Cubs intends to give his inner defense its first drill at fielding. Killefer has four infielders in his first squad, but only one of them is a regular.

The four fellows who will comprise the infield pending the arrival of the main squad March 1 are Ace Elliott, at first base; George Grantham, at second; Gene Turgeon, at short, and Bob Barrett, at third. Grantham, of course, is in little danger of being ousted from the post he held down last season, but he has a lot of work ahead.

Turgeon Fighting for Place.

Probably the most strenous fight for a regular berth will be put up on Turgeon, who will have only Shorty Adams for a rival so long as Hollocher refuses to report, and just now there isn't much prospect of the temperamental star returning. Turgeon is built close to the ground and is mighty handy in his chosen position. He slammed the pill for only .290 in the Texas league last season, whereas Adams banged the National league hurlers for .289.

Barrett was up last spring and went back to the small fry for seasoning, but it remains to be seen how much he has improved. Even last year he displayed considerable knack as a fielder, and he may be retained for utility work. He hasn't much chance to grab the third corner job after the showing that Barney Friberk made there in the 1923 race.

Pitchers Ready to Work.

Killefer had his gang out for the customary morning and matinee practice as well as a hike today, but the program wasn't quite as strenuous as heretofore. The hot weather has hardened up the athletes in a hurry and by tomorrow most of the twelve pitchers on hand will be ready to start hard work.

Max Carey, the Pirate infielder, rode into camp today, but only as a sightseer. He has to report at Paso Robles, Cal., in a few days.

NOTES OF THE BALL CLUBS.

Otto Vogel leaves today to join Manager Killefer and his first squad of Cubs in training stunts on Catalina Island. Otto reported at the Cub offices yesterday and declared he was in ton shape and ready for the rugged training grind. He was coach of the Elgin High school basketball team during the winter.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are due to pass through Chicago tomorrow morning on their way to Paso Robles, Cal., where they will train. It is the first time that the Pirates have trained at Paso Robles and if the experiment is a success it is likely that Secretary Sammy Dreyfuss will make arrangements for a permanent camp.

O'ROURKE HURLS MORE CHARGES AT RICKARD

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Tom O'Rourke, the veteran fight promoter, threw a few more bombshells into the boxing works in a letter to Assemblyman Lord today. In addition to extending the original charges against Tex Rickard to include cheating the United States government out of fight taxes, O'Rourke also suggested that Rickard has friends on the boxing commission and that they are not the ones who should conduct the investigation of the charges against the New York fight promoter.

Also Blames Stoneham.

O'Rourke also attaches blame to Charles A. Stoneham of the New York Giants in connection with the charges of ticket speculation for the Dempsey-Firpo fight at the Polo grounds.

O'Rourke's suspicions of the boxing commission in some quarters is alleged to be the result of a long standing quarrel between O'Rourke and one member of the commission. As a result, it is possible that Assemblyman Male of New York will introduce his bill for legislative investigation Monday, thus taking the inquiry out of the hands of the boxing commission.

Plain Lies—Tex.

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—In a statement given out here today Tex Rickard branded all the charges made against him by Tom O'Rourke as plain lies. "Why, the old fellow must be crazy to make such statements," said Rickard. "Everything I have done in connection with boxing is in records on file at the office of the commission."

Commish to Meet on Charges.

New York, Feb. 22.—Charges that Tex Rickard has acted in collusion with speculators during the seat sale of the Dempsey-Firpo fight, will be considered next Tuesday by the state athletic commission, Chairman George E. Brower said today. Attaches of the commission are gathering data.

JERSEY MOVES FOR $25 PRICE AT BOXING BOUTS

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 22.—New Jersey is expected to be placed in a position to compete with New York for big boxing bouts as a result of the action of the house judiciary committee in reporting a bill by which a maximum admission price of $25 would be allowed. The maximum now is $15.

COACH, REFEREE CLOSE TO BLOWS

Columbus, O., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Capt. Harry Steel's failure to score a fall in the last match gave Indiana an 8 to 6 victory over Ohio State here tonight in a Big Ten wrestling match. Coach Jack Reynolds of Indiana disagreed with two of Referee Pinneo's decisions, and after the match created a fuss which nearly resulted in blows between the official and coach. Not one fall was tallied.

Maroon Gymnasts Sweep Meet with Illinois

University of Chicago gymnasts swamped Illinois at a meet at Bartlett gymnasium last night, 865.5 to 763.5. The Maroons, in their initial appearance in Big Ten competition, were first in every event and swept two events entirely. Van Vachtor registered two firsts, in the horizontal bars and tumbling. Elliott of Chicago won seconds in the horizontal bar and side horse events and was third in tumbling.

In fencing Illinois won over Chicago, 9 to 5. Chicago scored only in the foils contest, which it won, 5 to 4. Illinois winning the dueling and saber contest, 4 to 0.

Rockford High Wins Over Parker in Dual Tank Meet

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Burned out in the big fire of 1871, our family hurriedly moved with what was saved to a place my father had out on the north shore, where it was wild country and thinly settled. The nearest stores were at Evanston, two miles north.

It often fell to the lot of Bill Gamble, the big, raw boned, eccentric hired man, and myself to drive to the business center (Davis street), or walk if there was not too much hurry.

One cold winter Saturday evening we made it on foot. Having done our trading, we stopped to see the village shoemaker, Mr. McKay, a genial fellow and good cobbler, and tarried to his story-telling until near midnight.

It was pitch dark as we cut diagonally across old Calvary cemetery, as we had so often done to save distance. Suddenly, my companion's conversation stopped short and I missed him. He had fallen into an open grave prepared for an occupant the following day. I located him by his muffled voice, helped him out, and he resumed his talk where we had left off. C. E. J.

From a pamphlet on "Commerce of Chicago," sent by Helper B. F. B., we learn this city had a population of 83,500 in 1855 and that the Chicago Gas Light & Coke Co. lately extended its operations. Six miles of additional pipe have been ordered and the expenditure has been $57,000."

KANE TAKES MANDELL PLACE AT E. CHICAGO

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Jack Kolo of Cicero, who has taken the fighting name of Jack Kane, yesterday was substituted for Sammy Mandell of Rockford to meet Mickey O'Dowd of Muncie, Ind., in the windup of the boxing show at East Chicago Monday night. As a result of the substitution the weight will be 128 pounds at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon and the distance ten rounds.

Kolo is a product of THE TRIBUNE'S amateur boxing tourney held last winter. Jack won the featherweight title by defeating the best amateurs of his weight in and around Chicago. During his amateur days he carried a sock in his right hand and he has improved the punch since turning professional.

The Cicero fighter learned to box at Kid Howard's Arcade gymnasium, which he represented in THE TRIBUNE tourney. Since winning the amateur title, Kolo has engaged in a few fights. In the last East Chicago show he defeated Jimmy Mussey of Milwaukee after taking the fight on three days' notice. In the second round Kolo sent Mussey to the mat for the nine count.

Promoter Oswego was compelled to make another switch in his program as a result of an injury to Patsy Rocco, the East Chicago 143 pounder who was slated to meet Bobby Green of San Antonio. The promoter intends to use either Eddie Welch or Jimmy Anderson against the southerner. In the other ten round bout Warnie Smith of Oklahoma will meet Tiger Joe Cline of St. Louis.

Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, has signed Tom for four fights next month. Gibbons' opponents have not been selected, but he will appear in Baltimore on March 10, Winnipeg on March 14, Cincinnati on March 17, and Memphis on March 21. Tom passed through Chicago yesterday on his way home from Grand Rapids, where his fight with Joe White was called off because White sprained his ankle while training.

Harry Simmons, local 160 pounder, and Manager Sig Hart leave today for Springfield, O., where Simmons will meet Chief Halftown, an Indian, in a twelve round decision contest on Monday night.

Tickets for the Pancho Villa-Bud Taylor fight in Milwaukee on March 6 will be placed on sale in Chicago on Monday. Taylor will be in Chicago next Wednesday to resume training while Villa will be here the latter part of next week.

ILLINOIS MATMEN DOWN MAROONS BY 18-15 SCORE

Matmen of the University of Illinois defeated Chicago, 18 to 15, in a Big Ten meet at the Midway last night. The Maroons scored only one victory, in the light heavyweight class, when Carl Sarpalius pinned Lasse in 5:02. McMillen, the Illinois heavyweight, put Kuinoviemi's shoulders to the mat in 9:05, and Jimmy Key, Maroon 158 pounder, was downed by Player, Illinois, in 4:20. Summaries:

115 pound class—Tassetti [I.] won decision over Takaki [C.]; advantage, 4:16. 125 pounds—Kenney [I.] won decision over Ball [C.]; advantage, 7:08. 135 pounds—Shatiko [I.] won decision over Graham [C.]; advantage, 11:15. 147 pounds—Mathis [I.] won decision over Capt. FARM & GARDEN
By FRANK RIDGWAY

"KITCHENETTE VEGETABLES" SELL LIKE HOT CAKES.

WHIMS and fancies of city cooks are now being catered to by many of the most successful truck gardeners who produce crops for the markets. Instead of trying to produce the world's largest pumpkin, the longest string beans, the biggest cabbage heads, or onions as big as lamp post globes, they are developing quality crops and of the proper size to be utilized economically by city housekeepers.

Imagine the mountain of vegetable waste that is discarded in Chicago every day by cooks that prepare the meals for nearly 3,000,000 people—literally tons of peelings, stems, and undesirable leaves are removed from the vegetables consumed in the city. A big percentage of this waste could be avoided and there would be more profit for the producer if truckers would grow more of the high quality crops and varieties that would more nearly meet the demands of the consumer. Coarse vegetables mean an enormous waste. Many times vegetables are not sold because they are too large for the average city family.

Eastern truckers, who grow vegetables for the big consuming centers, are producing a new squash known as the kitchenette. It is of the Hubbard type, but small and of high quality. Growers are selling all they can produce because the squash is small and appeals to the average city housekeeper.

PESEK, BIG HANS WIN MATCHES IN WRESTLING SHOW

John Pesek of Ravenna, Neb., one of the leading heavyweights in the country, defeated Joe Zickman of Aberdeen S. D., in straight falls in the feature match of "Doc" Krone's wrestling show at Ashland auditorium last night. In the other half of the double windup Hans Steinke won over Charley Cutler by the straight fall route.

Pesek, who has been a championship contender for five years, gave a remarkable exhibition. He pinned his man in the first fall in 44:30 with a head scissors and wrist lock and took the second in 26:00 with a toe hold.

Steinke Easy Winner.

Cutler failed to furnish much opposition for Steinke. The huge German tossed him about the ring with apparent ease. The German won the first fall in 16:05 with a plain body lock. He picked Charley from the mat with a waist lock and then threw him heavily to the mat. Cutler's head struck the floor with great force and he was stunned momentarily. Steinke took the second fall and the match in 2:55 with a body scissors and wrist lock.

Hugh Nichols, the Cedar Rapids middleweight, took a one fall match from Joe Gordon of Minneapolis in 11:20 with a half nelson and body scissors. Jack Linow won over Cyclone Sampson in the other one fall encounter in 3:30 with a body scissors and bar arm.

Big Crowd at Match.

The Aurelia Del Monte-Yussiff Hussane match was called off because the former was too ill to fill the engagement. A capacity crowd saw the show and the great majority came to get a peep at Steinke, who rapidly seems approaching a match with "Strangler" Lewis for the heavyweight title.

ZBYSZKO QUITS MAT GAME IF ED DOWNS HIM

Stanislaus Zbyszko, who will attempt to win back the heavyweight wrestling championship from Ed "Strangler" Lewis at Dexter Park pavilion on Tuesday night, will complete training today at the Arcade.

The Pole has told his friends and Promoters Ed White and Joe Coffey that he will quit the game if he loses to the champion.

Lewis has notified promoters that his guarantee of $6,500 must be in the manager's hands by noon Tuesday.

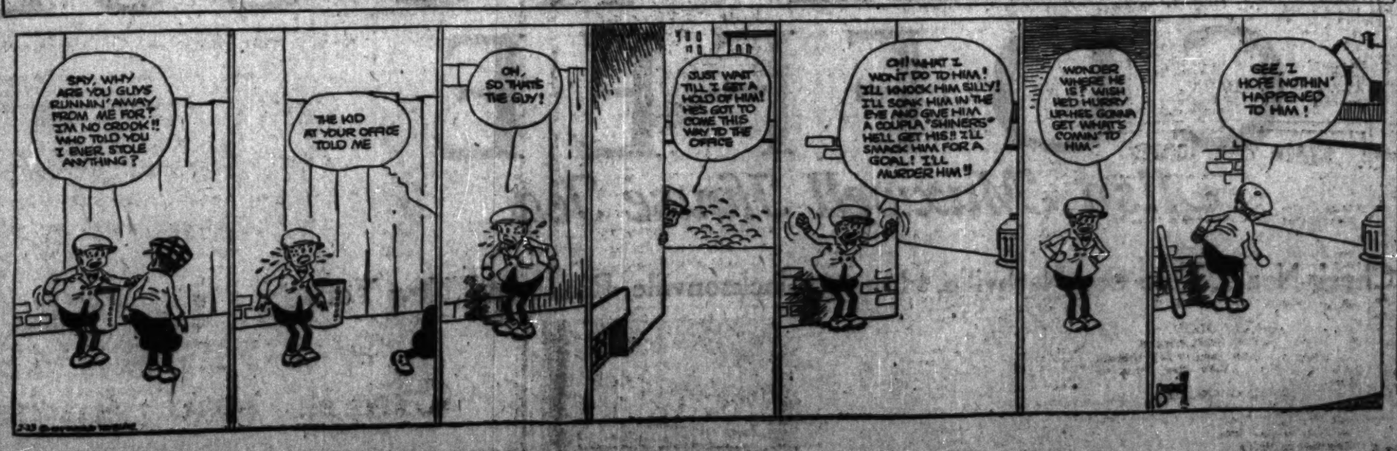

As Zbyszko is gambling on the match by taking 60 per cent of the gate and paying Lewis out of this amount, Manager Jack Herman asserted the titleholder can have his money at any time.

ROMANO PINS McCARTHY

Mike Romano, the Italian heavyweight, defeated "Montana Jack" McCarthy in the feature of the wrestling bouts at the Star and Garter last night. The Italian won the first fall in 42:25 with a headlock and the second in 5:10 by use of the same lock. In the other bout Joe Dostal and Freddie Meyers wrestled twenty minutes to a draw, the bout being limited to this period so that the main event could start promptly at 11 o'clock.

SMITTY—HE DOESN'T WANT TO BE DISAPPOINTED

Chicago can now drink "Maxwell House Coffee"

Maxwell House Coffee comes to Chicago with the highest recommendation a coffee could possibly have. Already it has been tested and approved by millions of housewives. By virtue of its wonderful taste it has become the largest selling high grade coffee in the United States. More than six million cups a day are making good the promise "Good to the Last Drop."

Maxwell House is not a new brand. Into its making goes the skill of two generations of coffee blenders. Fifty years have been devoted to careful blending of the world's finest coffees to achieve the utmost perfection in flavor.

The dependability of Maxwell House Coffee has built the five large modern plants which are required to produce enough Maxwell House to supply the demand which is constantly catching up with production.

The large purchases of green coffees, the finest grown, which come to us from all parts of the world, must constantly be increased to anticipate the growing demand.

Our large facilities for cleaning, roasting and blending are being expanded so that the floods of orders for Maxwell House can be filled promptly.

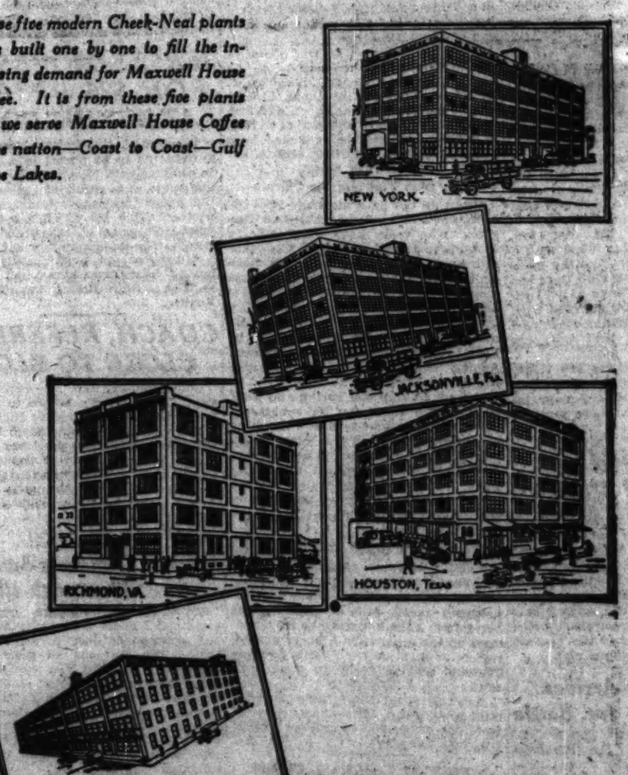

What is the reason for the nation-wide popularity of this fine coffee? First of all the finest green coffees. Then of even greater importance is the secret of blending them to create the inimitable Maxwell House flavor—an art that only many years can teach.

On the finest ships—in the most elegant hotels—the most exclusive homes, and in the humble cottages, you will find Maxwell House Coffee delighting the palate of coffee lovers.

Learn the flavor of Maxwell House—learn to depend on the uniformity of its goodness.

Ask your grocer for Maxwell House. Always sold in sealed tins that preserve all the original flavor and aroma.

These five modern Cheek-Neal plants were built one by one to fill the increasing demand for Maxwell House Coffee. It is from these five plants that we serve Maxwell House Coffee to the nation—Coast to Coast—Gulf to the Lakes.

The Fourth Norwood

Blue Ribbon Fiction

By ROBERT E. PINKERTON.

SYNOPSIS.

For three generations fur land has known a Norwood. Tom Norwood's grandfather, Roger Norwood, accompanied Mackenzie on his remarkable expedition to the Arctic sea. His son Roderick (Tom's father) was born and raised in fur land. Tom and his father became successful fur traders when Canada became a free trade ground. Aaron Cron, a rival fur trader, settles in Tom's territory when Tom's son Rod is 6. He is known to the natives as The Spider because in an accident a number of years before he had lost both his ears. In the struggle Tom is victorious and The Spider disappears. He returns when Rod is 16 and the battle between the two traders is resumed.

Tom sends Rod to school in New York and his daughter Beth to school at Toronto. After six years Rod tells his father he would like to continue to live in New York and devote himself to a career as a writer. Tom is bitterly disappointed, as he has just bought a new post for his son. The following spring Rod in New York receives word of his father's sudden death. He meets Beth at Toronto and they return to Lake Deception. Rod learns that Talbot's business is nearly bankrupt. Beth goes back to school at Toronto and Rod makes up his mind to stay and fight Cron. A half-breed employé of the Norwood post tells Rod his father's death was not accidental, and intimates Cron knows how it happened. Rod then comes back to Lake Deception unexpectedly. On the train she meets Prof. Ransom and his daughter Marian. The professor has come into the bush to study Pasan Indians. Rod meets Beth and the Ransoms at Heathcote. The professor tells him they have made arrangements to stay at Cron's house at Lake Deception. Rod is greatly attracted to Marian. The Ransoms leave Heathcote for Lake Deception with the Norwoods and their brigade. On the trip into the bush Rod and Marian realize they have fallen in love.

At Rod's brigade reaches Lake Deception. Cron comes back bringing a missionary for the Indians with him. Rod discovers the missionary is an actor in disguise and forces him to leave Lake Deception. Marian feels Rod's attitude toward Cron is unjustified, and her manner to him changes to a cold antagonism.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

NOTHING COUNTS BUT LOVE.

What Cron hoped to gain by his deception, what sort of scheme it foretold, Rod was unable to guess. He knew Cron already had a brigade waiting at Heathcote. Marian was being used, but to what purpose he could not imagine. She stood in the center of the floor. When Rod did not speak, when he made no defense or denial, she turned toward the door.

"I didn't come over here to beg or to humble myself!" she exclaimed. "I'll get canoemen somewhere. I only came to tell you your petty tricks are contemptible."

She went out, slamming the door behind her, and through a window Rod saw her hurrying back to her canoe. He forgot The Spider and his schemes, forgot everything except that look of scorn and contempt he had seen in her eyes. Never had she appeared so lovely, so magnificently unbeaten, as when she stood there, her blue eyes dark with anger, her slim body straight and defiant, the crinkling strands of black hair dancing in the breeze from the open door.

In that moment nothing counted but his love for her, and he could not permit her to leave Lake Deception believing he had indulged in so petty a trick to bring about her humiliation. He hurried to the lake, threw a canoe into the water, and paddled swiftly toward The Spider's post. Marian was landing as he started, and when she observed the bank he called to her. She turned, saw him, hesitated a moment, and then waited.

As Rod paddled up beneath the high bank the door of The Spider's house opened and The Spider swung himself out and on to the bench where he so often sat in good weather. He was fifty feet from Marian, but she did not see him, nor did Rod know of his presence there until he had landed and climbed the bank. Even then he only glanced at Cron before he spoke.

"I'll get you two canoemen," he began at once. "I'll have them ready this noon or tomorrow morning, whichever you wish."

He had been intent only on pleasing her, on wiping out thought of her scorn.

"You must know, Marian," he rushed on, "that I haven't any desire to injure your father's plans, impede his work, do anything to distress you. You can't believe that of me."

As he spoke the expression of defiance vanished from her eyes and one of pity and sorrow took its place.

"Rod," she said slowly, "I have never wanted to believe anything of you but the best. That time when—in the canoe—I was sure I always would."

He was about to answer when he saw a malicious grin broaden The Spider's heavy face, and it maddened him to think the man should hear.

"Come back to the post," he whispered harshly. "There are some things I'd like——"

"It's too late, Rod," Marian said gently. "That's all dead now. There's no need talking of it."

"It's not dead!" he retorted in a low voice. "I know you, your every thought and emotion." He saw The Spider straining to hear, and continued in a whisper: "You love me! You're going to keep on loving me when——"

"Love you!" she interrupted. "After the things you've done!"

"But, Marian!" he pleaded. "You don't understand, you don't know what——"

"Don't understand!" she cried. "I understand how you came over here when Mr. Cron was away and drove Mr. Sharman out with a gun. I understand how you picked a fight with a half-breed, a man who knew nothing of personal encounter and has always been inoffensive, and pounded him to a jelly while a lot of your Indian slaves looked on. And, knowing that, I understand how you could sneak out in the night and sink a crippled man's canoes and their valuable load."

Her anger had mounted and now she seemed to throw off all restraint.

"I despise myself!" she cried. "I despise myself for that moment of silly sentimentality in the canoe. I despise myself for thinking I could find anything clean and brave and big in the wilderness. I thought it bred men. In those first days I believed you were one of them, but since you have done nothing but degrade the thing we had, the thing that began so beautifully and ended so quickly because—because you——"

She broke off, choked by anger. Rod, though his face was white and he twitched from the sting of her unrestrained lashing, looked steadily into the blazing blue eyes, for with startling clearness he had seen what he must do.

He knew he could justify his every act, could make her understand how he was fighting for his life and to discharge a debt he had inherited, but he saw the unwisdom of a belated explanation. It would remove the barrier which had come between them, but it would leave only a void, something far more dangerous because it would rob them even of the contact of struggle. He could not temporize or tear down. He must build up success and justification and let her discover it. For unconsciously Marian had revealed herself in her furious denunciation. Nothing less than dominance, a spirit stronger and bigger than her own, could soften her.

Rod looked at the evil, grinning visage of the legless man on the bench. The Spider must have grinned like that, he thought, when Jim and Bapinini brought back word that Tom Norwood was dead, when he had sent Jim down to the Indian camp to pick a fight that would cloak a murder. There, he saw, lay the answer. He must go on unswervingly to his first goal, but swiftly now, for Marian would be gone in another month. In no other way could he justify himself. Now he would win only her pity.

He turned back to her. She still stood with her head thrown back, the breeze whipping the crinkled strands across the marvelous rose of her cheeks, her blue eyes dark with scorn, her slim body rigid with emotion.

"You can wait!" he whispered savagely. "You come second."

He turned, jumped down the bank, and leaped into his canoe, and he paddled across the bay, landed, and walked up to the trade shop without once looking back.

Marian watched him for a moment and then started toward the house. For the first time she saw The Spider sitting outside the door. He was not grinning now.

"Guess the young squirt ought to know what you think of him," he said as she approached.

For a moment her eyes glinted dangerously and then she asked: "Can you get me two canoemen to start tomorrow morning?"

"I'll try," he answered.

"Try!" she repeated. "You're not going to let him beat you that way!"

"You see how it is here. If my brigade was in it would be different. He's ready to send out a brigade himself, from what I hear, and he's got the rest of those hunters cutting wood."

"There's Jim and Bapinini."

"But they're my legs, miss. You know that. I'd like to help you, but I can't let them go. No telling what young Norwood would do if I were here helpless. And with getting ready for the fall trading I can't spare them."

There was an unaccustomed humility and hesitancy in his manner which stopped Marian because of her anger.

"I'll go down to the Indian camp myself," she said. "I'll offer double wages and I guess two of them will go."

"Better let me do that for you." The Spider hastened to say. "I could work it better, knowing the red beggars longer than you have. No," and there was sudden decision in his voice, "don't worry. I'll get 'em for you."

Marian went on into the house, but for a long time Aaron Cron sat on his bench outside the door. When at last he returned to his accustomed place on the bank in the living room he swung himself up with a grunt of satisfaction.

THE GUMPS—LOVE TO ALL MANKIND

Oregon Law Is Held Peril to Private School

Existence Threatened, Educator Asserts.

Abolition of private schools throughout the country is threatened by the compulsory education bill recently approved by the voters of Oregon, according to Joseph A. Hill, president of the Hill Military academy of Portland, Ore. Mr. Hill explained the educational danger which he said lurked in the bill to 200 members of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls, in session yesterday at the Drake.

JOSEPH A. HILL.

The bill, which will become effective in Oregon in 1926, will destroy all private educational institutions and the advantages they offer, he said, while it will also increase taxation and deprive parents of any wide choice of schools.

While the Oregon bill has been taken before the state courts by Mr. Hill, he said a similar measure is now being considered in the state of Washington.

Eastern private schools are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the legal battle in Oregon, as it is feared that once given a foothold, the movement may sweep the country.

Miss Elsie R. Tremain, principal of Ferry Lake, Lake Forest, who is president of the principals' association, will discuss means for combating the movement at the concluding sessions of the convention today.

"In a private school the girls all dress alike, usually simply," she said, "and thus dress consciousness is removed. But in public schools the best dressed girl is always the leader of a set and thus snobbish cliques are formed."

The educators agreed that the girl of today is much more advanced than her sister of a few years ago, as well as more settled and more "rational" in her actions.

"A few years ago we didn't know what our girls were going to do next," said one principal, "but now we have revamped our teaching methods and are able to keep pace with the girl who is soon to become a university freshman."

Miss Elizabeth Waulkner, a teacher in a Chicago private school for fifteen years, told the convention that private schools have always been the home of democracy.

ASK ME! ASK ME!

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

MISS J. B.: I'd like mighty well to help you out, but we neither sell nor give away pictures. You might get a picture from your favorite by writing him in care of the Vitagraph studios, Hollywood, Cal., inclosing 25 cents with your request. You're entirely welcome.

D. M. J.: "The Birth of a Nation" was produced quite some time before "Civilization." If you saw the first picture you mention, don't you know what the first spectacle was?

J. D. L.: NEVER write to me again!

ALICE: That is a matter you and your parents will have to decide for yourselves. If there's enough money in the family exchequer, and everybody is willing, I can't see why you shouldn't take a trip to the coast and make a "try." Both the try and the trip would probably do you a lot of good. If you go, write me when you come back.

J. R. JR.: "Baby Peggy" Montgomery may be reached at Universal City, Cal. T'wekkum!

JEAN: Carol Dempster was the heroine in "One Exciting Night." Yes, it sure was exciting. Jack Gilbert played the lead in "Monte Cristo." Glad you like the column. So do I. (I MEAN it's fun doing it.)

CLOSEUPS

In a film to be made by Ince, Blanche Sweet will, it is said, have an opportunity to do "work as dramatic as that which won her such acclaim in 'Anna Chrisie.'" Hope the rumor's true.

Carmel Myers says she is tired of being "the other woman." What, quoths she, are diamonds, country homes, and fine clothes to her when the leading lady complacently walks off with the husband and the badge of respectability?

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A. S. McCaskey, president of the Gold Star Fathers, says he was misquoted in THE TRIBUNE last Wednesday. He denies the use of the words "crime" or "criminals" in his speech. He also states Judge Sullivan's remarks were not made in response to his.

Schools Costly, Says Educator — Almost as Costly as Candy

Chicago once more becomes the Athens of the United States today when 12,000 educators from all parts of the country begin to arrive for meetings of the department of superintendence of the National Educational association which tomorrow begins a five day session at six hotels.

Prof. J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the N. E. A., arrived last night. He will tell the teachers that "the enemies of the public schools and those who want reduced taxes have joined hands."

"It does cost to have good schools," he said last night. "It cost about $1,500,000,000 last year. It will cost more to give each child six months a year schooling with qualified teachers.

"How small that amount is compared to $2,111,000,000 for tobacco and $1,800,000,000 for candy, soft drinks, and ice cream!

"It cost only $1,500,000,000 for education for a year, but more than $3,000,000,000 for joy riding and pleasure."

Still he declared there is propaganda to the effect that education is costing too much.

The general sessions of the conference begin Monday morning in the Auditorium theater with an address of welcome by Mayor E. Dever, a discussion of modern educational problems by Olive M. Jones of New York City, president of the association, and talks by other nationally known educators. Monday evening William McAndrew, superintendent of schools in Chicago, will tell of "More Encouragements," and Judge Florence Allen of Columbus, O., will present "The Next Step in World Peace."

"Ragamuffin Road" Given at U. of C.

The Woman's Athletic Association Portfolio of the University of Chicago gave its first performance last night of "Ragamuffin Road," a musical extravaganza by Edith Heal, who had the principal rôle. The music is the composition of six students. There are thirty-one characters in the piece, which is in three acts. Mrs. Charles Hyman coached the performers, who appeared in Mandel hall. There will be repetitions tonight and Friday and Saturday nights next week.

Dartmouth Alumni Hear Dr. Hopkins at Powwow

Dr. Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, spoke to more than 1,000 alumni of the school who assembled at the Congress hotel yesterday for their first annual "powwow." Charles G. Du Bois, president of the Western Electric company, will be the principal speaker on today's program, which closes with a banquet tonight.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Perry A. Martin, 6757 Lafayette avenue, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Where Asked.

The Answers.

Milton Gordon, 3444 Douglas boulevard, university student—I believe we have here a great opportunity for the people of Chicago. The Art institute has become one of the best in the country, due to the effort of individuals. Here is an opportunity for Chicago collectively.

Miss Violette Wraithe, 1043 South Elmwood avenue, home girl—I saw the Washington painting and heard the lecture here this afternoon, and must say I became deeply interested. I hope it will be possible to keep this portrait in Chicago.

James E. Cogan, 6144 Indiana avenue, publicity, Chicago Opera company—I am interested in everything directly and indirectly that will add to Chicago's art treasures. No city should be entirely material, and here is a fine opportunity for Chicago to demonstrate it is not.

Mrs. Lillian Straub, 641 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, housewife—Seems to me it is a beautiful thing for the public to take an interest in and become, in a measure, responsible for the securing of an historical and artistic treasure like this portrait for Chicago.

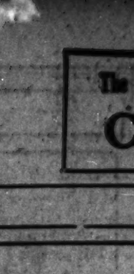

Leo F. Lyons, 317 East 29th street, bond salesman—If this project is sufficiently important for THE TRIBUNE and the Examiner to agree on it, the rest of us should. I don't know much about paintings, but I do know that the more artistic treasures we have the better.

Grace Episcopal Announces Plans for New Edifice

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Grace Episcopal church, 15th street and South Wabash avenue, will be sold and a new building erected near St. Luke's hospital, according to announcement of the rector, Dr. W. O. Waters. The new church will be made a memorial to the late Dr. Clinton Locke, founder of St. Luke's hospital, and of Mrs. Locke. St. Luke's hospital has recently completed a subscription of $2,000,000, and its new building is in process of erection. Dr. Waters and the congregation of Grace church have been put in charge of the religious work of St. Luke's.

DR. W. O. WATERS.

Grace church for years ranked with St. James' church on the north side as a church of famous preachers and large and fashionable congregations. Several years ago the main building was destroyed by fire, and since then the ruins have remained while the congregation has worshipped in the chapel. An attempt was made at one time to merge with St. James' church, but was defeated by an injunction on the plea that the money given to Grace church as an endowment was given under the provision that church work would be carried on in the neighborhood now occupied on the south side. The endowment, it is said, is $400,000.

Miss McDowell Plans Shop to Aid Crippled

Vocational training in a "community workshop" for the crippled or otherwise handicapped worker is contemplated by Miss Mary McDowell, commissioner of public welfare, she revealed in an address yesterday before the National Fraternal congress in Hotel Sherman.

"I wish to see this workshop in operation before I leave the public welfare department," she declared. "Workers handicapped in industry and by occupational diseases outnumber those handicapped by war. These workers are thrown on the scrap heap and disregarded. It is the task of civilization to save them.

"I want to see the establishment of a community workshop that will train a man who has lost his right arm to use his left arm and then finish the job by placing him with an employer."

Provision must be made, Miss McDowell said, for the migratory worker, "a necessity to our civilization." There are from 30,000 to 40,000 drifting men in Chicago at all times and in periods of depression the number mounts to 75,000. Since Jan. 4 about four hundred a night have been cared for in the municipal lodging house.

Stock Gives Notable Work by Stravinsky

"Song of Nightingale" Wins Enthusiastic Favor

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Felix Salmond of England, received more applause when he played the violoncello as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall, but it is doubtful whether he came anywhere near arousing as much comment as did the "Song of the Nightingale," by Igor Stravinsky of Russia and Switzerland.

The music of the "Song of the Nightingale" was written, or at least started, some fifteen years ago, in the period of "The Fire Bird" and "Petrouchka," and before the time of "Noces" and the sonatas for unaccompanied clarinet. It is possible, therefore, that Stravinsky now looks upon the score as an outburst of his indiscreet youth, when he was still willing to make compromises with conventionality. At that, it would seem to be sufficient to teach the rest of the modernists all that they know today.

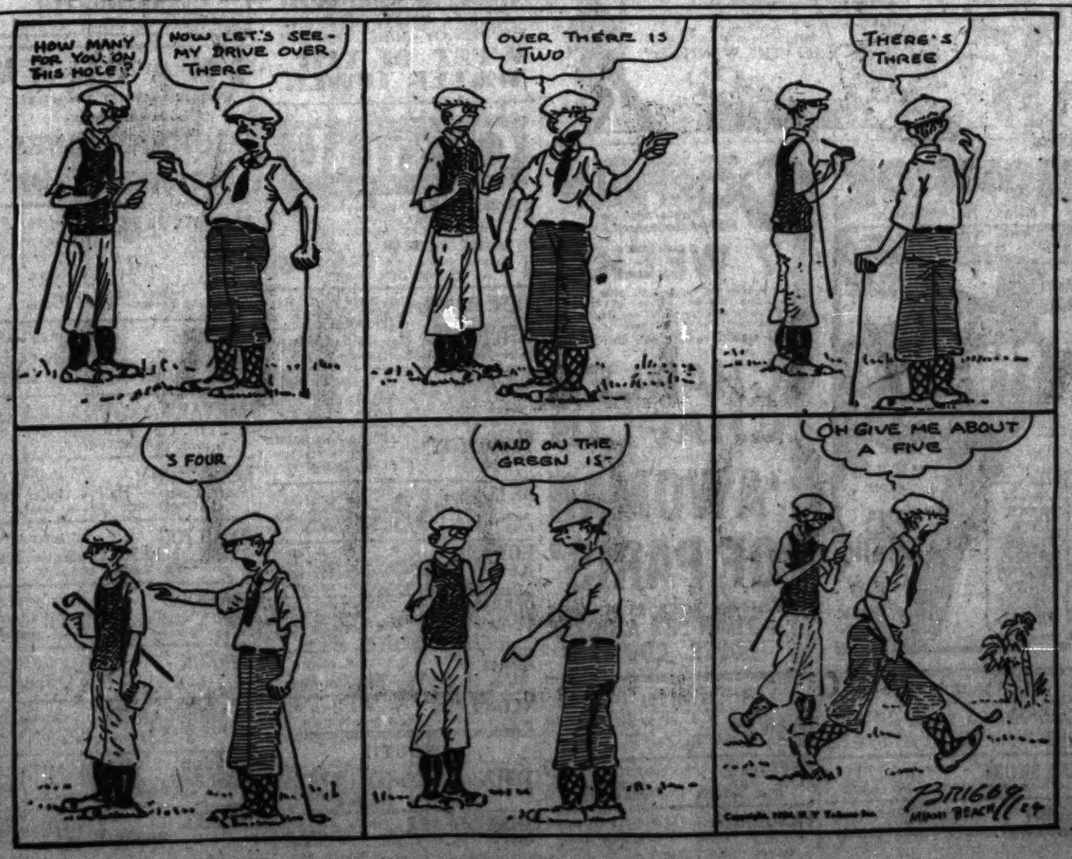

It was originally conceived as an opera score, then turned into a ballet, and finally published as a symphonic poem, in which form Mr. Stock conducted it yesterday. Not entirely unexpectedly, the performance at once began to start the imagination working on what was lost visually. It did not call for ballet action, the way Mr. Stock's concert version of "The Fire Bird" did three years ago, but it insistently demanded a stage setting. One thought continually of a stage set and hung with violent splashes of brilliant reds and blues, strewn about with irregularly shaped objects, apparently formless in reality with all its lines cunningly devised to lead the eye into a central focus.

Some such stage decoration as this would illustrate the effect of the music upon the ear. The score abounds with astonishing dissonances of a kind to chill the spine of the conventionalist. They are not there for their own sake, but as meeting places of continuously moving melodic lines crossing and interweaving. What is more, these are melodies with circulation and vital organs, and not in the least feeble anemiacs. It is music thoroughly alive, without pose, brilliantly scored, and in a high degree fascinating. You may not like it at first hearing, but I believe that it will repay closer acquaintance.

Mr. Salmond is so tall that one almost expected him to put his cello under his chin and play it like a violin, like a viola at least. But once settled down into the normal position of cellists, he began to disclose himself as one of the finest. He played the Lalo Concerto with a most gorgeous tone, a tone bearing close resemblance to that of Tito Schipa or Sigrid Onegin while singing. His technical ease became effortless; warmth and elegance of manner went into his interpretation; altogether he is an artist from whom much is to be expected, and deserving all the applause he received.

The rest of the program was entertaining, but less novel. It began with Debussy's early "Marche Ecossaise," continued with Beethoven's First Symphony, and ended with some excerpts from Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust," at which time Eric DeLamarter took the place of Mr. Stock.

Miss Barbara Dunham and John Luther Dole to Be Wed Next June

One of the most interesting engagement announcements of the winter is that of Miss Barbara Ward Dunham to John Luther Dole, which is being announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wirth Stewart Dunham of 1253 North State street and Wayne, Ill. Mr. Dole is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dole of 4915 Woodlawn avenue. The wedding will take place early in June. Miss Dunham made her debut in 1922.

Sailing today for Italy will be numerous Chicagoans, including Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, who was at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for the early winter; Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of 2700 Lake View avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Farwell of 1520 Astor street, Mr. Farwell's sister, Mrs. Henry N. Tuttle of 12 Scott street; Mrs. Christina K. Pomeroy of the Ambassador and her sister, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley of 1505 Astor street; Mrs. Samuel Insull of 1100 Lake Shore drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth G. Field of 4717 Kenwood avenue. Mrs. Lathrop, who will return in July, has taken for several months a villa near Florence, and Mrs. Ryerson is going to join her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Hyde Clark of Cooperstown, N. Y., at Alassio on the Italian Riviera. Later Mrs. Ryerson will take a trip to the Island of Majorca. The Farwells and Mrs. Tuttle will spend the spring in Italy and then will visit Paris and London. Mrs. Pomeroy and Mrs. Bentley expect to visit Algiers and Spain in addition to Italy.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Ruth Coverdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coverdale of 7546 Clyde avenue, and Kenneth Dennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Dennett of 4511 Dover street, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents. Miss Marcella Graham, Miss Ethel Lewis, and Miss Grace Weatherhead will be the bride's attendants, and Donald Dennett will be his brother's best man. Mr. Dennett and his bride will be at home at 7514 Merrill avenue after April 1.

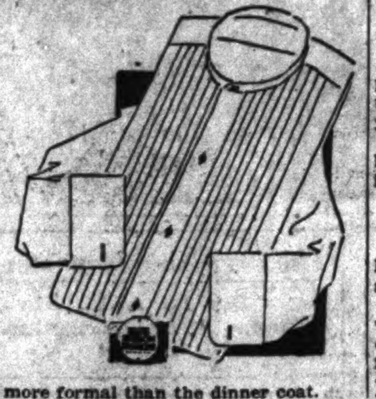

HAROLD TEEN—HIS PERFIDY IS REVEALED

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Innovation in Shirts.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The wives of men who come home just in time in the evening to dress for dinner and can't find their shirt studs and can't put them in when they do find them without soiling the shirt bosom will welcome this innovation in tuxedo shirts, because it will relieve them of some of the responsibility of getting their men dressed.

This shirt has a plaited soft bosom of corded pique, and attached is a tape holding four smoked pearl buttons which may be used as studs. Black smoked pearl is a tuxedo accessory that is permitted by the well dressed man, and so if one does not care for anything more elaborate or pretentious in the way of informal evening jewelry this prearranged shirt will do nicely. Cuff links to match should be worn with it.

Although some smart dressers are getting away from the plaited bosom shirt with dinner coat and insist that stiff is the only wear, there are plenty of advocates for the semi-stiff. That is, if this semi-formal evening wear is not being used for an affair that is more formal than the dinner coat.

By this we mean that if one is going to an evening function that strictly calls for full dress and yet one has no full dress suit and must wear dinner coat, it is advisable to have the accessories up to the standards of full dress. That is, wear a stiff bosomed shirt and a wing collar. However, the tie for dinner coat must always be black.

We are not in sympathy with indiscriminate substituting of the dinner coat for full dress. But it often happens that a man will have perhaps only two or three occasions during the whole season when he really needs anything more formal than the tuxedo and his finances are not such that he can rush out and order a full dress outfit. In such case a man is to be excused for making the dinner coat serve the purpose. But there is no excuse for laziness with regard to the accessories of the evening wear.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Corn Meal Spoon Breads.

The corn meal spoon breads are delicious and adaptable, easy to make and easy to bake, if you will remember one thing—pour this thinnest of thin batters into a sizzling hot dish to bake. This may be an earthen baking dish or an earthen plate or an aluminum baking tin or a hot handleless frying pan of the shallower sort, etc.

Given plenty of wetness and beat, corn meal will swell; otherwise a batter which contained only one cup of dry to two of wet, and an egg besides, would seem hardly like a batter at all, but this will work and work beautifully when the dry is corn meal.

Sour Milk Spoon Bread.

Two cups of sour milk or buttermilk, one egg, one cup of white or yellow corn meal, a half teaspoon of salt, a scant teaspoon of baking soda, or even a half teaspoon will do. Beat the sour milk thoroughly, add the beaten egg, and beat the two well together. Sift the dry ingredients, add them to the wet, and beat thoroughly. Bake in one brown baking dish of quart size, having it buttered and sizzling hot, or in two brown earthenware plates in the same condition. In the latter case it can be cut and served in pie shaped pieces.

A Small Recipe.

One cup of sour milk, one egg, one-third cup of corn meal, half a teaspoon salt, one tablespoon melted butter. Beat egg until light, add milk, and beat two until light and foamy, add salt and corn meal, and beat the whole mixture with the egg beater. Finally add the butter just melted and the soda dissolved in a bit of the batter. Pour into a hot one inch aluminum baking tin 9x9 inches, well buttered and standing over heat. Cut in squares after it has stood a little after taking from oven.

Vassar Alumnae to Hear Dean.

SMILEY-WILEYS

A Smiley-Wiley is a jingle of two lines. Any funny little rhyme that will make folks laugh is a Smiley-Wiley. For instance:

May your path be filled with roses
And your kids have turned up noses

You can probably write a better one than that. If so, do it and mail it to the Smiley-Wiley Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. The Tribune will pay $10 daily for the best one published, $5 for the next best, $3 for the third, $2 for the fourth, and $1 for each additional one.

First Prize—$10.

Said the preacher of the baby, when its mother couldn't still it,

Ida Himmilreich, 526 Ash street, Waukegan, Ill.

Second Prize—$5.

Old King Cole was a merry old soul, a jolly old soul was he;
He called for his car and his pipe and his bowl; but his daughters had all three.

H. L. Townsend, 3721 Lake Park avenue, Chicago.

Third Prize—$3.

So the doctor lost his patience; and they called the undertaker.

Maxine Pershing, 514 East Broadway, Logansport, Ind.

Fourth Prize—$2.

She stays (O, hang the luck) from eight till half past four!

Fifth Prize—$1.

They gazed at each other enraptured, but they will never do it more,

Miss Margaret Bowman, 1617 North Wells street, Chicago.

It looked like the end of an effort in rhyme—he'd been stuck for an hour for a jingle with month,
When he slapped in a girlie who lisped all the time, and he chuckled, "I've beaten N. Webster for onth."

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address Bright Sayings to Aunty Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

Aunt Grace has attended a mothers' meeting, and left Donald with a neighbor.

The woman, thinking to make a nice remark about Donald's mother, said. "Your mother certainly looked nice. She was all dressed up, wasn't she?"

"Yes'm," replied Donald. "She had on everything she got for Christmas, 'cepting her percolator." G. L.

Peggy Ann sent her father a valentine through the mail. When he came home that evening he failed to mention having received it, and, much disappointed, the child tried in every way to find out, but with no success. Finally she said, winningly: "Daddy dear, was there many valentines out today?" E. C. B.

I saw Betty mumbling to herself. I asked her what she was doing. "O, I is thinkin' to myself in talk," she said. C. A. R.

Splendor of First Empire Is Matched at Arts Club Ball

The splendor of Napoleon's soldiers and the beauty and allure of the women of his court were revived last night at the First Empire military ball given by the Arts club at the Palmer house. The old, high ceilinged, massive pillared ballroom was a fitting setting for the party, the last that will be held in the old hotel, which is to be torn down soon to make way for a more modern structure.

Although every one was not in costume of the directoire and first empire, enough were to give the picture the illusion of the brilliance of those days. The women, in short waisted, extremely décolleté gowns with long, flowing skirts, looked only a little different from those in modern dress, but the difference in the men's clothes of that period and today was pronounced. Brilliant colors, elaborate buttons and trimmings, high stocks and crescent shaped hats ornamented with cockades were the features of the men's attire.

The best impersonation of Napoleon was given by William McKee, whose costume was historically accurate and effective. There were numerous Josephines and Paulines. During the evening a program of dances was given by some of the Adolf Bolm dancers.

Strands of tinsel on the chandeliers and red satin hangings at the doors and windows decorated the ballroom. There were card tables in an adjoining room and supper was served in still another room at one end of the ballroom.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. was a drummer boy in a black coat and scarlet breeches and a black tri-cornered hat. One of the loveliest costumes was that of Mrs. Russell J. Matthias. It consisted of a flesh pink satin dress trimmed with lemon yellow ribbon and a cerise velvet bow on the skirt. Her hair was dressed high with the little curls around her face which were fashionable at that time.

Mrs. Alfred Landon Baker and Miss Mary Landon Baker of 1130 Lake Shore drive have gone to Washington for a month's stay.

George A. Thorne of 1130 Lake Shore drive, and his daughter, Miss Frances Thorne, sailed from New York on Thursday for South America.

Leroy A. Goddard of 1419 State parkway has joined Mrs. Goddard in California to remain until early in April.

Mrs. Keith Carpenter of Lake Forest, Miss Alice Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter of 1130 Lake Shore drive; Miss Theodora Winterbotham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Winterbotham of 674 Rush street; Miss Frances McFadden, daughter of Mrs. Parmelee McFadden of 219 Lake Shore drive, and Miss Madeleine Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs of 232 East Walton place, will arrive at home tomorrow night from a fortnight's stay in Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest are among the numerous Chicagoans spending part of the winter at Miami and Palm Beach.

Mrs. Frederick C. Letts of 999 Lake Shore drive will return on Monday from a week's visit in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster of 1318 Astor street are planning to depart on March 5 for Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry of 40 East Burton place and Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour of 920 North Michigan avenue will depart next Saturday for Miami to join Clifford Leonard on a cruise on his yacht. They will be away several weeks.

The first of two lectures for children by Louis Agassiz Fuertes will be given this morning at 11 o'clock at the Fortnightly. "Birds" will be the subject.

Mrs. Hardinge Scholle is giving a tea this afternoon at her residence, 39 East Oak street, for her mother, Mrs. Eugene Clapp of New York, who is her guest.

For the third successive Saturday Mrs. Arthur B. Wells, president of the Musical guild, will be at home to members of the guild and their friends this afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the guild house, 716 Rush street.

Mrs. Harry Joy Dunbaugh of 20 East Goethe street will entertain the Radcliffe College club from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon to meet Miss Bernice V. Brown, dean of Radcliffe college, who is in Chicago to attend the sessions of the National Association of Deans of Women.

Survey of Suicides Shows Woman Loath to Discard Vanity

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here is an interesting disclosure about women, although not exactly the cheeriest topic we might have thought of this morning.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has compiled some statistics on suicides and their methods of self destruction. And while it may be no surprise to the men of the community to learn that woman's vanity is a tremendously compelling force in all her movements, yet, we had been laboring under the happy delusion that with the approach of death we would find surcease from the vanities of the toilette at least.

Not so, it seems. To our last breath we, by the nature of us, must rise to inquire if the stray wisps are all tucked in. Now, we know, O Death, where art thy sting!

The insurance company's survey of suicide reveals that women fail to discard their vanity when they contemplate destruction. Even in death they wish to look well. Because of this, they seldom use firearms or the hangman's noose, razor or a flying subway as a suicide method. They choose the relatively slow methods of poison and asphyxiation and those which do not tend so much to result in disfigurement of the body or in the drawing of blood.

Men are different, less vain as they face self destruction than in life. Their favorite method of taking their lives is to shoot themselves, with total disregard to damage done to their beauty. Even the most fastidious of his sex is not concerned with his appearance once he makes up his mind to explore the unknown country.

We doubt the advisability of promoting any argument on the relative vanity of one sex and the other as based on suicide disclosures. So, we won't argue it.

Vanity up to a certain point is a virtue. Suicide from any angle is a cowardly deed.

One is sometimes impelled to deepest pity over the tale of a suicide whose mind is temporarily clouded by the stress of its seeming burden, as in the recent case of the widowed mother of six children who could not see that beyond her present circumstances life might still be tolerable. In this particular instance, we may believe the women had gone "sick in her mind," as the Irishman charitably defines insanity. Insanity, however, is not always coupled with suicide.

We might say that since deranged women become shockingly careless of their appearance, those who choose the non-disfiguring course of self destruction are not bereft of reason. Havelock Ellis hints that woman's sense of propriety and her intense horror of making a mess, rather than vanity, save her from the more devastating forms of suicide.

"Suicide by poison is the means most frequently employed by women," the statistical bulletin says. "Next to this, asphyxiation is the most common method among females."

The proceedings at coroner's inquests show that in a very large proportion of cases suicides are the eccentric, the perverse, the highly strung, the mentally unbalanced, and those who have not preserved the mental integrity necessary for the battle of life.

GOOP DIALOGUES

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

BY GELETT BURGESS

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BEGGING FOR SWEETS

And teases for forbidden sweets,
Who asks for soda and for candy
Whenever there's a shop that's handy,
That child is just a Goop, and so
I never take him where I go.

NOTE—If you know why Goop faults you want corrected, drop a note to Mr. Gelett Burgess, care of this paper, and perhaps he will draw a picture and write a verse about it.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Madly in Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 17 and madly in love with a boy one year my senior. I thought he cared for me, but the other night when I wanted him to kiss me he refused. I cannot understand his attitude, and hope you will advise me how to win his affection.
"ORTRUDE."

You must be madly in love, Ortrude. I am sorry to hear what you say about wanting him to kiss you. You cannot understand his attitude, but I can. Why, child, the boy must think little of you. Cannot you see that? You never will win his affection. In his opinion you are forward and not desirable at all. I do wish I could make you young girls realize the value of remaining the unattainable—something to inspire young men to strive to win. You throw yourself at him in a manner diametrically opposed to every fine instinct and ideal he has about women and, naturally enough, your advances are rewarded with the rebuffs they deserve. Harsh words, perhaps—but true, dear!

Asks Her to Wait.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 18 and am in love with a fellow two years my senior. My folks want me to give him up, as he is a merchant marine and is away most of the time. I have known him for five years, and he often tells me he loves me, and also asks me to wait, and in time we will be married. I have promised to wait, as I really love him. Do you think I am doing right by disobeying my family?
BROWN EYES."

If you love the boy, giving him up to please your parents would not make any of you happy. Even parents forget sometimes that nothing matters half so much in married life as love.

Using a Cape to Offset Its Sleeveless State

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Are your sleeves cutting capers? If so, you should join the general chorus of approval greeting the cape sleeve. For it is one of the features of spring wraps, and is exploited both in dress types and in less formal garments.

All recent reports from Paris give prominence to the cape. It is sponsored for frocks and for wraps, and of the cape costumes in both crêpes and woolens there is no end. Often, of course, the little cape featured on a frock is detachable. Yet why should we take advantage of this fact? Certainly it is a remnant of feminine grace saved from this era of middy tunics and boyish sack coats. One can think of nothing else, indeed, which adds so much to the slim silhouette.

The charming wrap shown today uses an ample cape to offset its sleeveless condition. Developed in beige broadcloth, it is finished with a collar of that summer ermine which is always at its best with beige. The accompanying hat may be either of beige or of rust.

We must repeat again, by the way, that beige is stressed constantly for spring wraps. In fact, its only serious rival is black. Of course, spring is always the impresario of the black wrap, but it has never been more successful in its presentment than during this present season. Satin, crêpe and alpaca are used frequently for these ebon creations. All of these materials encourage plaited effects, and frequently the accompanying capelet employing this feature repeats the plaits in the skirt of the coat.

POINCARE MAY FACE CRISIS ON DAWES' REPORT

[Copyright: 1924: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 22.—The report of the Dawes expert committee may produce a French government crisis. If Premier Poincare does not accept the experts' recommendation for abolition of the Franco-Belgian control of the Ruhr and Rhineland railroads and of the customs barrier between the Ruhr and Rhineland and the rest of Germany, the indications are that he will face in the senate opposition he cannot overcome.

The position of the premier is rendered more difficult by the fact that his renunciation of much of his Ruhr program may displease the nationalist majority which controls the chamber of deputies, but which does not control the upper house. Of course the prospects of payment of reparations held out by the acceptance of the experts' plan may have much to do with the attitude of the chamber.

Ask Free Rein for Experts.

When M. Poincare proposed the question of confidence to the senate last night on the issue of reform of the electoral laws, he won by sixteen majority. It is common knowledge that if he had not placed the existence of the government at stake he would not have had a majority and important members of the senate are authority for the statement that the senate kept him in office on the tacit understanding that he would not interfere with the experts' work.

Unlike the chamber, the senate is in control of the left, and the left, not liking M. Poincare's Ruhr policy, distinctly favors giving the experts a free rein to work out a solution of the reparations problem.

If the premier shows unwillingness to change his plans to a degree sufficient to accord with the experts' recommendations the senate will make an issue on M. Poincare's request for passage of his tax measure, and his enemies could muster more votes on it than on any other pending question.

France Spurns Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—[Tribune Radio.]—Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann bitterly attacked France in the reichstag today in reporting the refusal of the French to consider the German note of protest against conditions in the Palatinate on the grounds of noninterference in German affairs. Herr Stresemann declared separation would disappear in twenty-four hours if the French withdrew their support.

Wood Reviews Big Parade Washington Day in Manila

MANILA, Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The largest military parade held in the Philippine islands in the past fifteen years was reviewed today by Governor General Leonard Wood, Maj. Gen. George W. Read, and Admiral Thomas Washington. The event, in observance of George Washington's birthday anniversary, was participated in by 1,000 United States troops, including American sailors and marines, and several thousand cadets from the universities and colleges.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 22.—Miss Lillian McDonald, 26, who discovered recently that her fiancé had stolen her trousseau and given it to another girl, took poison today in an attempt at suicide. Ray Parsons, her fiancé, is in the parish prison on a charge of grand larceny.

HOME BREW KEPT FREE AS FRANCE BOOSTS TAXES

Poincare Defeats Plan of Socialists.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Feb. 23., 5 A. M.—(By the Associated Press.)—The chamber of deputies approved Premier Poincare's entire taxation and economy plan this morning after an all night session. The vote was 354 to 218.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Feb. 23.—(3:15 a. m.)—Premier Poincare, tireless and sleepless, urged the chamber of deputies on to new efforts early this morning to get his taxation bill supplying France with 7,000,000,000 francs ($350,000,000) additional credits finished before morning.

At 3 o'clock this morning parliament was still sitting and the premier was indomitably holding the fort against all comers. Louis Loucheur, considered one of Premier Poincare's most dangerous opponents, led the opposition debaters. Although he only has reached the sixty-first article so far, Premier Poincare announces his determination to keep parliament in session until the complete 109 articles of the law which will save France from further disaster are passed.

A heated debate on a proposal to tax home brew took up most of the day. The agricultural representatives fought the proposed taxation of home brew, hitherto exempt. The government, upholding the farm bloc, succeeded in defeating the Socialist proposal to tax farmers on beer and wine.

HERRICK CITES U. S.-INDIAN DEALS AS TIP TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Americans in Paris foregathered at a Washington day banquet tonight, with refreshments as in Washington's time enlivening the occasion.

Count de Chambrun, a descendant of Lafayette and an official of the French foreign office, and Ambassador Herrick spoke.

Mr. Herrick devoted his address chiefly to discussing America's problem of handling the Indians in the colonial and revolutionary periods. He seemed to his hearers to be drawing a powerful analogy to the treatment handed out by the powers to the smaller nations of Europe.

He said that without the influence of European politicians America could have solved the Indian problem without creating the "darkest chapter in our history." He believed that the Indians in America could have been welded into one great race, as Europe may overcome the destructive forces of national conflicts.

BUILDING TRADES FACTIONAL WAR NEAR SHOWDOWN

Efforts to establish who's who as official office holders of the Chicago Building Trades council will be made by representatives of international building trades at a general conference to be held Monday morning at New York City, it was announced last night. Delegations of local heads of building trades, representing both factions, will attend the meeting.

EGYPT BREAKS LOCKS; ENTERS KING TUT'S TOMB

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 22.—The tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen was broken into today by the Egyptian government, after Howard Carter had refused to give up the keys.

Shortly after 10 o'clock a group of officials from the department of antiquities, headed by Pierre Lacau, the director general, arrived in automobiles armed with sufficient tools to break into an American bank vault. Blacksmiths began sawing off the padlocks, while a large squad of police stood on guard.

The lid of the stone sarcophagus, encasing the golden mummy case of King Tut, which has been suspended by ropes and tackle since it was raised nine days ago, was lowered. New locks were put on the tomb.

Denmark's New Duties May Cut Off American Products

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 22.—[Tribune Radio.]—It will be almost impossible for American exporters to sell anything in the Danish market if the plans to support the failing Danish currency by increases of several hundred per cent in customs duties on all articles except those essentially needed by the population, are carried out, it was stated here today. Rubber, gasoline, coffee, and sugar are among the items on which the new duties will be levied.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

TRAIN COLLISION KILLS 3; SNOWS SURPRISE SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 22.—Food supplies and communications to cities of northern Spain were interrupted today as the result of a week's snowstorms throughout most of the country.

Railway communication between Madrid and the north was cut off at Guadarrama by a heavy fall of snow in the hilly country.

Three were killed and a dozen wounded last night when two express trains collided in the snow at Avila. The trains were destroyed. Similar accidents in mountain passes have been reported several times during the last twenty-four hours.

SETS FILM AFIRE; PERILS HUNDREDS; 12 HURT IN PANIC

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 22.—A movie operator in a theater here today threatened the lives of hundreds of persons witnessing the film La Garconne, which has been banned by France, England, and America, by setting it on fire. A dozen persons were hurt in the panic. Gen. Victor Marguerite, the French author of La Garconne, created a furore in Paris last year when he lost the Legion of Honor because of his authorship of the book.

If it has a market you can sell it with a Tribune Want Ad

THERE is always a market for standardized commodities and services. This market fluctuates with economic conditions. When this market is low, advertising effort must be greatest; when the market is brisk, the advertising effort may be less.

When you have an auto, a house or furniture to sell, the most powerful influence you have, whether the market is good or bad, is a Tribune Want Ad.

The enormous circulation of The Chicago Tribune (939,000 Sunday) which enables you to get your Want Ad message to one family in three in Chicago and suburbs, together with the confidence readers have in Tribune Want Ads, makes The Tribune Want Ad Section an immense reservoir of prospects for houses, vacant property, apartments, cars, furniture and for any other commodities that people buy or sell.

Ads can be ordered for tomorrow's paper up to 2 o'clock today. Bring your ad to the Want Ad Store at Madison and Dearborn Streets or phone CENtral 0100 and ask for an "Adtaker."

PROSPERITY OF 1923 SHOWN BY CHICAGO FIRMS

BY O. A. MATHER.

The annual reports of five Chicago corporations, representing a varied range of business and industry, were made public yesterday. The results added further evidence to the fact that 1923 was generally a prosperous year.

The Commonwealth Edison company had the largest electrical output in its history at 2,573,287,000 kilowatt-hours, an increase of more than 15 per cent over 1922. There was a gain of 77,852 customers, the greatest increase yet recorded in any year, and the total number now is 688,155. In order to care for this increasing demand for light and power, the company last year expended $26,900,000 for extensions and improvements, and plans to spend $29,500,000 this year.

Economies in operation resulted in an excellent financial showing. Operating revenues increased $6,028,086, while operating expenses rose only $3,164,475.

Net Income $7,552,117.

Net income for 1923 was $7,552,117, equivalent to 11.21 per cent on the average capital stock of $67,362,525 outstanding during the year, or to 10.49 per cent on the $72,000,000 stock outstanding at the close of the year. Net income for 1922 was $6,276,374, equivalent to 10.91 per cent on the average capital stock of $57,530,200 outstanding during that year, or to 10.46 per cent on the $60,000,000 outstanding at the end of the year. After paying dividends, 1923 produced a surplus of $2,163,115, which brings total surplus up to $12,703,312.

The company sold $12,000,000 of capital stock to its stockholders and increased its funded debt by $14,979,000. Fixed assets increased $24,272,246. Current assets increased $3,285,743, but current liabilities declined $4,408,204. Accrued liabilities and reserves increase $1,438,400 and $1,964,823 respectively. Total assets and liabilities increased $28,443,635.

Quaker Oats Present.

The Quaker Oats company last night announced a "present" of $1,856,250 to its stockholders, thus giving tangible proof of its prosperity. The directors declared a special cash dividend of 16½ per cent on the $11,250,000 common stock and also the regularly quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, both payable April 15 to stock of record April 1.

The special dividend will reimburse the common stockholders in the amount by which dividends paid in 1921, 1922 and early 1923 fell short of the annual 12 per cent rate paid prior to 1921 and since April, 1923. The directors expect to continue the 12 per cent rate. The present distribution results from liquidation of excess inventories and other working assets of 1918 to 1920, and also from the favorable earnings of the last two years.

Net Profits $4,992,004.

The company's annual report for 1923 shows net profits of $4,992,004, equivalent after preferred dividends to $29.41 a share on the common stock. But reserves were increased $791,063, this being described as "appropriated surplus," and with this increase is equivalent to an additional $7.03 a share. In 1922 the company drew on its reserves to the extent of $581,160. Net income in that year was $5,222,274, equivalent to $31.58 a share on the common stock. After paying dividend last year produced a surplus of $2,015,556, bringing total surplus to $6,877,214.

"The policy of urging our customers to purchase only to cover immediate requirements is working to our mutual advantage," President John Stuart says. "The experience of the last few years ought to show clearly to every one in the merchandising business the safety and desirability of a quick turnover of stock and the wisdom of employing working capital as far as possible in products that move quickly."

Lyon & Healy Have Record Year.

Lyon & Healy, Inc., musical instruments, also had the best year in the company's history. Net sales were $8,260,313, an increase over 1922 of $585,445. Net profits, after all charges, were $502,901, equal to $21.38 a share on the 23,528 shares of preferred stock outstanding and, after preferred dividends, to $1.54 a share on the 223,710 shares of par $20 common stock. Preferred dividends in 1923 amounted to $157,800, leaving $345,191 to be carried to surplus and making a total surplus of $524,479.

In January, 1923, the company was reorganized and recapitalized and sold $2,500,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock to the public.

Railway Equipment Prospers.

The rehabilitation campaign of the railroads resulted in a profitable year for the Chicago Railway Equipment company. Net profits for 1923 were $1,097,321, equivalent after preferred dividends to $14.30 a share on the 59,936 shares of $25 par common stock outstanding. Dividends of $3, or 12 per cent, were paid on the common stock. Undivided profits, or surplus, was increased by $707,738, now standing at $1,494,589. Capital assets increased $67,657, current assets, $654,428; current liabilities, $15,958, and total assets and liabilities, $723,696.

The annual report of the Interstate Iron and Steel company for 1923 shows net profits of $351,060, after interest charges and after deducting $395,686 for depreciation and $27,000 for federal taxes. This is equivalent to $17.03 a share on the $2,060,200 preferred stock on which cumulative dividends at the rate of 7 per cent per annum are in arrears since Dec. 1, 1921. For 1922 the company reported net profits of $231,574 after charges equal to $11.24 a share on the preferred stock.

Farrell Issues Call for Foreign Trade Council

New York, Feb. 22.—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, today issued a formal call for the national foreign trade council, of which he is chairman, to meet in eleventh annual convention at Boston June 4, 5 and 6. He announced that "our need for wider markets" would be the central theme of the conferences.

Pointing out that the foreign trade of the United States in 1923 averaged $26,000,000 each working day, having been almost evenly divided between exports and imports, Mr. Farrell said:

"There are facts that offer inspiration and encouragement to American foreign traders. They indicate opportunities for further extension of foreign trade and call for renewed energy and determination."

PRODUCE MARKETS

The produce trade took a partial holiday to celebrate Washington's birthday. There was a little business in fruits and vegetables for immediate wants. Oranges were offered freely and competition from different interests made an easier market.

There were no session of the butter and egg board.

Stocks of butter in cold storage at the four leading markets are 5,421,412 lbs, against 6,822,866 lbs last year, New York having the largest stocks. Egg supplies are 73,760 cases, against 14,596 cases last year. Stocks are now the lightest of the season so far, but large as compared with last year.

Live spring chickens were ½c lower and prices on other poultry unchanged. Arrivals were 1 car and 1,325 coops.

TWO PATHS TROD TO LOWERING OF NATIONAL BARS

BY SCRUTATOR.

Few apparently have noted the significant contradiction between two of the important forces that are working to denationalize the United States.

There are two avenues of approach to that goal—one lies through a breaking down of all economic and political barriers, such as our abstention from European alliances and our protective tariffs; the other through unrestricted immigration.

As a rule the advocate of no tariffs and a financial merger with Europe, in the form of remission of war debts, further loans and political intervention, is more or less of an advocate of looser immigration laws.

But these as a rule are dominated by other theories and motives than those which govern the more ardent opponents of restricted immigration.

Those who say that the United States is "violating economic laws" by its present tariff and financial policies, believe that economic "laws" are omnipotent, and are the real determinants of history. They believe that business has become international in character, and that therefore all national institutions and feelings that limit in any way the operation of the "laws" of trade, credit and exchange must pass away.

This is "economic determinism." Socialists originated the phrase. They did not originate the creed. It comes straight from the classical economists who followed Adam Smith. The Marx school of socialism got its economics by inversion of the classical economics, and the two are not so far apart as is generally supposed.

In the light of modern scientific and historical research, the almost forgotten truth that the "laws" of economics only assume importance in human societies that have made it possible for these laws to become operative, is again being given consideration. Other factors than those of economics are seen to play a part in history, and to some extent these other forces are antecedent to many economic factors. They can no longer be considered mere relics of an irrational past. Wisdom was not born with the steam engine, and everything that the human race had thought or done prior to the French revolution can not longer be dismissed as "barbarous."

One of the best testimonials to the living force of tribal and national impulses can be found in the protests now being showered on the house immigration committee by comparatively recent comers into the United States, who resent restrictions upon the coming of their fellow countrymen. The motive for that is not economic. They are mostly wage earners. But they do not react toward immigration like the older groups, whose attitude, as revealed in the official program of organised labor, is dictated by economic self interest.

The motive of these groups is altogether understandable and creditable. It is not for older Americans to resent the assertion among others of a solidarity, that we ourselves would probably exhibit under the same circumstances.

We have been kidding ourselves too long that a man's "innards" can be changed overnight by such external devices as naturalization, the ballot or "Americanization."

The slow yielding kin solidarity of the new comer results from the same sort of impulses that we call patriotism in ourselves, and that will later flower in our own kind of patriotism among these very stocks, if we are patient and use the proper methods for its gradual conversion. But while such feelings of solidarity with their kindred among the newer groups deserve respect, they should not be used as a lever to denationalize America.

We are fairly confident that, in process of time, we can absorb the groups we already have with us, because we have turned that trick in the past. But we also know that every solution has a saturation point, and all signs indicate that we are near it.

McMahon Biscuit Co. Is Sold to Paul Schulze

Purchase of the McMahon Biscuit company by Paul Schulze and his son, Paul Jr., formerly principal owners of the Schulze Baking company, was announced yesterday. The McMahon company has a five story plant at 21 North Green street.

The Schulzes, who sold their interest in the company bearing their name two years ago to the Freihofer Baking company of Philadelphia, purchased the Quaker Biscuit works from F. Westerman & Co. a year ago. It is their plan to consolidate the McMahon company with the Quaker company.

H. E. Byram Departs for Trade Tour of Orient

President H. E. Byram of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway left Chicago yesterday for a two months' tour of the orient. He goes on a semi-trade mission and will visit all commercial centers of China, Japan, and the Philippines.

Beaver Mills.

W. L. E.—Beaver Mills is a manufacturing unit of an organization engaged in producing and distributing a varied line of textile products. The company owns a plant in North Adams, Mass., and is acquiring one at Douglasville, Ga. It also operates a plant under lease at Waterford, N. Y. It is issuing $1,200,000 first mortgage twenty year 7 per cent bonds, series A, secured by a first mortgage on the mill buildings and machinery at North Adams and Douglasville and certain appurtenant real estate and other fixed assets. Fixed assets (after giving effect to the acquisition of the Douglasville property) are appraised at a sound value of $2,613,600, or over $2,170 per $1,000 bond of this issue. Based on this appraisal and after giving effect to the present financing, net current assets as of Sept. 29, 1923, are given as about $1,000,000, making total net assets of over $3,000 to each $1,000 bond. Combined net profits, after depreciation, but before interest and federal taxes and improvements ($376,128) to leased property under option of purchase, for the five years and nine months ended Sept. 29, 1923, averaged over 7.9 times the annual interest requirements on these bonds and over 4½ times the combined interest and sinking fund requirements on these bonds. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Marshall Field & Co. say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was considerably in excess of last week, but was recorded in somewhat smaller volume than a year ago for the same week. The week's road sales total established a high mark for the year, showing a considerable increase over the total of last week and last year during the corresponding period. There were more customers in market than in 1923 during the same period. Collections for the week were somewhat less than for the corresponding week in 1923."

The John V. Farwell company says:

"Wholesale dry goods business shows expansion for the week in number of orders recorded, but the volume was less than corresponding week of last year. There was a noticeable activity in city business during the week. Buyers were in the house in larger numbers. Collection continues to improve."

WHEAT HIGHER AT LIVERPOOL AND WINNIPEG

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All the grain markets in the United States celebrated Washington's birthday with a holiday yesterday. Winnipeg and Liverpool markets were open as usual, but had a light business. The dock strike is still on in England and food is getting scarce, so that prices are advancing. Liverpool wheat closed ¼@⅜d higher and Winnipeg advanced ½@⅝c, closing within ⅛@¼c of top; May wheat being $1.04⅝ and July $1.06. Oats were up ⅛@¼c, rye ⅝c, barley ¼c, and flaxseed 2⅝c for the day, with May $2.36⅝.

Good buying of wheat was on at Winnipeg early in the day against overnight export sales abroad. Offerings were light except a scattered run of selling against offers and on orders in the country and by a Chicago house. A little realizing at the top eased prices toward the last. A continuation of labor troubles in England is not conducive to liberal export buying for the time being. Logan & Bryan's report, however, said that local traders were divided in their ideas as to the future trend of prices and were not doing much trading.

The advance in flax was due to sympathy with grains and continued speculative buying with limited selling pressure.

Wheat Grades High.

Wheat receipts at Winnipeg were 388 cars, against 217 cars last year, with 105 cars No. 1 and 110 cars No. 2 Northern showing high grading. Oats receipts were 76 cars, against 73 last year. Rye, 3 cars, barley, 20 cars, and flax, 4 cars.

Sentiment of the grain trade here is mixed. There are many operators who believe this is the time to buy grains, as in most years they have advanced after this date. The unsettled political situation, however, makes traders go slow, and with other conditions tends to keep the trade nervous. The general disposition is to operate with caution.

RAILROAD NOTES

An agreement has been reached upon the assessments of the Louisville and Nashville railroad properties in Tennessee and those of the Illinois Central, according to a member of the Tennessee state equalization board. In the case of the Louisville and Nashville railroad the assessment figures of the last biennial period were increased $1,000,000 to $36,792,147 for localized property and $39,000,000, approximately, for distributable property in Tennessee. The assessment of the Illinois Central under the terms of the agreement was reduced $2,000,000 from the railroad commission figures, bringing the total assessment of localized and distributable property in the state to $24,000,000.

Approximately $5,000,000 will be expended on improvements of the Columbus division of the Central of Georgia railway, which covers the territory between Columbus, Ga., and Birmingham, according to a statement issued by President L. A. Downs of that road. Contract for the large program of building will be let about April 1, and it is stated that approximately eighteen months will be required for the completion of the big program.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

EUROPEAN MARTS SHOW GENERAL RISE IN VALUES

The New York Times.

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—American markets were closed today. In Europe attention was directed to the easing off of money rates at London and the slightly higher silver market; to an advance of cotton prices at Liverpool, probably following the late rise of Thursday at New York, and to a distinct recovery in French and British government bonds—the French 5 per cents selling today more than 2½ points above the week's low price of Wednesday.

The last mentioned movement on the foreign markets pointed to returning hopefulness, which may easily have been based on the outline of the Dawes committee's expected finding concerning Germany's capacity to pay.

Franc Rises Rapidly.

This supposition was more or less confirmed by the action of the franc, which rose rapidly at both London and Paris. On the Paris market the price of sterling, measured in French currency, declined nearly 2¾ per cent. The Paris price for the dollar fell so considerably as to mean a rise in the franc from Thursday's New York closing of 4.22½c to 4.31c, the highest price reached this week and representing a rise of nearly ¼c from Tuesday's lowest.

This recovery retraces only part of the ground lost in the franc's decline from 5.04½c on the first day of January to last Tuesday's 4.07½c, but the essential fact is the change in the market's attitude.

Easy Money Feature Here.

Our own market ends the week with easy money again the outstanding consideration. The New York reserve bank's rediscount rate is 4½ per cent and the open market rate for high grade commercial paper, 4½@5 per cent.

A year ago this week, the bank rate was raised from 4 to 4½ in spite of the fact that open market rates were ¼ of 1 per cent below this week's. It was then advanced, not to "check the business boom," but because, with the bank rate lower at New York than in the west and with western demand for money widening, the low New York rediscount charge was throwing on Wall street a disproportionate burden of financing the interior trade revival. It would hardly be wisdom to revert to such a situation now.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Bar silver, 35 9-16d per ounce. Money, 2¼ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 3⅝ per cent; three months bills, 3 9-16 per cent.

PARIS.—Prices were heavy on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 54f 50c. Exchange on London, 100f 20c. Five per cent loan, 68f 80c. The dollar was quoted at 23f 20c.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

For the year ended Oct. 31, 1923, net income was £6,795,647, after depreciation, reserves, and other charges, as compared with net income of £6,273,399 in 1922.

AMERICAN LIGHT AND TRACTION [and subsidiaries].

Gross earnings were $31,147,757 for the year 1923 against $29,015,393 in 1922, an increase of $2,132,363, or 6.8 per cent. After deducting all charges of subsidiaries and $1,205,000 depreciation, the total net applicable to the holding company aggregated $3,624,924, comparing with $3,696,394 in the last previous year and $2,985,531 in 1921. Of the gross revenues, 74.69 per cent was supplied by sales of gas, 18.56 per cent from electric sales, and 6.10 per cent from traction subsidiaries. The Detroit City Gas company, American Light's chief gas subsidiary, is now engaged with the city of Detroit in a litigation over its gas rates.

SHAWINIGAN WATER AND POWER.

	1923.	1922.
Gross	$5,110,539	$4,622,641

PRESSED STEEL CAR.

The company's pamphlet report for year ended Dec. 31, 1923, shows net income of $1,706,861 after interest, taxes, and depreciation, equivalent after preferred dividends to $6.65 a share on the outstanding $12,500,000 common stock. This compares with a deficit of $341,688 in 1922. Income account for 1923 compares as follows:

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 last shows notes and accounts receivable, $7,842,320; inventory, $5,116,420; cash, $2,190,142; accounts payable $4,357,537; notes payable, $1,000,000.

THE Elevated Roads of Chicago have been consolidated under the name of Chicago Rapid Transit Co.

The following issues become underlying bonds of the new company and are secured by first mortgages on their respective divisions.

Another slump of 10@25c in hog values yesterday carried the general average price back to low point of the year, or $6.90, against $7.05 Thursday, $7.25 Wednesday, and $7.15 a week ago. After a decidedly weak start, the market strengthened some, due to unusually large Friday shipping orders, which absorbed 20,000. Receipts were estimated at 62,000, with 20,000 over from Thursday, making a total supply of 82,000. The larger packers followed the market indifferently, leaving 19,000 in the pens.

This week's receipts of hogs at Chicago promise to total around 300,000, or within 25,000 of the banner week back in January, 1916. Estimating the remainder of this month, February arrivals will total around 1,050,000, or 100,000 more than previous largest receipts for the second month of the year. Receipts opening month of 1924 at 1,272,587 stand largest on record for one month.

Only 4,000 cattle arrived yesterday, with quality poorer than usual. General demand was more indifferent than earlier in the week and values ruled steady to 25c lower. Some 818-lb yearlings sold at $10.35 with $10.00 next highest for 1,346@1,462-lb steers. Comparatively few were good enough to sell above the $9.00 mark. Butcher stock shared in the general depression, with canning cows, bulls and veal calves steady, and feeding steers firm. Outside of best kinds most grades of beef steers closed 25c below a week ago.

Lambs Regain Loss.

All of the decline in lamb values of Wednesday and Thursday was fully regained in yesterday's active session, with prices on a level with the high point of the season and closing on an upward trend. Top equaled the highest since July, at $15.75, being 25c above opening day this week and 75c higher than the close previous week. Prevailing prices are $1.50@2.00 higher than a month ago.

Demand for mutton and scarcity of aged sheep resulted in further uneven advances in prices, with heavy ewes reflecting the sharpest upturn. A small lot of 106-lb Colorado aged wethers at $11.00 stood within 25c of the highest price paid for strictly aged stock since June, 1920. Handy ewes sold at $10.00, with heavy at $9.50, being 50c to 75c above a week ago. Shearing lambs brought 15@25c higher prices yesterday, establishing a new high mark for the season at $14.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 9,000 hogs and 2,000 sheep, against 669 cattle, 13,500 hogs, and 2,544 sheep the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 65,000 to 85,000. William Olson marked 65,000, R. W. Oaks and W. S. Nicholson, 70,000; H. H. Moore, 72,000; Lester Armour, 76,000; A. G. Walhener, 77,000; F. R. Burrows, 78,000; F. W. Waddell and W. H. Overman, 80,000, and George Chandler and J. M. Waters, 85,000.

Avoid Paying High Rents.

We offer for sale on the Co-operative Ownership Plan individual 4, 5 and 6 room apartments in Crandon Arms, with heated garages if desired; located in the heart of the South Shore Country club district. These new, modern apartment homes may be acquired by the purchase of an equity in the entire ground and building, ranging from $3,700 to $6,000. Convenient terms if desired. A small safe investment in this new, modern, well located building and ground enables you to occupy the apartment you select at operating cost instead of rental. The monthly operating cost is enough less than the rental value to save your investment about each seventy-two months you own the apartment. Adequate provision is made for owners to sell their interest in the property or to sublease their apartments. The building is under construction; will be ready for occupancy April 15. The apartments have been especially designed for homes. The unusual size of the rooms, closet space, light and air will attract you. Apartments may be selected in the order applications are received. Well worth your while to investigate. Come to the building. Owners on premises every day including Sunday.

AM I RIGHT?

$4,500 will pay 3 years' rent with nothing to show for it. It will buy a good car which will be worth less than $1,000 after 3 years, or it will pay for the equity of a 5 rm. sun parlor apt. 1 blk. from Sheridan-rd., which will increase in value in 3 years. You can occupy the apt. just the same as the rented one and you can stay there. The upkeep is less on the apt. than on the car. You can buy any one of these three items on terms. "OWN A HOME first." If you WILL pay rent and you MUST have a car, buy the one you need, a MOVING VAN.

Investigate The Andridge Co-operative Plan. By purchasing an apartment under this plan others have found welcome relief from the pressure of present high rents. They are saving from 30 to 50 per cent. They are building up their capital and borrowing power instead of accumulating rent receipts and cancelled checks. At the same time they are enjoying both the satisfactions of home ownership and the conveniences of apartment life.

SAVINGS OF ANDRIDGE PLAN.

Six items of expense which tend to push apartment rents up are saved completely by those who purchase Andridge homes: [1] losses from vacant apartments; [2] losses from uncollectable rents; [3] fees for building management; [4] the cost of excessive decorating and repairing due to the carelessness and frequent shifting of tenants; [5] the landlord's profit; [6] costs resulting from speculative buying of apartment buildings.

SEE OUR BUILDINGS.

THE MARQUETTE, at the northwest corner of Washington-blvd. and North Pine-av. Four and five room apartments.

THE RANDOAKE, at the southwest corner of Austin-blvd. and Randolph-st. Four, five and six room apartments.

In addition we have two completed buildings in Evanston and one under construction on South Shore Drive to be ready May 1st. Representative at all buildings daily.

All Andridge buildings are all new, all well constructed, all planned and equipped for daily comfort, all conveniently near transportation, schools, shops and recreation centers.

Descriptive booklets on any of our buildings will be mailed promptly on request without obligation. Find out exactly what The Andridge Co-operative Plan offers you before you sign another tenant's lease.

OPPORTUNITY COMES
OPPORTUNITY GOES.

This is your opportunity; grasp it; don't let it pass by; you had opportunity to buy property at the Wilson-av., Howard-st. and Kimball-av. elevated terminal; if you bought you made thousands; if you did not, you must be sorry now. Some one did buy and made big money. Now comes another elevated extension. Millions are going to be made by the wise investor who gets in on the ground floor and buys flat buildings or business property at so ridiculous a low price as we offer you today on very easy terms; $200 will start you on the road to success. Don't pass up this opportunity. Write for further particulars regarding elevated extension, also plats and prices and terms. Address J X 263, Tribune.

AN OPPORTUNITY

The small investor can afford. No secret lies in the fact that vacant property usually increases in value along a convenient transportation extension. The secret lies in the understanding of the details connected with a new development. During my experience I have sold property in the path of most all of the developments caused by transportation conveniences during the last ten years. The Dempster Terminal is my latest. Prices are varied enough to suit your pocketbook. No interest or taxes the first year. Write at once for complete information regarding latest developments in this town. Address K L 273, Tribune.

BIG PROFITS WILL BE MADE

If you buy now in the new elevated extension district on the North Shore; never again will prices be as low as they are now; don't wait and be sorry later on. Buy now and you will reap big profits. We sell on very easy terms. Write for further information regarding elevated extension, also prices and terms. Address G Y 288, Tribune.

WILLS Sainte Claire

"SUPREMACY OF THE HIGHWAY"

The best motor car investment possible to make is a reconditioned Wills Sainte Claire with its powerful 8 cylinder V type motor, set at a 30 degree angle, with overhead valves and camshaft, combined with its long, low, sweeping artistic lines. There is charm to them—an atmosphere of distinguished character that is a fitting outward expression of the inherent quality of the Wills Sainte Clair.
